Foreword

By January 2013 the Automobile Club de l'Ouest had received 71 entry requests - actually the same number as in 2012, so Le Mans is still very attractive. However, the championship itself seems to be different: looking at the annual dress rehearsal at Spa Franchorchamps, the reduction in numbers of participants was noticeable. From 50+ cars in the pre-WEC era the grid went down to 40 cars in 2012 and even further down to just 35 cars this year.

LMP1: From 13 cars in 2012 this class is now down to 8 cars only - never before have I seen so few cars in the top category of a Le Mans grid. One can only hope it gets better with the return of Porsche to LMP1. Audi shows up with a strong 3 car driver line-up, while Toyota seems to be on a tighter budget and sends just 2 cars to La Sarthe. Compared to Audi, their whole WEC effort seems to be a little bit half-hearted - there was also only 1 car with the latest spec for the dress rehearsal at Spa. The rest of the LMP1 Story is quickly told: we will see the 2 Rebellion Lolas and a single HPD from Strakka Racing. That's it! Despite the fact that Toyota managed to squeeze an "adjustment of performance" (3 litres fuel capacity extra for petrol engines) out of the A.C.O, I still see Audi as the clear favourite for the overall win.

LMP2: With 22 competitors this is once again by far the largest class, we can expect to see some really close racing in this category. Looking back one can clearly state that this class had the best development, a big change from only a few years ago when it was often a "last man standing" story and simply finishing the race could even get you on the podium. The first 2 WEC rounds demonstrated very good reliability, the engine side of P2 being once again dominated by Nissan-powered cars. It will be interesting to watch the performance of the 2 brand new Lotus chassis as well as the first Chinese entry ever, the Morgan Nissan No. 47 from the KPMC team. Favourites? None, this will be tight.

GTE Pro / Am: Hooray and welcome back! For the first time since 1998 the name "Porsche AG" is back on the entry list. This works effort can also be seen as a dress rehearsal for 2014, when the guys from Zuffenhausen will return in the LMP1 class. The GTE Pro and Am categories will see a big battle of manufacturers in 2013: Porsche, Ferrari, Aston Martin, Viper and Corvette. Aston Martin shows up with an armada of 5(!) works cars. Welcome back also to the Vipers, more than 10 years after the last Viper roared around La Sarthe we will hear 2 big V10 engines again. However, I'd bet my money on an Aston Martin win in the Pro category.

Garage 56: Unfortunately this will be empty - well, not really, since a GTE team will use it to fill up the grid. Not that I really liked the announced Green GT - on the pictures I saw it looked rather ugly with its over-dimensioned air intake - but I love the idea of allowing competitors to race new technologies outside the competition. For privateers or small teams putting a hydrogen car on track is probably a little bit too ambitious - you need serious budget and engineering resources to do so. However, the labs of Toyota, Porsche, BMW, Mercedes and the like should be full of such stuff - I actually hope that manufacturers will be going for a Garage 56 entry in the future. I would expect this at least from the one which claims to have "Vorsprung durch Technik". For 2014 Nissan has announced a "Garage 56" project featuring a car with an "electric innovative transmission", let's hope this turns out to become true.

Marketing: I still don't get it: Taking an Oreca chassis, painting it blue and announcing that "Alpine" is back - that's a similar joke like the LMP2 "Morgan". Come on Renault, you can do better!

On behalf of Club Arnage, I wish all of you an exciting 24 hours of Le Mans.

Deborah Clare Dudley - 25.1.55 - 5.9.2012

The Club Arnage forum mourns the loss of Deborah Clare Dudley aka "termietermite" who sadly passed away last September from cancer in a hospital in Le Mans. Deb joined the forum in April 2006 and with more than 4.300 posts she has been one of the most active members - and as all of us do remember she was also one of the most knowledgeable CA members when it came to the details of sports car racing and the 24h of Le Mans. Living in Le Mans together with her husband Ian, she also had the role of a field officer for this guide and gave enormous support for this project. For many years she took the pictures for the entry list; and chapters like "France and the French" are and will be an essential part of this guide. Having a beer with Deb at the side of the track and watching the sport which she loved so much together with her was something I had the privilege to enjoy for a couple of years. We'll miss her!

Hall of fame

Welcome to this edition of the Club Arnage Guide to the 24 Hours of Le Mans, a guide from fans for fans and a project which was first started beginning of 2006. Beginning of 2010 saw a little change in the editing process, we did put all information into a Wiki, all text can be maintained directly on the internet. More than 50 people have been involved up to now in the production of the CA Guides, wow! The following list of contributors – using either their CA forum nicknames and/or their real names – is probably not complete, apologies in case someone is not mentioned:

Adrian Jackson-Woods aka “ajw” for his help with the Paris CCDG airport–train to Le Mans and others; Allon Stokes and Graig Antill for Arnage campsite info and pictures; Anita Williams aka “Piglet” for her information about the Spay campsite; Bas de Graf aka “Bas” for compiling the www-links; Charis Whitcombe from Motor Racing Legends; Calum Cousins aka “ccr32”; Chris Clark aka “Chris24” for the Sebring pictures; Chris Howles from www.finetext.co.uk for proof-reading; Chris Norris aka “dukla2000” for the campsite Arnage report and countless other contributions; pictures, proofreading and much more, another outstanding effort from him this year; Christopher aka “Kpy” for legal advice; clkgrlm1 for his report about the Pincenardiére campsite; the late Deborah Dudley aka “termietermite” and Ian Dudley aka “Mr. Termite”, our field officers at Le Mans for many contributions; Derek Appleyard aka “Delboy” for his regular updates of the race regulations and many other chapters, Ewan Dalton aka “ewan” for help with the ticket pictures and his campsite security warning; “Fagey” for his pictures and much more; “Flapss” from pistonheads.com; “Fran” for her update of the Bleu Nord campsite; Geoff Morgan aka “smokie” for his contribution to the pit walk story; Graham Goodwin and Malcolm Cracknell from Dailysportscar.com for their permission to reproduce the Vic Elford report; Hansgerd Bramann aka “hgb” for his many pictures for the entry list; “h4muf” from pistonheads.com; Ian Swan for the “Le Port” campsite information; Jason Gore aka “Jason” for the chapter about the race marshals; John Curtis for info about the Saint Saturnin Classic British; John Dickinson aka “6Euros” for the campsite Beausejour update; John G for his work on the schedule; John Hindhaugh from Radio Le Mans for his contribution; JPS Beemer for updates; Julian aka “Jules G” for his Maison Blanche zoning map; Justin Moran for proof-reading; “Lorry” for many pictures from 1986-2009 at Le Mans, “Lofty” for pictures from Paul Ricard, Kristof Vermeulen aka “Dottore” from www.raceshots.be for his excellent pictures for the entry list; “landman”; “Lofty” for entry list pictures; Marcel ten Caat from www.planetlemons.com for the Le Mans history story and many pictures; Marius van Herpen aka “LangTall” for pictures; Mark Every aka “jpchenet” for the mad Friday report; Mark Williams aka “mgmark” for the campsite security chapter; “Martini” for Sebring pictures; “mwbenett” for his info for vegetarians; Neil Dobson aka “Dobbo” for his permission to loot his website www.racetours.co.uk; especially the brilliant map and the track description; Nick Livingstone aka “nickliv” for the tv info and proof reading; Paul Richards aka “Risky” for his info about Interieur Musee; Paul Robertson aka “Robbo” for the support race chapter and much more; Peter Catchpole for route descriptions; “rdj-pics”; Rick Wilson aka “Mr. Rick” for the Jacky Ickx story; “Rhino” his contribution to the pit walk story; Rob Preston aka “RobP” for the Tertre Rouge campsite description; Robert Walsh aka “Pilgrim” for his excellent Le Mans on foot story; Rupert Lowes aka “Nordic” for many chapters and excellent pictures; Simon Lowes aka “SL” for the Le Mans milestones; “SmithA” for information about the Le Mans bars; “Slash” for updating the campsite chapter; Steve Barnes aka “SJ” for his pictures, review of the Mulsanne and KN campsites and proof-reading; Steve Brown aka “Steve Pyro” for his chapter about the pretty route for sportscars and many pictures; “stu_mchugh” for information about the Mulsanne campsite; Thierry Charge for pictures from his site Les24hdu Mans.free.fr; Tony Brown aka “lynxd67”, for his contributions to the bars & restaurants chapter and for pictures; Trevor aka “topcatz” for info about the Beausejour campsite; and of course thanks to all Club Arnage moderators and administrators for keeping the CA forum up and running!

Last but not least the usual request: We have tried to be as accurate and up-to-date as possible. However, if you find that some things have changed, places or services mentioned aren't there any more or if you saw or experienced something in Le Mans which should be in this guide but it isn't, please help us to improve the next edition by mailing your feedback and information to president@lemanszone.de – or put it into our wiki!

A Call for Donations

Thank you for choosing to download this year's Club Arnage (CA) guide. As usual the guide is free. However we are once again asking you to spare a few Pounds / Euros / Dollars for charity as a way of thanks to those who gave their time and skills putting the guide together. Thanks to the few who donated last year, but only a disappointing total of £142 from 16 people was raised – although we had more than 2,000 downloads!

Whilst our charities remain the same (see below), we now have a different emphasis. Sadly, one of our respected members passed away in September 2012. She had been a very active member, not least of which was to supply many of the photographs used in this guide over the years. A specific call in her name raised over £350 from club members only last year; so please, don't be a cheap Charlie, donate generously to her memory.

Once again, our chosen charities are:

- Association of International Cancer Research, charity registration no. SC022918: The AICR funds cutting edge research into the causes of cancer. In the past 26 years, they have supported a large variety of projects in all corners of the world. Currently they have more than 220 projects underway. For further details please see www.aicr.org.uk
- Motorsport Safety Fund, charity registration no. 296802: After the death of Roger Williamson at Zandvoort in 1974, a fund was set up in his name with the primary aim of educating marshals on fire fighting and rescue techniques. In 1987, it was reconstituted as the Motor Racing Safety Fund and became a registered UK charity with the wider scope to generally aid improvements in safety standards at motorsport events. For further details please see www.motorsportsafetyfund.com

Payment can be made by bank transfer or Paypal to the Club Arnage Charity Fund from where the funds will be divided equally to each of the 2 charities listed above.

- Bank transfer: Account name: Club Arnage, Bank: Natwest Bank, Sort Code: 60-03-27, A/c Number: 78121477, IBAN: GB31 NWBK 6003 2778 1214 77, BIC: NWBK GB 2L
- Paypal: Please go to www.paypal.co.uk and donate to cafund@hotmail.co.uk. Please note: You need a paypal-account to do so. Please ensure your payment via Paypal is marked as a Charitable Donation which will not attract any fees.

Thank you very much in advance from all of us

Le Mans (not just) for Dummies – A brief history

Initial version courtesy of Marcel ten Caat, Gabriel Portos and www.planetlemans.com. All pictures are in the public domain except as noted otherwise.

Once upon a time...

It is 16.00 hours on May 26th, 1923 and 33 cars await the start signal under the pouring rain. A gruelling 24 hour race awaits them running in a road circuit of 17.262 kilometres. The drivers do not know it yet but this is the birth of the race of races, the first edition of the 24 Heures du Mans. The idea of a 24-hour race was not new and actually a few of them had taken place both in Europe and the United States already when 3 visionaries with initiative created what would become the most popular long distance race in the world. It was the combination of George Durand (secretary of the Automobile Club de l'Ouest, the A.C.O.) and Charles Faroux (editor of La Vie Automobile) that started turning an idea into reality after they met at the 1922 Paris Motor Show. The final ingredient was the involvement of Emile Coquille, Rudge-Whitworth wheels representative in France who committed a donation of 100.000 French Francs and established the triennial Rudge-Whitworth Trophy for the races of 1923-24-25.

So, with some strict (and sometimes complicated) homologation rules and a winner which would be declared only after 3 years of running for the main trophy, the first race started in 1923 with 30 French entries, 2 Excelsiors from Belgium and a single private Bentley representing the UK. By 16.00 on Sunday and after 2209.5 km covered in 128 laps, it was the Chenard-Walcker of André Lagache-René Léonard that crossed the finish line first although it would not be recognized as winner, rather as top qualified in the Rudge-Whitworth Cup. A whole odyssey with rain, mud, no windscreen wipers and a lot of champagne consumed at the "Hartford Hotel" (a sort of proto-paddock of the time), the experience encouraged participants to engage the year after and 1924 saw 40 entries for the June scheduled race. Just one of them was non-French and it would win the race: the number 8 Bentley of John Duff and Frank Clement which had learned the 1923 lesson installing front brakes to improve their performance. The following two years saw the domination of André Rossignol and his Lorraine-Dietrich, despite the increased international presence and entries ranging in the 60 cars.

1925 saw the first appearance of the "Le Mans start" which would be a trademark of the race (until the famous Jacky Ickx walk to his Ford GT40 in 1969) as well as the first two fatal accidents on the track. The Bentleys were very competitive but eventually retired so it was the Chenard-Walckers to win the only ever triennial cup and the newly established biennial cup. 1926 saw new pits, a new prize (the Index of Performance) and another French victory, the last one until 1932. And the reason for the first 4 of that 5-year drought was no other than the Bentley Boys.

The Bentley Boys

A fundamental step in the creation of the Le Mans legend, the 4 victories in a row of the green machines put the La Sarthe race into the definitive map of the greatest events in the world. Driven by the men that would become the everlasting symbol of the Gentleman Driver, the Bentleys were unbeatable until the appearance of another symbol of the big race, its first Italian winner. The names of Woolf Barnato, Sammy Davis, Dudley Benjafield, Bernard Rubin, Henry Birkin and Glen Kidston would forever bind the UK fans and teams to the dream of a 24-Hour win.

The 1931 victory would also be for a British team, however on an Italian car which would reign for another 4 years: the mythical Alfa Romeo 8C. The circuit, that had been shortened in 1929 to 16.430 km and would go to 13.492 km in 1932 was constantly evolving in terms of facilities, safety and road surface, therefore allowing higher speeds to be achieved and longer distances to be covered. 1933 saw 233 laps (3144km) being covered by the winning car, a works Alfa Romeo where Raymond Sommer (who had won the year before with Luigi Chinetti) shared the drive with the legendary Tazio Nuvolari, in his only (very successful!) appearance at Le Mans. Lagonda, Bugatti (twice) and Delahaye would be the last pre-war winners, the race not being run in 1936 due to a strike. The name of Jean-Pierre Wimille would be associated with both Bugatti successes (1937 with Robert Benoist, 1939 with Pierre Veyron), reaching a record 248 laps and 3354.7 km covered on the last summer before the start of World War II. By this time the Le Mans 24 hours was established as a top international event, one that manufacturers wanted to attend and win to show their cars' performance in the most demanding of events; a race where anything could happen and unpredictability was a fundamental part of the plot, circumstances that changed constantly and unimaginable reversals of fortune, the very same components that attract so many people to this day to Le Mans in mid-June.

The war would put a stop to the race and 10 long years would go by before a swarm of racing cars would return to La Sarthe to take history from where the Bugattis had left it. The spirit of the race would be reborn with multiplied energy and the 1950s would witness more amazing victories (including the first of a small red car with a prancing horse) and the biggest tragedy ever in motor sport history.

After the war

By 1944 the location of the Le Mans circuit next to the local airfield had taken its toll. Practically nothing had been left standing of the infrastructure after the bombings and even today unexploded bombs can be found when any modifications are going on at or near the track. So it was only through a titanic effort from the A.C.O. that the "24 Heures" could return in 1949 with new pits, new grandstands and a road surface in race condition. It was the start of a new era, an era where road racing would become the source of tales to tell your grandchildren, where races like the Mille Miglia, Carrera Panamericana or Targa Florio would flourish and attract the cream of the crop in terms of drivers, privateers and manufacturers. But the status that Le Mans had earned before the war as the greatest race would not change, and its fame would soar as communications became better and motor racing more popular.

The 1949 race saw a field with a big mixture of pre-war and modern cars. The British were now as numerous a force as the French and the presence of Bentley, Frazer-Nash and Aston Martin was much more noticeable. The victory however would go to a new marque, a car made by an Italian rebel that had been Alfa Romeo's racing manager many years before and was preceded by as many victories as conflicts: Enzo Ferrari. But it was not his entry, rather the British Lord Selsdon's one that saw the chequered flag in the hands of (now triple winner) Luigi Chinetti and Peter Mitchell-Thompson. 1950 would see a battle of epic proportions between Ferrari, Talbot, Jaguar and Allard. In the end victory would be for the father-son pairing of the Rosiers, the dad driving over 23 of the 24 hours in their beautiful Talbot-Lago. But by 1951 another new winner would start writing their history: with a wonderful streamlined body the Jaguar XK120C would win the race it had been designed for in the capable hands of Peter Walker and Peter Whitehead.

By this time Le Mans was also attracting attention from overseas and, after his first experience the year before with a regular Cadillac and the famous "Le Monstre", the American challenge of Briggs Cunningham would become a Le Mans feature as well as the pioneer in putting the race in the map for American motorsport. 1952 saw another new winner, this time a German one.

The unequivocal (and massive) presence of Alfred Neubauer in the pits, the collection of technical innovations and huge star signs to indicate where to stop were the clear sign of the presence of Mercedes-Benz at Le Mans. But their "gullwing" 300SL did not have an easy time and the main prize could only be clinched in the last hour by the all-German line-up of Hermann Lang and Fritz Riess who finished just ahead of their team mates Helfrich and Niedermayer. The leading Talbot where Pierre Levegh had driven almost 24 hours on his own gave up with practically minutes to go, possibly due to the driver over-revving the engine. A reversal of fortune so typical of this "gruelling monster" as someone qualified it.

The period 1953-1958 would see a ferocious rivalry between Jaguar and Ferrari which would become the first of many mythical head-to-heads at La Sarthe. The Jaguar C-Type from the works team would win in 53 with Tony Rolt-Duncan Hamilton after a Ferrari debacle that saw all but one of their cars retire or being disqualified. A new regulation was introduced as well allowing a maximum of 80 laps per stint and 18 hours total of driving per driver in order to avoid another "Levegh 1952" situation. But Ferrari would come back in strength in 1954 and the 375 Plus was able to beat both the Aston Martins as the new D-Type Jaguars. Skilled driving from Maurice Trintignant and the only South American winner ever, the Argentinian "Raging Bull of the Pampas" José Froilán González brought the first works victory for the Maranello team. "El Cabezón" González was able to resist the Jaguar pressure during a late rain period and give the Scuderia its maiden works victory at Le Mans as he had done at Silverstone in 1951 in the field of Grand Prix racing.

The catastrophe

The biggest tragedy in racing history would cast a black cloud over the Mike Hawthorn-Ivor Bueb victory for Jaguar in 1955. The infamous flight of Pierre Levegh's Mercedes 300 SLR engine and debris into the main grandstands taking the lives of 80 spectators as well as the driver's has marked Le Mans and motor sport forever and threatened then to stop car racing altogether in Europe (the ban is still valid today in Switzerland). Mercedes retired while Juan Manuel Fangio and Stirling Moss were in the lead in another 300 SLR but the race went on in order to avoid total chaos.

Renewed safety measures and the circuit shortened to 13.461 km incorporating a new section between the main straight and Tertre Rouge saw a big crowd show up for the 1956 race. In the first of two successive victories by the Jaguar D-Types of the Ecurie Ecosse, Ron Flockhart and Ninian Sanderson covered 300 laps of the new layout winning in a close battle from the Aston Martin of Moss and Peter Collins. Flockhart would repeat in 1957, this time with 1955 winner Bueb as partner beating 10 Ferraris and five Maseratis as well as the ever competitive Astons.

The Belgian Oliver Gendebien would score the first of his four victories in 1958 driving on a mighty Ferrari 250 Testa Rossa (nicknamed redhead, due to the color of the upper half of the engine block) with American ace Phil Hill. They had a hard time battle the Aston Martins until about noon on Sunday but they won comfortably after a series of rival retirements. The 1950s would end with a DBR1 Aston Martin giving the British team its only overall victory to date, drivers were the American constructor-to-be Carroll Shelby and Roy Salvadori. After 30 years of trying it even was a 1-2 since 2nd place went to driver-journalist Paul Frere and Maurice Trintignant in another Aston. Ferrari succumbed to the "hare and tortoise" tactics from Aston Martin which had sent Moss to drive at a furious pace from the start and forced the Ferraris (and the Moss-Jack Fairman car as well) to retire. The great "uncrowned champion" would never win Le Mans but Sir Stirling Moss is undoubtedly one of the greatest drivers of all times. But 1959 was just a hiccup in the dominance of the Prancing Horse, the 60s would see the small factory from just outside the city of Modena dominate "la grande épreuve" and trigger the fury of a certain Mr. Ford.

The Italian era

If the fifties had been the start of the mythical marque duels at Le Mans, the sixties would propel these duels to an unknown level. The decade would start with a Ferrari victory in 1960. Oliver Gendebien (1958 winner) and Paul Frere (second in 1959) would bring home their beautiful Testarossa, just one of eleven Ferraris entered. Only Aston Martin could show some resistance to this Ferrari swarm with the car driven by Roy Salvadori and none other than Jim Clark arriving third in his best Le Mans finish ever.

It was the time of the Maserati Birdcage, the Austin Healey and so many fast cars but it was the period where Ferrari would prove unbeatable in Le Mans: 6 wins in a row (5 by the Scuderia itself and the last one by the NART) would bring first an offer and then the rage of Ford by the mid-sixties. 1961 saw another Gendebien victory, partnered again by Phil Hill like 3 years before. A clean sweep with a 1-2-3 followed by a Maserati and a Porsche which could have been even more humiliating if a Ferrari vs Ferrari battle between the cars of Ritchie Ginther/Wolfgang von Trips and Pedro/Ricardo Rodríguez would have not taken those two cars out of the race. The following year was almost a copy of 1961, same winners, same Ferrari domination and another 1-2-3 against mild resistance from Maserati and Aston. Fourth victory for Gendebien and third for the Gendebien-Hill pairing in a field with 15 Ferraris entered.

In 1963 an early Maserati lead soon gave way to another Ferrari all-Italian victory with Lorenzo Bandini and Ludovico Scarfiotti putting their 250P on the top of the podium. A curiosity in 1963 was the inclusion "hors-concours" of the turbine Rover-BRM which even managed to finish the race (it would have been a virtual eighth). The Jean Guichet-Nino Vaccarella victory of 1964 made it 5 in a row for Ferrari. However, this year saw the debut of Ford, anxious to grab the top spot from the small Italian constructor. This would be the last year for Jaguar and Aston Martin for decades and it also was a year for the victory in the GT class of Dan Gurney/Bob Bondurant in another legendary Le Mans car: Carroll Shelby's AC Cobra. Another 1-2-3 for Ferrari and on to 1964. And another 1-2-3 would materialize when the Ferrari of Jochen Rindt and Masten Gregory would lead another two Maranello cars after a disastrous performance by Ford which saw all their MkIIs abandon the race in just a few hours.

The Ford – Ferrari battle

The Ferrari domination would come to an end in 1966 when the 13 Fords vs 11 Ferraris race ended with a legendary victory by Bruce McLaren/Chris Amon leading a procession of 3 Fords to achieve a 1-2-3 in the closest finish ever in history. The rest of the decade would be a solo of the GT40: 1967 saw the beautiful MkIV take the win in the hands of Dan Gurney/A.J.Foyt in a first ever all American win which also broke the distance record with 5232km run. The fantastic P4 Ferraris could only manage second and third in a tough battle with the American monster. But 1968, when the race had to be moved to the end of September due to the social unrest in France, witnessed two important facts: the first was the win of (yet another) Ford GT40 run this time by John Wyer Engineering with Pedro Rodríguez/Lucien Bianchi in Gulf colors, a team/sponsor that would become a symbol of Le Mans. The second fact was that a small German manufacturer that had always raced in small classes started now knocking on the door of the big win: Porsche. Since no works Ferrari was present due to regulations issues the Porsche offensive with their 908 car was even more visible and the Ford could take over only after the 908s showed their mechanical weaknesses, as did another future star: the Matra.

4PM clock so a thrilling and unexpected last lap brought Herrmann close to the Ford entering the Hunaudieres straight. A smart move by Ickx simulating he was out of fuel (a known issue in the Ford during the race) had Herrmann take the lead realizing too late that Ickx would use his slipstream to overtake him again at Mulsanne corner and hold the lead by 100 meters at the end of the race...la ronde infernale...

For 1970 a new, short lived age will start. Ford would be gone and the battle of the giants would take place between Porsche and Ferrari with a funny blue car watching right behind.

Battle of the Titans – Ferrari vs. Porsche

1969 was the last year of the Beatles together, the year of Woodstock and the end of the hippie era but it had also been the last year of the Le Mans start. The 1970 edition of the 24 Heures would see many unique happenings: A weird start with the cars in their traditional Le Mans layout but with drivers already in them, a certain Steve McQueen shooting for what would become a classic film among racing fans and the so-called Battle of the Titans between two very powerful cars ending on the first overall victory for Porsche. In fact the duel between the three John Wyer Porsche 917s and the four works Ferrari 512S was never as thrilling as in the film: a multiple crash in the rain would cripple the red team and leave one lonely car that never made it through the night and several issues would have the legendary Gulf-sponsored cars retire leaving the victory to the number 23 Porsche Salzburg 917 of Dick Attwood and Hans Herrmann.

For the first time one make got the win in all classes and all classified Porsches and Ferraris were private teams. The following year would see the fastest lap to date at Le Mans, the longest distance covered at 5335 km and the first rolling start which has been kept until now. The Porsches had again the edge but victory would again escape the Gulf-Wyer team and go rather to the Martini Porsche 917 of Helmut Marko-Gijs van Lennep, for the second time the short-tail 917 K (Kurzheck) would beat the "made for Le Mans" 917 LH (Langheck). Neither the privately entered Ferrari 512Ms nor the Alfa Romeos could beat the pace of the best racing car of the century in its last outing at La Sarthe.

King Henri and the Matras

For 1972 rules had changed and the 3-litre engine limit had completely altered the picture, much to the advantage of the small French Matra-Simcas who would become unbeatable emperors of Le Mans, this year with no real challenge as Ferrari was absent. This first victory was in the hands of Henri Pescarolo-Graham Hill making the British driver the only man to date to win Indianapolis, the Monaco GP and Le Mans with another Matra completing a neat 1-2 for the blue prototypes. Jo Bonnier was killed in an unfortunate accident leaving endurance racing without one of its main drivers and team owners. With the circuit now modified adding a complete new White House section, the next year would see a well earned Matra victory in an all-out fight with the all-but-Le-Mans conquering Ferrari 312. Henri Pescarolo was again part of the winning team partnered this time by Gérard Larrousse and they would repeat in 1974 even when gearbox failure kept them 47 minutes in the pits and put their lead at stake.

After their third victory in a row Matra would leave Le Mans and 1975 would see some familiar colors return to victory. And it was Gulf sponsored Mirage which would bring a British car back to the top of the podium driven by Jacky Ickx and Derek Bell and a first victory for the DFV Cosworth engine at Le Mans. John Wyer's team met again with victory in a year where the big works teams were absent and other names like Ligier or de Cadenet would continue growing as part of Le Mans history. 1976 would see again familiar faces on the podium when Gijs van Lennep and Jacky Ickx would help return Porsche to the first spot at la Sarthe. The Porsche-Martini team would start a long era of Porsche domination where having another manufacturer winning would certainly become a rare exception. Both the Porsches and their main rivals Alpine-Renault were using turbo engines in which would also be a change for the 24 Hour race. There was also a certain Jean Rondeau introducing a nice prototype called Inaltera...more about him later.

Alpine-Renault came back in 1977 with three cars but none of them would see the finish so victory was assured for the Jacky Ickx-Hurley Haywood-Juergen Barth Porsche when drama would come back to Le Mans in its typical fashion: a piston broke on the leading car with only minutes to go. Given their huge advantage Porsche decided to take a major risk and waited until 15:50 to send Barth back to the track with a crippled car to finish the 24 Hour race almost at walking pace in a very dramatic way. The race ended with a fourth victory for Ickx and a finish for both de Cadenet - now in his own car - and the Inaltera of Jean Rondeau.

But there is always a revenge and after their 1977 disaster Alpine-Renault managed to get their win in 1978 with Jean-Pierre Jassaud and Didier Pironi beating the Porsches fair and square in a race that saw Porsche even change Ickx to a better placed car in a futile attempt to give him his fifth victory. Renault retired from endurance after this victory so 1979 would see Porsche be total favourites with practically no opposition. And while Porsche would effectively win again with Klaus Ludwig and Bill and Don Whittington, the big news was the second placed car since one of the drivers was Paul Newman getting to the podium on his first attempt on the race of races. The 70s would close then like they started: Porsche on top and a Hollywood actor on the spotlight. The 80s would start in a very different fashion, with the first ever constructor-driver to take the honors.

The 70's at the Le Mans 24 Hours ended with a clear Porsche victory. The German manufacturer had seven cars inside the top 10. Apart from a lonely BMW M1 only one manufacturer was able to get two of its cars in the top 10, namely Rondeau. And for Rondeau finishing fifth was not enough... The Le Mans-built Rondeau was the car to beat in the 48th running of the 24 Hours. The number 15 Rondeau M379 of Henri Pescarolo and Jean Ragnotti had taken pole position, its sister car with Jean-Pierre Jaussaud and constructor/driver Jean Rondeau started from fifth place.

Early on in this very wet race it was the Liqui Moly-Martini Racing Porsche 908/80 of Jacky Ickx and Reinhold Joest that lead the race but lost it when the car suffered a problem. At midnight there was a Rondeau in the lead, but Ickx got the repaired Porsche back on the same lap an hour later. The Porsche increased its lead over the hours to come and had a decent lead at 7 am when it suffered a gearbox failure. Unfortunately for Ickx and Joest the Rondeau did not suffer any problems and while the Porsche was being repaired the Rondeau car of Rondeau/Jaussaud gained the lead. With just 30 minutes to go the rain came back and the Porsche went in for wet tyres in an attempt to finally close the gap and take the win. The Rondeau stayed out and won the race, despite a spin from Jaussaud (who did not hit anything), the first time ever a constructor won the race with his own car.

Despite announcing his retirement after Le Mans 1980 Jacky Ickx was back in 1981 with the Porsche 936. The car he shared with Derek Bell was in a league of its own and won the race after completing 354 laps. The Rondeau M379s finished second and third, 14 and 19 laps behind the winner. The 1981 edition however was marred by the death of Jean-Louis Lafosse who crashed his Rondeau on the Hunaudières straight.

In 1982 the new FIA Group C rules were introduced and while privateer teams were unhappy with these new rules, the manufacturers did support them. Porsche built a new car to replace its successful 936 and the Porsche 956 was the result. The car was unbeatable and the number 1 Rothmans Porsche 956 in the hands of Jacky Ickx and Derek Bell won the 50th edition of the 24 Hours. Two other Porsche 956 cars completed a Porsche 1-2-

3. The success of the Porsche 956 in 1982 meant Porsche could sell several customer cars to privateer teams like Kremer Racing and Joest Racing. With all these teams competing at Le Mans the 1983 race turned into a Porsche parade. Eleven Porsche 956s took part in the race and nine of them finished in the top 10. Vern Schuppan, Hurley Haywood and Al Holbert won the race, just beating their team mates Jacky Ickx and Derek Bell.

Lancia responded to the 956 with its LC2 but despite running well in qualifying the cars did not finish. The 1984 race was won by the Joest Racing entered Porsche 956 of Henri Pescarolo and Klaus Ludwig. They won in the absence of the Porsche factory teams, which disagreed with the new 1984 rules and therefore boycotted the race. Despite the factory teams not being there, there were still eight 956s in the top 10 at the end of the 52nd Le Mans 24 Hours. Once again Lancia tried to win Le Mans, but even though they claimed the front row for the race it was once again a Porsche on top at the end of the race.

With a revised 956, being named the Porsche 962C, the Weisenbach-based manufacturer returned to Le Mans in 1985. This car, that was eligible under the new IMSA rules, was not able to beat the 'old' 956s however and Derek Bell/Hans-Joachim Stuck only finished third overall. The race was once again won by the Joest Racing team, the number 7 Porsche 956 driven by Klaus Ludwig, Paolo Barilla and "John Winter". Winter was in fact a pseudonym for Louis Krages, a German who used this name to prevent his family from finding out he was racing.

A year later, in 1986, no one was able to catch the works Porsche 962C of Stuck/Bell/Holbert. The number one car finished the race after 367 laps, beating several other Porsches. Unfortunately the 962C win was overshadowed by the death of Austrian Formula One and sports car driver Jo Gartner. During the night, just after 2 am, Gartner's Porsche suddenly made a hard left turn on the Mulsanne straight after suffering a (suspected) jammed gearbox. The car hit the barriers at nearly 290 km/h, became airborne and rolled down the track until it came to a rest on the right side barrier and caught fire. Jo Gartner was killed instantly.

In between the 1986 and 1987 editions of the 24 Hours of Le Mans the track underwent some reconstruction at the Dunlop Bridge. A chicane was put in place at the Dunlop Curve as the ACO tried to slow down the cars around the track. Stuck/Bell/Holbert repeated their 1986 win by scoring yet another Porsche victory at Le Mans in 1987. The Porsche-powered Cougar C20 of Yves Courage/Pierre-Henri Raphanel and Hervé Regout finishes third making it the first time in years that there is a non-Porsche chassis on the podium.

The Porsche winning streak came to a halt during the 56th running of the 24 Hours in 1988. After four previous attempts with the XJR it was the latest evolution, the XJR-9, of Tom Walkinshaw Racing (TWR) that finally managed to dethrone Porsche. The number 2 Silk Cut Jaguar, driven by Jan Lammers, Johnny Dumfries and Andy Wallace, finished just over 2.5 minutes ahead of the Porsche 962C driven by Stuck/Ludwig/Bell. Apart from another Jaguar in fourth place the rest of the top 10 was taken by Porsche 962Cs however. The WM P87 reached a speed of 405 km/h early in the race, before breaking down, a sign that the attempts to slow the cars had failed.

In the final race of the eighties at Le Mans Jaguar was hoping for a repeat of their 1988 victory, but there was one other team that spoiled it for the British squad. Swiss constructor Peter Sauber, who had been running cars at Le Mans for more than a decade, and Mercedes-Benz became partners and Sauber's Team became the official Mercedes-Benz factory team. The Sauber C9 with its 5 litre Turbo V8 dominated the 1989 event. The number 62 Sauber C9 of Schlesser/Jabouille/Cudini took pole position and eventually finished fifth. Its sister cars went on to make it a one-two finish for Team Sauber Mercedes. Jochen Mass, Manuel Reuter and Stanley Dickens in the 63 car won after completing 389 laps. The number 61 of Baldi, Acheson and Brancatelli followed, albeit five laps down. All three cars were capable of reaching speeds up to 400 km/h. The winning Jaguar of 1988 was down in fourth place and seemed to have been tamed... The 90's would bring a lot more diversity in race winners and of course a new track layout.

The domination by the Porsche 962C and its predecessor the 956 in the 80's meant other manufacturers had to improve their cars and get higher speeds out of those cars to be able to win again. In the 1988 and 1989 races at the Circuit de la Sarthe speeds in excess of 400 km/h were measured and the FISA decided it was time to stop the fun. As a result of the intervention by the autosport federation two chicanes were placed in the Mulsanne Straight and when the 1990 race took place the drivers had three shorter Mulsanne Straights to tackle, rather than one long.

After winning the 1989 race Sauber decided not to return to Le Mans in 1990. The TWR Jaguar team did return to France with an all new XJR-12. Their major opponents were the works Nissan R90CKs as well as numerous Porsche 962Cs. Nissan took the pole position and fastest lap in the race, but the R90CKs did not last the full 24 hours. At the end of the day the Silk Cut Jaguars took a one-two finish again, with John Nielsen/Price Cobb/Martin Brundle beating everyone to take the victory. The renovation of Le Mans continued into 1991. A new pit complex, with modern boxes, pit stalls and suites was completed in the year between the races.

Out on the track a new World Sportscar Championship rule caused an upset. The new rules meant cars would be 750kg with 3.5L normally aspirated engines. TWR-Jaguar, Sauber-Mercedes and Peugeot built these cars, but nobody else did and there were not enough cars to fill the grid. The FIA reserved the top 10 of the grid for the new cars and invited older Group C cars to fill up the grid. The result was that the Group C cars were more reliable and quicker than the new cars and TWR and Sauber withdrew their new cars and raced with the old ones.

However this was not enough to beat the Oreca-Mazdaspeed Mazda 787B. The Japanese manufacturer had overcome the problems that troubled the Mazda 787 and with Volker Weidler, Johnny Herbert and Bertrand Gachot behind the wheel of the number 55 car they took the first ever Japanese victory at Le Mans, as well as the first ever non-piston engine car to win.

Despite the problems with the new rules in 1991 the FIA did not change the regulations in 1992 and the 3.5L rules ushered in a new era of sportscar racing. Peugeot, the only manufacturer that ran the '91 event with a 3.5L car, returned to Le Mans with the Peugeot 905 Evo 1B and took on the Japanese opposition from Toyota and Mazda. The number 1 Peugeot Talbot Sport entry driven by Derek Warwick/Yannick Dalmás/Mark Blundell was the first '3.5L' car to win Le Mans, beating the Toyota TS010 and the number 2 Peugeot 905. For the 1993 race the ACO made the decision to allow GT cars back in the race for the first time since Group C was created. As a result many Porsche 911s and Venturi 500LMs were entered. The GT category in 1993 was won by Larbre Competition, putting their 2 Porsches in first and second.

The World Sportscar Championship collapsed before the 1993 season started and Peugeot and Mercedes focussed on F1 projects. Peugeot did return to Le Mans however, with the 905 Evo 1B. Eric Hélary/Christophe Bouchut/Geoff Brabham gave Peugeot a back-to-back victory, the two other Peugeots finishing second and third. Toyota Team Tom's was the best of the rest. Following this dominant performance, Peugeot pulled out of sports car racing. With new IMSA regulations coming into place to lower the costs the 3.5L cars were no longer eligible to race in 1994.

New cars had to be open-top, flat-bottomed sports-prototypes with production engines. The so-called LMP1 cars were not able to fight for victory though as Porsche exploited a loophole in the GT rules. Two street-legal versions of the Porsche 962 were built and modified to fit into the GT category. Jochen Dauer ran the so-called Dauer 962 cars, with Porsche support, and finished first and third. Toyota ran a couple of Group C Toyota 94C-Vs and finished second and fourth. The first real 'WSC' car (LMP1) to finish was the Kremer K8 Spyder, 18 laps behind the winning 962 in sixth.

The 63rd 24 Hours of Le Mans only saw proper GT and WSC cars on the track. Entries like the Dauer 962 and dusted-off Group C cars were not allowed. The Le Mans Prototype WM's of Welter Racing took pole position and set the fastest lap time in the race but suffered mechanical problems and retired. The McLaren F1 GTR, which was in its first racing season, turned out to be the most reliable car around the track, as it had already shown in the '95 BPR Global GT Series, and beat the Courage C34. Yannick Dalmás/Masanori Sekiya/JJ Lehto completed 298 laps, one more than the Courage. The McLaren F1 GTR took the remaining top 5 spots. Porsche responded to the McLaren F1 GTR in 1996 by entering two Porsche 911 GT1s and intended to win the race overall, defeating the McLarens and the LMPs. They succeeded in beating the McLarens, but missed out on the overall victory as Joest Racing entered a prototype for Davy Jones/Alexander Wurz/Manuel Reuter that won the race. This car was built around a TWR Jaguar

XJR-14, modified to fit into the LMP regulations and, ironically, fitted with a Porsche engine. At the end of the day Porsche won Le Mans, but not with the cars they wanted it to win with.

The 1997 race saw the same outcome as the 1996 race. The Joest Racing Porsche WSC-95 was not the fastest car out on the track, but mechanical problems for the Porsche 911 GT1s and McLaren F1 GTRs meant Joest Racing claimed his second ever back-to-back Le Mans victory with the same chassis. The drivers of this car were Michele Alboreto, Stefan Johansson and Le Mans rookie Tom Kristensen. In June 1998 the number of manufacturers officially involved in the 24 Hours of Le Mans saw a significant increase. Porsche upgraded its 911 GT1, BMW entered its new BMW V12 LM in cooperation with the Williams F1 team, Nissan sent 4 new R390 GT1s, Mercedes was involved with the CLK-GTR LM and the American Panoz team sent two Esperante GTR-1s. The race became a war of attrition that was won by Porsche. The cars from Mercedes, BMW and Toyota retired with mechanical problems or accident damage, while the Nissan R390 GT1s and McLaren F1 GTRs did not have the pace to keep up with the Porsche 911 GT1-98s. Laurent Aiello, Allan McNish and Stephane Ortelli in the number 26 Porsche gave the German manufacturer the Le Mans victory it wanted and the number 25 Porsche made it even better after taking second place. Porsche announced they would not return to Le Mans in 1999, taking a sabbatical instead...

For the 1999 season the rules changed again. GT1 had come to an end and was replaced by the LM GTP category for GT prototypes. Despite Porsche not being at the race, the number of manufacturers involved did not drop. Toyota entered three GT-One cars, Mercedes three new CLR LM GTPs, while Nissan and Panoz moved to the open cockpit LMP class. Newcomer for the 1999 race was Audi. They decided to race in both classes and ran two open cockpit R8R's in the LMP category and two closed cockpit R8Cs in the LM GTP. BMW entered their new V12 LMR. The 1999 event became famous for the Mercedes incidents during qualifying and race. A flaw in the CLR design caused the car to become airborne. During qualifying and warm-up Mark Webber was driving the car when it lifted off. His car was withdrawn, the other two cars continued. Unfortunately for Mercedes a few hours into the race it was Peter Dumbreck who suffered the same problem. The Scot went into the air, over the barriers and landed in the trees. The whole accident was caught by the cameras and broadcast live on TV. Mercedes instantly withdrew the remaining car and withdrew from sportscar racing again. The race itself was won by Winkelhock, Martini and Dalmas in the Team BMW Motorsport BMW V12 LMR, ahead of the Toyota GT-One and the brand new Audi R8R. With another Audi Sport Team Joest R8R finishing in fourth place it looked like Audi had the right package to go for the win at Le Mans in the future.

The new millennium – Audi!

In 2000 three Audi R8's were entered and the R8 turned out to be an instant winner. During qualifying the number 9 R8 of Aiello, McNish and Ortelli took the pole position, the other Audi's were second and third on the grid. At the end of the 2000 Le Mans 24 Hours the same three cars were on top, albeit in a different order. Frank Biela, Tom Kristensen and Emanuele Pirro beat the sister cars to clinch the R8s first Le Mans victory.

In 2001 the Mulsanne straight was once again changed, the large hill on the last part of the straight was lowered in order to prevent accidents like the Mercedes-Benz CLRs becoming airborne in 1999. The race itself saw a famous name making its return to the French circuit. British manufacturer Bentley, like Audi owned by the Volkswagen Group, entered a Bentley EXP Speed 8 to challenge the German Audi R8. The race was hampered by heavy rain throughout the race but even the huge amounts of water could not stop Audi. The number 1 Audi of Biela/Pirro/Kristensen won again, 1 lap ahead of the number 2 Audi and 15 laps ahead of the Bentley. The 2002 race was driven on yet another

Le Mans circuit layout as the track was changed between the Dunlop bridge and the Esses. Once a straight it had now been turned into a set of fast turns leading to Tertre Rouge. Under much better weather conditions than in 2001 Bentley and Audi took on each other again and just like the previous years it was Audi that prevailed. With this result Audi Sport Team Joest and its drivers Biela, Pirro and Kristensen took their third consecutive victory as a team and manufacturer. It was the first time the same three drivers won the event three times in a row.

With the success of winning three times in a row Audi did not field a works team in 2003, but privateers like Champion Racing, Team Goh and Audi Sport UK did enter the R8 though. However it was Bentley that won the race, its first victory at Le Mans since 1930. The Bentley team was supported by Audi factory squad Joest Racing and Audi had put its drivers Rinaldo Capello and Tom Kristensen in the winning car, joined by Briton Guy Smith. For Tom Kristensen it was his fourth consecutive victory, a new record. After taking the win Bentley withdrew from Le Mans again which meant there were no official works entries for the 2004 edition of the race. Nevertheless several privateer teams returned to the track with an R8 and the car showed its capabilities by scoring a 1-2-3 finish. The winning R8 of Audi Sport Japan Team Goh had a couple of familiar names in its line-up, next to Japanese Seiji Ara Audi works drivers Rinaldo Capello and Tom Kristensen were in the car. For Kristensen it was his fifth straight victory at Le Mans and his sixth overall, he was now on the same level as Jacky Ickx. The Le Mans-based Pescarolo squad entered its own Pescarolo C60 to compete against the Audi's and finished fourth, preventing an Audi top 4.

The 2005 edition was driven in exceptionally hot weather. The temperature was well over 30°C and caused a lot of mechanical problems for the teams. The Pescarolo Sport C60 of Collard/Boullion/Comas had taken pole position and with French rally ace Sébastien Loeb behind the wheel of the second Pescarolo the French fans all came to Le Mans hoping for a French victory for the first time since Peugeot in 1993. Unfortunately for them the Pescarolo cars had a lot of bad luck during the race and despite the lower speed of the car the reliability of the Audi R8 was the key factor. The Champion Racing R8 in the hands of Lehto, Werner and (again) Kristensen won the race, 2 laps ahead of the number 16 Pescarolo. Kristensen set a new record of seven overall Le Mans victories, six of them in succession. He was now one win ahead of Le Mans legend Jacky Ickx.

Diesel power

Before the 2006 event started the ACO changed the Dunlop Curve and Dunlop Chicane area again and extended the pit lane, as requested by the FIA. After receiving many complaints about the longer and slower pitlane during the Le Mans test day the ACO decided to use the old pit exit for the race. Audi Sport Team Joest returned to Le Mans as the official Audi works team with the diesel-powered R10 that had replaced the legendary R8. The car showed it was able to carry on where the R8 had left and it was the number 7 Audi R10 of Kristensen/McNish/Capello that took pole position for the 74th Le Mans 24 Hours. However the number 7 turned out to be less reliable as its sister car. While the number 8 of Biela/Werner/Pirro won the race, ending the winning streak of Tom Kristensen, it was the Pescarolo C60 Hybrid of Loeb/Hélary/Montagny that took second place ahead of the second Audi R10. Kristensen did not improve his record, but Audi did rewrite motorsport history as the R10 became the first ever diesel-powered sports car to win Le Mans.

The return of Peugeot to Le Mans in 2007 with a Diesel powered sports car prototype coupé was the beginning of a battle of a series of 24 hour battles. In 2007 and 2008 Audi won again with the R10, although Peugeot had the much quicker car in 2008 they were defeated by their own pit stop strategy. For 2009 Aston Martin joined the battle – hoping in vain that changes of the regulations would equalize their petrol-powered engine with the diesel powered entries. Audi presented with their new R15 that proved not to be sufficiently race ready and Peugeot 908s duly took top honours.

2010 saw the renewal of the 2009 battle. Peugeot dominated the 12 hour season opener in Sebring and laid down the gauntlet to Audi. Come June Peugeot were odds on favourites to take the win at Le Mans and on race day four Peugeot 908's lined up against 3 Audi R15's. An assortment of petrol powered cars including Lolas, Zyteks, Oreca and the Prodrive Aston Martin were also entered but it was clear they still lagged behind the Diesels on pace.

The 3 factory 908's made good starts from the green flag and such was the pace of the leading trio of factory Peugeots they pulled out a lead of about one minute in the first hour. McNish was in the first of the Audis in 4th place having passed the privately run Oreca 908. But at about 7pm the lead Audi went for a trip in the gravel at a cost of 3 laps. The Peugeots could now ease the pace, something they looked very keen to do.

The damage to Peugeot's reliability seemed to have already been done with all 3 factory 908s and the privately run Peugeot 908 eventually retiring throughout Sunday (one suspension failure and three engine failures). En route to failure and as the situation became increasingly desperate the No.64 Corvette was sent into the barriers by the exuberant Davidson further adding to the embarrassment. Audi locked at the podium with a 1, 2, 3 finish for the Joest team. The petrol engine LMP1 race was won by Oreca and LMP2 was won by the Strakka racing Honda. It was fitting that the last LMGT1 race was won by a stalwart of the GT1 series the Saleen SR7, with GT2 glory going to the Felbermayr Porsche.

2011 - Peugeot vs. Audi - 13.8 seconds

In the 79th running of the Le Mans 24 hour race the Audi vs. Peugeot rivalry was reignited again and was the focus of the majority visiting La Sarthe that weekend. The Sebring 12 hour earlier in the year hinted that the Peugeots had the upper hand but Le Mans very rarely follows the form book.

For the first time since 2006 Audi took the top spot in qualifying with the Joest team setting a faster lap time than the much larger capacity previous evolutions of the Audi. Signatech Nissan qualified first in LMP2 and the newly created LM GTE Pro and Am categories were headed by the factory BMW team M3 and AF Corse Ferrari 458 respectively. As in 2010 the race started with 4 Peugeots taking on 3 Audis in the feature LMP1 race with all 7 mixed up in the top 7 slots. Even before the first lap was completed both teams were aware of the ability of the Peugeot to run one lap longer on a tank of fuel than the Audi. Over the course of the 24 hours this could crucially mean 2-3 less stops for the Peugeot team with respect to the legendary efficiency in the pits of the Audi team.

Within the first hour the first major incident of the race took place. Allan McNish exited the pits and thought he had an opportunity to dive past one of his team-mates just after the Dunlop Bridge. Unfortunately the No.58 Ferrari was lurking on the other side of the Audi, unsighted by McNish, who collected the Ferrari on his trip to the gravel. The Ferrari was relatively unscathed and re-joined the race but McNish was sent flying into the catch fencing before finishing up on his roof. The car was destroyed and the crowd held its breath and then released a collective sigh of relief as McNish opened the door and walked away. A spectacular accident that 20 years ago may have had a much sadder ending. The safety car came out whilst the crash barriers were repaired and due to the length enabled the Audis to make back one of their pit stop deficits whilst retaining the lead.

8 hours later and the crowd were stunned by a copycat incident involving the No.1 Audi (driven by Mike Rockenfeller) at the time and the No.71 Ferrari. In the dead of night Rockenfeller appeared to misjudge the routine pass between the Mulsanne and Indianapolis corners. He careered off the track and smashed into the barriers, the video footage showing the Audi disintegrating into thousands of pieces. Again the pilot was able to walk away much to the credit of the safety technology of the modern race car. The resulting safety car came out for over 2 hours whilst the barriers were repaired, an indication of the massive forces in the shunt. The length of this safety car resulted in a Le Mans first where a replacement safety car was deployed as the first one ran low on fuel.

As the morning broke the remaining leading Audi and Peugeot pack were close together with the staggered fuel stops causing the lead to change on several occasions. The teams began work on a finish strategy to ensure they wouldn't be pitting with only a couple of laps to go. Spectator calculations seemed to think that in this case the Peugeot No.7 would benefit and take the win but Alex Wurz through a curve ball, hitting the barrier at Indianapolis and dropping back 3 laps. This epitomized the closing hours of what many are saying is the best end to a race in a long time. Audi had worked their pit stops to give themselves back the advantage but a fuel tank issue meant they couldn't use the full 65litre capacity and an unscheduled stop was forced. At the final stop Lotterer in the No.2 Audi took the time to put on new tyres as well as fuel. Pagnaud in the No.9 Peugeot only added fuel and both he and Lotterer emerged from the pits seconds apart with the Audi ahead. The tyres paid dividends as both cars hammered round the track in a desperate sprint to the finish line with Lotterer's Audi pulling clear by only 13.8 seconds from Pagnaud's Peugeot to take the victory with the final lap at full race speed as opposed to the usual processional luxury afforded to the leader. This marked Audi's tenth win at Le Sarthe and moves them clear into second of all time wins from Ferrari on 9 and behind Porsche on 16.

A dramatic end to the GTE Pro race saw the AF Corse Ferrari narrowly missing out on the class victory to the Corvette Racing C6 despite finishing on the same lap. Corvette wrapped up a successful 24 hours by winning the GTE Am class.

2012 - The first hybrid car wins

2012 was another landmark in the long history of this race. First of all Le Mans became part of a FIA sanctioned series again, the WEC - World Endurance Championship. Almost 20 years after the last world sports car championship went down the drain; a new attempt to promote this sport worldwide has been made. The series didn't really have a dream start, just weeks before the first round Peugeot decided to pull the plug on their endurance racing program. The A.C.O .then managed to convince Toyota to step in - they actually had planned 2012 just as a test year. Without any dress rehearsal the Japanese sent a 2 car team to La Sarthe and for the first time there was petrol vs. diesel powered race fought by 2 large manufacturers, both using hybrid systems. Toyota did well for a couple of hours and even led the race for a short time - but after they had lost both cars due to an accident and mechanical trouble the race soon became another clear run for Audi. However, the German team had been unsure if the conventional car or the hybrid system would perform better and had brought 4 cars, 2 conventional and 2 hybrids. In the end Le Mans saw another landmark victory with a hybrid car taking the overall win for the first time.

The “Circuit 24 Heures”

Since 1923 this small part of France has been a Mecca for motorsports fans from across the globe. From fairly humble beginnings, today's race is watched by close to 300,000 people trackside and a TV audience of millions, making it one of the largest single venue sporting events in the world.

The 24 hour event has evolved from a complex handicap race where the car that crossed the line having covering the most laps, was not always the winner, to the balls-out 24 hour sprint we have today.

1923: The Pontlieue hairpin corner

Likewise, the track has had to change to accommodate shifting attitudes to safety and the expanding needs of this industrial city. The winners of the first race in 1923 were André Lagache & René Léonard, driving a Chenard & Walcker. While these two drivers have the honour of grandstands named in their honour along the pit straight, they would find the track very different today.

The original 17.2 km circuit which those pioneers raced on in 1923 started in the same area as now, but carried on much closer to Le Mans city until it reached an area known as Pontlieue, (roughly where the Carrefour now stands). There it turned sharp right onto the Les Hunaudieres straight, sometimes also referred to as the Mulsanne. From there on it travelled for miles towards Mulsanne village before turning sharp right again towards Arnage and then the pit straight.

In 1929 much to the disgust of the drivers, the track was shortened slightly to 16.34km. This was achieved by cutting out the hairpin bend in the village of Pontlieue at the request of the local inhabitants. It was replaced by two right hand bends joined by a short straight just outside the village before rejoining Les Hunaudieres and carrying on as before.

The track remained unaltered until 1932 when the A.C.O. purchased some land between the pit straight and the Hunaudieres. The Club now was able to route the track to avoid the fast expanding city and these corners were to evolve into the Esses and Tertre Rouge (French for 'Red hillock'). This new section proved to be a massive success with drivers and spectators alike, getting the right line for the drivers was crucial for a fast ride down the straight and a good lap time and provided the public with an amazing view that was to become famous.

The circuit was to stay with this layout until after the horrific 1955 accident when changes were made to the pit straight to widen it. This was costly, as it involved the moving of tonnes of earth and the creation of signalling pits at the exit of the Mulsanne corner, to prevent the drivers being distracted by pit boards. These changes made little difference to the general layout.

Until a few years ago it was still possible to see the remains of the signalling pits, last used in the mid 80s, just after the Mulsanne Corner.

However, the pace of competing cars grew, and the lap times fell by over 30 seconds. The speed differential between a 50's D-type Jaguar and a 60's Ford GT40 was becoming a worry and the A.C.O. realised that it needed to make a few changes. These started in 1968 when the Ford chicane was installed immediately before the pit entrance. This brought the distance down to 13.469 km. The organisers also added Armco along the entire circuit and created better runoffs. In 1971 the famous Le Mans 'ear of corn' running start was also forgone and replaced with a rolling start.

In 1971, a Porsche 917K driven by Helmut Marko and Gijs van Lennep, set distance and speed records that remain to this day. 5335.31 km (3334 miles) were covered at an average speed of 222.3 kph (138.9 mph). By comparison Audi's R10 completed 5187.0 km (3223 miles) in 2006 with an average of 215.40 kph (133.843 mph). The lap record in 1971 went to Jackie Oliver's 917 LH at a stunning 3:18.4 sec, an incredible average of 244.387 km (152.7 mph).

In 1972, the ACO continued its revisions and decided it needed to have greater control over the track. More land was purchased and a completely new section was created between Arnage & the Ford Chicane, by-passing Maison Blanche completely, before rejoining the existing track just before the start straight at the Ford Chicane, which was also modified. This lengthened the track to 13.64km, pretty much the distance today. The circuit stayed in this format between 1972 and 1986 with only some modifications to the Tertre Rouge corner to allow for the widening of the N138. The Mulsanne corner was also re-profiled for the construction of a roundabout.

In 1987 the Dunlop chicane was added. This slowed the cars dramatically on their approach to the Esses and destroyed a classic section of track.

The circuit, along with most other European ones, was also falling victim to enlarged runoff areas that have evolved into acres of gravel with the public having to face increasing amounts of mesh fencing between them and the cars, to the point where now, almost the entire track is fenced off.

However, worse was to come in 1990. The "Les Hunaudières" straight - along with the character of the entire track - was changed when two chicanes were added. Gone were the Langheck specials, corner speeds went up and top speeds fell. The track had fallen victim to a bitter dispute between the

A.C.O. and the FIA, who had brought in a new rule limiting the length of a single straight. The lap times went up by about 15 seconds. Whether the track is any safer with the chicanes is open to debate; true the top speeds of the cars were slowed by about 30 mph on the straight, but as a consequence higher down force set-ups were used then which has pushed up the corner speeds on the rest of the track. The one good thing to come out of this is that the small WM Peugeot team will forever hold onto the fastest speed down the chute. Set during the 1988 race Roger Dorchy hit 405 km/h (251.1mph) strapped into his WM88 Peugeot. The fastest in 1990 was a Jaguar XJR-12 at 353km/h (218mph) some 50km/h (31mph) slower. Despite some meddling with the Dunlop chicane and the construction in 1991 of a new pit complex, the track was to remain largely unchanged throughout the growth and death of the GT1 cars of the 90's.

In 2002 the Esses were extensively reworked at the request of the bikers to slow the bikes entry onto the short Bugatti track. This led to the loss of another seminal section of track. The Esses between the Dunlop Bridge and Tertre Rouge, once an exciting, tight yet flowing section of track, now became a wide open section of sweepers set in masses of gravel that could just about be on any circuit in the world. For 2006 the bikers once again demanded changes. The Dunlop chicane was tightened up still further. The sight of the cars sweeping up the slight hill at the end of the pit straight, then under the Dunlop bridge before dropping down into the Esses and onto Tertre Rouge is now a distant memory.

Work on the new Paddock and Village areas was completed in the early part of the decade, removing another part of the history of the Le Mans track. Gone was the country market feel of the old village, which had over time become rundown replaced by a large modern plaza. Extra garages were also added at this time to allow for an increase in the number of starters in the race. The track re-profiling of Tertre Rouge to allow for the new Tram link was completed in time for the 2007 race. This has opened up the corner so the entry speed onto the straights has increased and provides an excellent vantage point. The cars now pass the another sign of progress, the new Le Mans FC stadium, modelled on the Bolton FC Reebok stadium in the United Kingdom, Le Mans twin town.

Circuit changes - overview

1923 – 1928	10.726 miles, initial track
1929 - 1931	10.153 miles, hairpin bend at Pontlieu cut out
1932 - 1955	8.475 miles, new section from the pits to the Esses and Tertre Rouge
1956 - 1967	8.364 miles, wider pit straight, Dunlop curve changed
1968 - 1971	8.369 miles, Ford chicane installed
1972 - 1978	8.475 miles, new Porsche curves between Arnage and the Ford chicane
1979 - 1985	8.467 miles, modified Tertre Rouge corner
1986	8.51 miles, modified Mulsanne corner
1987 - 1989	8.41 miles, Dunlop chicane installed
1990 - 2001	8.45 miles, Mulsanne chicanes installed
2002 - 2006	8.483 miles, new section between Dunlop Bridge and Tertre Rouge
2007	8.480 miles, Tertre Rouge was modified

For 2012 the run-off areas at Arnage corner were extended. More changes are probably planned for the coming years as the A.C.O. continues to evolve the circuit to match the demands on both available space as the city expands and the speeds of cars. However, in recent years there has also been an effort to make the speed of the cars match the circuit standards. In recent years the A.C.O. changed the technical rules several times by restricting engine size and adding extra weight to the cars. Target was to slow down cars to lap times of 3:30 mins; a time which is considered to be safe for the current track standards.

2012: the current track layout

War of the classes

Le Mans isn't just about winning the race overall - it comprises four main separate classes, each entrant fighting for the honours in their respective class, and the competition within each often as fierce as that for the overall victory.

Following the spirit of the rules

Back in September 2008, the A.C.O. announced the general direction that the rules would take in the following years. In essence, the objectives were:

- to slow all cars down for safety reasons, the aim being to limit the fastest cars to a lap time of 3mins 30secs
- to create a level playing field between diesel and petrol driven cars
- to maintain the speed differential between the classes
- to reduce overall costs

The rules since 2008, including those for 2013, have indeed reflected the spirit of these objectives, in that the rules for the LM Prototypes chassis' have been kept stable, and the use of homologated (production) engines is increased.

The last few years has seen a decline in the entries for the old GT1 class; this class has now been discontinued, and all classes have been redefined. The classes are now (from 2011):

Le Mans Prototypes (LMP)

"LM" P is a class for cars with no production minimum requirements, although they are still subject to a myriad of rules. For example, minimum weight, overall dimensions and fuel tank capacity are proscribed and closely monitored. Cars are prohibited from having 4-wheel drive, and there can be no moveable parts of the bodywork when running. There are two categories within "LM" P:

LMP1 - The most 'open' class and the fastest, petrol or diesel, from which the overall winner will likely come. This class is designated mainly to 'factory' teams. Fuel capacity is limited to 75 litres petrol and 60 litres diesel. The no. of cylinders is free, the engine size limits are:

- 3.4 ltr atmo petrol engines
- 2.0 ltr turbo petrol engines
- 3.7 ltr turbo diesel engines

LMP2 - Chassis the same as P1, but with homologated petrol only engines (ie no diesels). This class is aimed at teams independent of manufactures and/or engine suppliers. The chassis is subject to lengthy homologation rules, and there can be only one evolution of the car per year. The bodywork cannot be altered apart from the 2 flaps at the front, and there is an overall cost limit for the chassis/bodywork (less engine and spares) of 355,000€. Fuel capacity is limited to 75 litres. Engine size limits are:

- 5.0 ltr maximum 8 cylinders for normally aspirated engines
- 3.2 ltr maximum 6 cylinders for (single only) turbo engines

New for 2013:

- 2014-spec cars are allowed
- Diesels are now allowed
- Only three tire specifications are allowed to be used: dry, wet and intermediate
- Only three engines are to be used in the complete calendar of races

Grand Touring Endurance (GTE)

These are cars built by manufacturers for sale on the open market: Engine sizes are limited to 5.5 litres for normally aspirated engines, and 4.0 litres for turbos. Fuel capacity is limited to 90 litres. These cars are based almost totally on the old GT2 specification, with a few minor changes (ie paddle shift systems allowed and display, push buttons and switches allowed on the steering wheel). Cars not homologated by a manufacturer will also be accepted if entered by tuners - subject to separate homologation criteria. All cars are limited to one evolution per year, to be made before the first race of the season. LMGTE is sub-divided into two separate classes:

LMGTE-PRO - designed more especially for professionals where up-to-date models are used as the basis for the race car.

LMGTE-AM - more for the 'amateur', where cars must be at least one year old and without further modification. This is designed to create a second-user market for GT cars. The crew is limited to only one professional driver.

Hybrid cars are allowed to compete in LMP1 only and be classified provided they meet the specified, very detailed criteria. The fuel capacity for hybrids is 73 litres (petrol) and 63 litres (diesel). The recovered energy can be used to drive either the front or the rear wheels.

Balance of performance

The A.C.O. also closely watches the performance of all competitors, with the intention of differentiating classes from each other as far as lap times are concerned, for example, a 1.5% difference in lap times between LMP1 and LMP2.

The A.C.O. constantly alters various specifications in order to maintain this differential, for example the size of the air restrictors, the minimum weight of the car and the maximum size of fuel tanks. A good example of this was in 2006 when the Chevrolet Corvettes and the Aston Martins were getting a little bit too close to the prototypes in terms of speed, so both were given 25 kg extra weight. They also specifically state that if any car shows a significant performance increase in the 3 races prior to Le Mans (i.e. Sebring, Paul-Ricard and Spa), then those specific cars will be 'penalized'.

2013 Rule Changes

As this is the final year of the current rules, as can be expected there are no significant changes to the rules for 2013. To attempt to 'reign in' the manufacturers entries in P1 (ie Audi!!!), works cars must carry an additional 15 kilos of ballast, their fuel-flow rate during re-fuelling is reduced, and the private entries are allowed an increased size of the air restrictor.

Similarly, the ACO will continue to collect data from the data logger with which ALL cars must be fitted. The data collected must be extracted at re-fuelling sessions, and the data transmitted to the A.C.O. An extra person will be allowed in the pit area purely to collect/change the memory card from this device.

Leader Lights

In 2007 the A.C.O. introduced the "leader lights" system. Each car must have 3 LED lights mounted on both sides; these lights have different colours for each class:

- LMP1: red lights
- LMP2: blue lights
- LMGTE-Pro: green lights
- LMGTE-Am: yellow lights

The leading car of each class will show one light switched on, the second place car two lights, the third place car 3 lights; if no lights are burning then the car is fourth or further down the order. These "Leader Lights" will help trackside spectators to follow the progress of the race, especially at night or in poor visibility.

This system was developed and first introduced by the organizers of the American Le Mans Series in 2002 with the original idea coming from an American race fan. It reloads at the timing line so it is basically the previous lap position that one is viewing.

The 4 classes – overview

The following overview page gives just the most basic facts, the exact regulations are very extensive with lots of technical stuff, e.g. numbers about the minimum of road cars produced for the GT classes, size of the wings and others. The complete rulebook can be downloaded from the www.lemans.org website. All figures mentioned are maximum values, except the car's weight of course...

LMP1

- Open or closed roof sports cars with room for 2 seats
- 3.4 ltr. atmo engine (max. 8 cyl) or 2 ltr. Turbo (max. 6 cyl) or 3.7 ltr. Diesel (max. 8 cyl)
- 900 kg minimum weight
- 4.65 m length, 2.00 m width, 1.03 m height
- 76 litres fuel tank, 58 litres for diesel
- Headlights with white beam
- Race numbers white digits on red background
- 16" wheel width, 28.5" diameter
- Bronze drivers are not accepted.

LMP2

- Open or closed roof sports cars with room for 2 seats
- Production based engines: 5.0 ltr. atmo engine (max 8 cyl) or 3.2 ltr. Turbo (max. 6 cyl)
- 900 kg minimum weight
- 4.65 m length, 2.00 m width, 1.03 m height
- 75 litres fuel tank
- Headlights with white beam
- Race numbers white digits on blue background
- 14" wheel width, 28" diameter
- Must include a minimum of one Silver or Bronze driver

LMGTE-PRO

- "Professional" GTE sports cars
- 5.5 ltr. atmo engine or 4 ltr. Turbo
- Minimum weight 1145 kg
- 4.8m length, 2.00 m width
- 90 litres fuel tank
- Headlights with yellow beam
- Race numbers white digits on green background
- 14" wheel width, 28" diameter
- Carbon brake discs
- The driver line up is free

LMGTE-AM

- "Amateur" GTE sports cars
- Specification same as GTE-PRO
- The car must be at least one year old
- Race numbers white digits on orange background
- Only one professional driver from Platinum or Gold class

Sporting regulations

The full regulations (see www.lemans.org) cover everything from what can be done where, the penalties for infringement, to a list of the 19 trademarks filed by the A.C.O. Although the regulations look rather comprehensive and strict, the organizers often leave themselves the option to decide differently because of "force majeure", a term which can be found many times in the sporting regulations. These rules now cover all races in the WEC Championship, with minor differences for Le Mans. The following list is just a summary of some of the rules.

Drivers Autograph Session

- All drivers must attend the whole autograph session. In 2013 this is scheduled for 17.00 - 18.30 on Tuesday 18th June.

Side Numbers

- As well as leader lights (see War of the Classes chapter), all side numbers must now be in the same 'class colours' with the exception of GTE-AM (where the leader light colour is yellow) ie LMP1 – red, LMP2 – blue, GTE-PRO – green and GTE-AM – orange. The actual numbers are in white on a background of these colours. They must also be lit so that they are visible in the dark.

In car Cameras

- All competitors have to accept and facilitate the setting up in their cars of a system of technical means enabling the production, the storing, the selection, the compression and the transmission of a video signal or any other signal via satellite.

The start

- The starting grid will be in a staggered 2 x 2 formation. After one lap behind the pace car there will be a "flying" or "rolling" start.
- The fastest driver in the team shall start the race.
- If a car can't make it to the starting grid, it is allowed to start from the pits. It has a maximum of 1 hour after the actual start to do so, after which the car will be excluded from the race.

Pit stops

- The engine must be switched off at the start of the pit stop; once the pit stop is finished it must be re-started without any additional device or outside assistance
- During refuelling no one is allowed to work on the car (except for driver changes and windscreen/rear-view mirrors cleaning), and the car cannot be jacked up
- Cars must be electrically earthed before the refuelling equipment is connected
- Fuel tanks must always be filled to the top ie no more 'splash & dash' scenarios
- For tyre changes, a maximum of any 2 mechanics (from a maximum of 4 designated) and one only air gun is allowed, and all equipment and wheels must be taken from/returned to the garage whilst the car is stopped in the pit lane. This is a change from 2008 and before when 4 mechanics and 2 air guns were allowed
- A third person is allowed only to retrieve data from the ACO Data Logger
- For other repairs in the pit lane a maximum of 4 mechanics are allowed to work on the car. The car must be pushed back into its garage where more people can work on it
- Speed limit within the pit lane is 60 km/h
- Reverse gear cannot be used in the pit lane - if necessary, the car must be pushed by no more than 4 people
- It is strictly forbidden to spin the wheels when leaving the pits!!
- From 2011 - all people permitted in the pit lane work area must wear long underwear and shoes. Could be fun to see this policed!

Repairs

- Chassis, engine block, gearbox casing and the differential casing cannot be changed
- Reserve cars are not permitted, so if a car is totalled during practice or warm up, it is out!
- New in 2010 - any broken louvres (typically above the wheel arches) must be properly repaired. Sticking them back together with duct tape is not allowed

Time penalties

- If you have been a naughty boy (or girl) the race marshals will show you the black flag and give you a timed "Stop/Go" or drive-through penalty. When this happens, you can do a maximum of 4 more laps before coming into the pit lane for your penalty. These penalties cannot be combined with a pit stop.

Drivers

- From 2011, there is a new system of placing drivers into one of 4 categories - Platinum, Gold, Silver and Bronze. See separate section in this guide
- A maximum of 3 drivers is allowed for each car. Drivers are not allowed to change to another car during the race, even within the same team

- During qualifying sessions, drivers must achieve a lap time at least equal to 125 % of the average of the 3 best laps set by 3 cars of different makes, and at least equal to 115 % of the best time achieved by the fastest car in each of the four classes. Furthermore, they have to do a minimum of 3 laps during night time qualifying sessions
- A driver is only allowed to drive a maximum of 4 hours within a 6 hours time frame (minus pit stop time)
- Maximum total drive time for a driver is 14 hours

Sound Levels

- The sound emitted from each car must not exceed 110 dbA during the qualifying practices and the race. The measurement will be made at 15 meters from the edge of the track.

En route

- If a car stops on the race track and the driver leaves it and walks further than 10 metres away from his car then the car will be excluded from the race. No outside assistance is allowed; only the driver can carry out repairs using tools and spares carried aboard. Supplying with fuel, water, oil, etc., is prohibited on and along the track
- Drivers are not allowed to push their cars
- Headlights must be on at all times, on the track and in the pit lane
- One of the silliest rules and difficult to enforce at night time: cars are not allowed to cross the white lines marking the race track or use the kerbs

Fuel

- All teams have to use the fuel provided by the race organizer.

End of race / classification

- Le Mans is an endurance race! You'll only be classified if you have covered at least 70 % of the race distance of the winner in your class and if you pass the chequered flag at the end of race. Leading the race for 23 hours and 55 minutes and retiring e.g. with a blown engine 5 minutes prior to race end won't get you on the podium or even classified, even if you have done already more laps than the subsequent winner.
- At 75% of race distance, all cars must have travelled a minimum of 50% of the class leading car's distance.
- It is forbidden to stop on the circuit to wait for the chequered flag and the last lap must be covered in 6 minutes or less.
- At the end of the race, cars must go to the Parc Fermé, and they may be checked.

Driver Categories

Not only the cars are categorized in classes, for a while now the A.C.O. has also put the race drivers into different categories – since 2010 in the Le Mans Series, since 2011 this system also applies for the 24h of Le Mans. Professional race drivers are rated as either “platinum” or “gold”, the so called “Gentlemen drivers” have “silver” or “bronze” status.

For the teams, certain restrictions for their driver squad apply:

- LMP1: Only drivers rated as “platinum”, “gold” or “silver” are allowed.
- LMP2: There must be at least one Gentlemen Driver (“silver” or “bronze”) in the driver squad.
- GTE PRO: No restrictions for the driver line up
- GTE AM: For the amateur GT class entries, only one “platinum” or “gold” driver is allowed per car.

The drivers have to take care themselves about their rating. They have to send a request for categorization together with their race driver cv and credentials at least 15 days prior to each race to the A.C.O. – together with a juicy administrative fee of €450! In case of a last minute driver change, e.g. at the beginning of a race weekend, the race stewards will categorize a driver.

Platinum

These are all internationally well-known professional race drivers below 55 years of age who meet at least one of the following criteria:

- Holder of a Formula 1 super license
- Has won the Le Mans race outright
- Have previously driven for a manufacturer team and have been paid for this
- Have finished a Formula 3000, CART/Champcar, IRL or GP2 championship within the top 10 positions
- Have finished an international top Formula 3 series or other top Formula series (e.g. Renault World Series) within the top 6 positions
- Do not meet the above criteria but are seen as a professional race driver by the sporting committee

Gold

These drivers have been active in national or international series on a semi-professional bases and meet at least one of the following criteria:

- Fulfill a criteria of the “Platinum” category, but are between 55 and 59 years old
- Top 3 position in second class international formula series, e.g. A1GP, Formula Renault)
- Top 3 position in a national formula series season
- Winner in an entry formula series, e.g. Formula Ford, Formula BMW
- Top 3 position in the Porsche Supercup
- Winner of an international manufacturer championship (Porsche, SEAT, Renault, Peugeot)
- Do not meet the above criteria but are seen as “Gold” race driver by the sporting committee

Silver

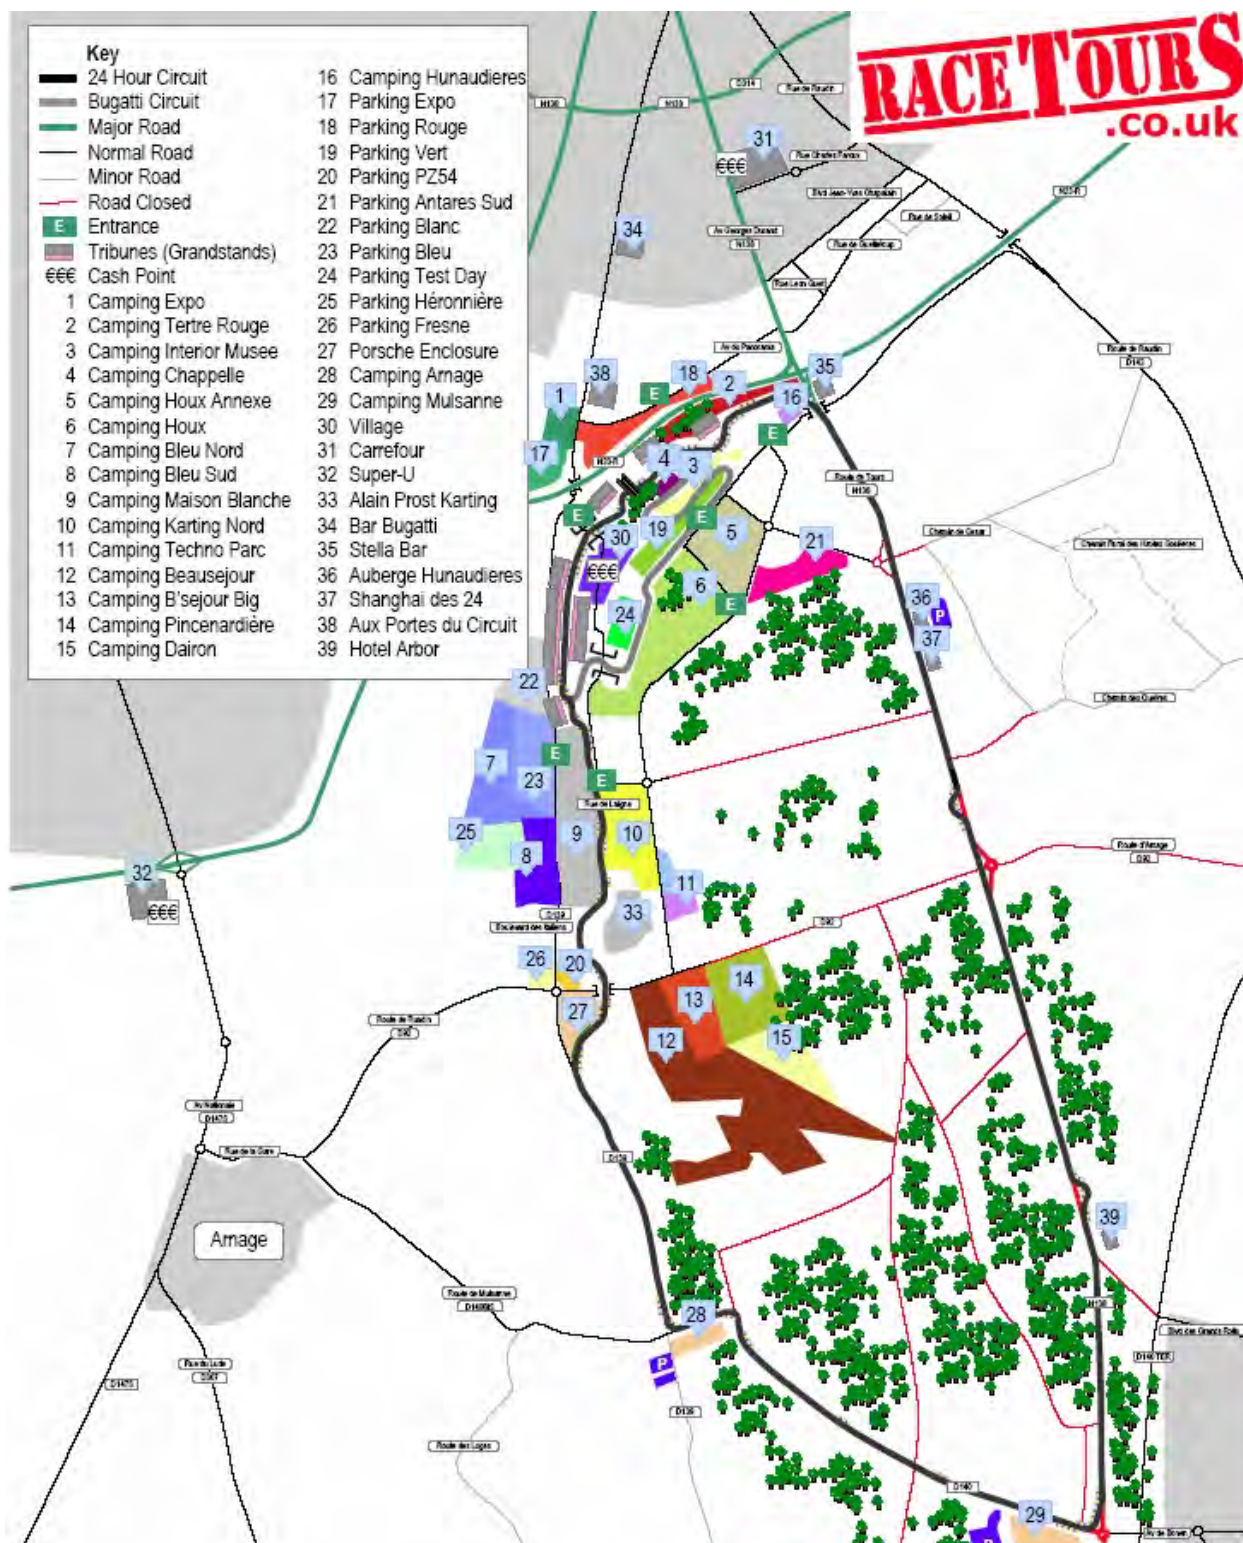

All race drivers who meet at least one of the following criteria:

- Below 30 years of age and not rated as „platinum“ or „gold“
- 60 years of age or above and fulfill one of the criteria for “platinum” drivers
- The driver has scored a race win in an international series or national championship together with a professional driver
- Has won a non-professional race series, e.g. Ferrari Challenge, Maserati Trofeo
- Do not meet the above criteria but are seen as “silver” race driver by the sporting committee

Bronze

- Amateur driver. Any driver holding an International B license without a significant record of achievement in motor sport.

Map of the circuit

Where to watch

Over the last couple of years there have been some noticeable changes to the spectator areas at Le Mans. These include better provision for disabled access, installation of more big screens and the raising of embankments to provide panoramic views of the track. For the most part these changes should be applauded as they have increased the accessibility of the event for the majority. On the down side the character and charm of the circuit has been sacrificed to some extent. However, out on the public road sections of the course there are still some fantastic opportunities for the plucky race fan to see the action in its purist form. Read on to discover the intricacies of this famous circuit and be prepared to do some walking!

Navigation: The General Enclosure is easily accessible on foot. It stretches from the exit of the Porsche Curves to the exit of Tertre Rouge, approx 2.5 km. There are pedestrian crossing points at the start of the pit straight (outside the media centre), the end of the pit straight (adjacent to the main entrance), after the Dunlop chicane and in between the Esses and Tertre Rouge. Access to the further reaches of the circuit requires a bit more planning. The enclosures at Arnage and Mulsanne are accessible by car and there is limited parking at both (see the relevant sections below for directions). Alternatively, a free shuttle bus (Navette) runs during the race - see Transport in Le Mans chapter for more details.

11 giant screens will be installed for the 2013 edition of the race, giving the spectator the opportunity to watch live action, whilst keeping up to date with what's going on on other parts of the track:

- On the straight line of the pits, opposite the grandstands,
- On the straight line of the pits, next to the Welcome,
- Opposite the Dunlop Grandstand,
- Outside the Tertre Rouge bend,
- Inside the Mulsanne bend,
- Inside the Arnage bend,
- At the breaking point of the Raccordement
- At the level of the starting line
- In the village by the Audi clock

FanVision (Kangaroo TV): This service will not be available in 2013.

Grandstands: These are referred to as tribunes at Le Mans. They are situated at the exit of the Ford Chicane, opposite and above the pitlane, at the exit of the Dunlop Chicane and The Esses outfield. It is worth noting that access to the tribunes is not restricted during Wednesday and Thursday's qualifying sessions; the separate tribune tickets become valid from Saturday morning. A grandstand seat will provide a guaranteed good view of the start and finish of the race and a place in the shade to regroup on Sunday morning, especially useful considering the temperature regularly gets into the 30s through June. However, if you prefer to sample the circuit in its entirety a seat in a tribune may not represent good value for money for you.

Pit Straight: There are concrete steps running the length of the pit straight in front of the tribunes. These serve as a free seating area enabling those without grandstand seats to view the action from this spot. Its extremely crowded at the beginning and end of the race but try to squeeze yourself in for the closing stages and you will be rewarded; once the last of the competitors rolls into park ferme the marshals open up the gates in the 8ft wall that borders the track, signalling a mass track invasion. Follow the crowd down to the finish line to see the winners presented with their trophies on the podium.

Dunlop Chicane: The Dunlop Chicane, within very easy reach of the ACO village, was modified for the 2006 season to bring the track speeds down. However, the new tighter left-right chicane still provides many thrills and spills, arguably more than before the modification. Position yourself on the infield 50 yards down the hill from the entry to the chicane for a clear insight into the undulations and racing line of this section of track. Watch the drivers attempting to keep their braking tidy during the fast right-handed approach, all under the backdrop of the famous Dunlop Bridge. Another prime spot is on the outfield at the chicane exit (in front of the Dunlop tribune) where many a driver will be caught out getting on the power too early.

The Esses: The famous Esses cut their way through a natural amphitheatre that provides spectacular views of this challenging sweeping section of track. Take up position on the infield banking beyond the point where the Bugatti circuit peels off to the right. Here you will be able to follow the cars all the way down the hill from the Dunlop Bridge and up through the left handed section of the Esses. Then watch as they blast away from you, sweeping right and disappearing into the trees. Tertre Rouge Tribune, situated on the outfield, provides an elevated view of the Esses and must be sampled during Wednesday or Thursday night qualifying when this flood lit section of the circuit will look particularly impressive. Walk a hundred yards further down the track and you will find yourself amongst the trees at the exit of the Esses. A bit of careful positioning and you will notice that this is one of the few locations at Le Mans that offers a photo opportunity genuinely unimpeded by catch fencing. Thanks to the ACO having kindly removed a number of trees around here over the winter, there is a much better view now than in the last few years. Catch a shot of the cars as they accelerate up the hill and on down to Tertre Rouge.

Tertre Rouge Approach: The area between the Esses and Tertre Rouge was completely redeveloped in 2007 at the same time as the Tertre Rouge corner itself was revised. Viewing here is excellent thanks to a huge embankment to the infield that runs the full length of the straight. Wide walkways slope gradually to the top of the spectator area where there can be found a number of ample viewing platforms suitable for disabled spectators. The ageing and cramped pedestrian underpass that has always served this part of the circuit was also replaced for 2007. In its place is a well-lit and wide underpass, again served by gradual concrete slopes on both sides of the circuit. The cars are full throttle for this short burst and ear splittingly loud. Worth busting your way down to the front of the busy enclosure if that's your thing!

Tertre Rouge: The Tertre Rouge corner marks the point where the purpose built racetrack joins the public road and the surrounding viewing areas signal the extremities of the 'General Enclosure'. The layout of the corner was heavily modified for the start of the 2007 season to increase the size of the run off area. The right hander is shallower than its former self and the cars now carry a great amount of speed through the heart of the corner, the drivers letting the cars drift out from the apex as they make the transition onto the public road section of the course. The embankment mentioned in the previous section runs all the way round the inside of Tertre Rouge and offers views all the way up to the Esses, down through Tertre Rouge and on to the Mulsanne. Refreshment and merriment lie only yards away when at Tertre Rouge; exit the General Enclosure, turn left under the circuit and you will find a lively trackside bar dubbed the 'Stella Bar' by many a seasoned campaigner!

Mulsanne Straight (Hunnaudieres): Access to the Mulsanne is prohibited, the track being kept secure by race officials (stationed at the various posts) and the local police, both of whom will take a dim view to any attempts to break through the trees to the circuit. Nevertheless, there are still viewing opportunities waiting to be exploited, it will just require a little endeavour and organisation.

It is possible to get within a few feet of the action at the Auberge des Hunaudieres or Shanghai des 24 Heures restaurants situated a couple of hundred yards before the braking zone of the first chicane. The legendary Auberge des Hunaudieres used to offer dramatic trackside seats from where you could enjoy good food and drink. Unfortunately green covers attached to the catch fencing obscure the view (although if you are lucky they will have been eased down!) and getting a table can be problematic during track time as the restaurant tends to be taken over by corporate hospitality. However, there is still an open air public bar at the rear of the property; clamber up onto the benches for a glimpse of the cars going flat out down the Mulsanne. To get to Hunaudieres (and the Shanghai des 24 Heures) during track time refer to the circuit map and stick to the following instructions. Head South East on the N142 (Route du Mans) running parallel to the Mulsanne Straight. Turn right on to Chemin de Ceasar and you will enter the network of minor roads. The restaurant will be temporarily signposted and there will be French police or race officials willing to direct you. They may be blocking the final turning so you need to be ready to tell them you are eating at Hunaudieres and they will gladly let you through. Eventually you will end up in a field at the back of the restaurant where you can park for free.

The less well known Hotel Arbor presents a better spectating opportunity. It sits alongside the Mulsanne straight on the circuit outfield only a couple of hundred yards after the second chicane. Parking is permitted in the hotel car park for a fee of 10 Euros per person. From there, the chicane can be found only a short stroll away through the trees. This is an excellent spot to watch from, particularly as there never seems to be anybody else there! Parking is at the discretion of the hotel and information listed here is purely based on their setup in previous years.

Mulsanne Corner: Your General Admission ticket will give you access to the Mulsanne Enclosure although getting there is another issue. The 90-degree right-hander marks the end of the Mulsanne straight and the spectator area follows the track for about 200-300 meters as the cars accelerate down the narrow section towards Indianapolis. The view over the corner itself is helped by a small embankment that just gives you enough elevation to take some photos over the catch fencing. The entry to Mulsanne corner is a very heavy braking zone so you can expect to see plenty of overtaking and maybe the odd driver overdoing things and utilising the run off area. To get to Mulsanne follow the directions to Arnage (see below) then continue down the D139 (this will be one way during the race). In approximately 1.5 Km you will reach a crossroads. Look out for a 'P Mulsanne' sign directing you to turn left. Take the left turn and follow the narrow lane for into the outskirts of Mulsanne village. The final left turn that leads to the parking area is easy to miss so once again look out for the 'P Mulsanne' sign. The left turn is just after an area of open ground and approximately 400m before the junction with the N138. It takes you up a dusty track to the large parking area under the trees, some 300 meters after the corner.

Indianapolis/Arnage: As with the Mulsanne corner the complex at Arnage is accessed by a separate enclosure, admission being covered by your General Admission ticket. Although a fair distance from the ACO village, this zone is reasonably accessible and well worth the effort. The enclosure runs from the apex of the cambered Indianapolis left-hander to the entrance to the extremely tight 90-degree right-hander of Arnage. There is grass banking alongside the track that allows you to get close to the action, especially at Arnage, where you are right on top of it. You won't know what Le Mans is all about until you've seen some night racing from here. Watch the cars burst out of the trees towards Indianapolis, the fastest part of the circuit. They swoop through the fast right curve towards the tighter left of Indianapolis proper where several drivers land in the gravel after overestimating their ability. This is followed by the short straight before jumping on the brakes for Arnage, desperately trying to shed some speed for the uncompromising corner, brake discs glowing in the dark. You can hear the cars accelerate up through the gears long after they disappear back into the surrounding forest. This is what endurance racing is all about. Just try to get to Arnage for Wednesday or Thursday night qualifying or ideally after 2am on Sunday morning because the crowds at peak times can be a real drag. To get to Arnage corner follow Rue de Laigne in a southerly direction, passing the Maison Blanche campsite on your left and the Bleu campsite on your right. At the roundabout turn right onto Rue de Ruadin and follow the road for approximately 1.5 Km. Before entering the built up area of Arnage village take a left turn signposted 'P Arnage'. Follow this road for approximately 2 Km until you arrive at Arnage corner. Follow the one-way system as it bends to the right. Parking can be found on the right hand side in two fields. For those who are coming to Le Mans with tour companies - beware of the overpriced "excursions" to Arnage and Mulsanne which they will try to sell you. There is a shuttle bus from the front of the circuit which will take you there for free - see Transport in Le Mans chapter, Navettes.

Porsche Curves: The Porsche Curves are a series of sweeping corners starting where the racetrack curves to the right to leave the public road. An enclosure here called Porsche Exterior offers a view of the outside of this uphill corner and can be accessed from the road leading to the Beausejour campsite. Looking back up the road section of the circuit it is possible to see almost as far as Arnage in the distance.

New in 2010 there was also a viewing area on the inside of the circuit at the Porsche curves, accessed via the Beausejour campsite. Further round the track you will find the Circuit de Alain Prost Karting that lies adjacent to the Karting Nord campsite. Conveniently, the kart track's pit lane roof can be accessed via steps at the back of the building. This gives a fantastic elevated view of the Le Mans circuit. Turn around and you can also watch the public karting where the skill levels are drastically lower but the crashes come immeasurably more frequently! This spot lies outside of the General Admission enclosure so you don't need to show your ticket, although on race day there is sometimes a steward demanding 5 Euros for admittance. It seems to be a little known spot so enjoy some crowd free spectating at all but the busiest times.

Ford Chicane: The final challenge on the circuit is the double left right complex known as the Ford Chicane. Stick to the outfield where you will find shallow banking (just high enough to see over the armco) that stretches right into the Maison Blanche campsite as far as the exit to the Porsche Curves. The Maison Blanche grandstand nestles conveniently over the Ford Chicane offering excellent raised views of this action packed area of the circuit. If you can't get into the grandstand try getting down to the catch fencing in front of it to get some close up views of the cars powering onto the pit straight.

Waving the flags and so much more – The marshals

Little is known to many visitors about the marshals at Le Mans and their work, although there wouldn't be any race at all without them. Marshalling is a hobby done by volunteers with a passion for motor sport. These men and women spend their free time and their own money to train in the many aspects of marshalling. They act as flag marshals, chief track marshals, pit lane marshals and there are many other roles. Their skills are crucial for the success of a race, because an exciting race can be destroyed by bad marshalling but it can also be made better and safer by good work from the marshals, even saving a driver's life. The set of skills which is required is large and the willingness to attend training on a regular basis is an important prerequisite. Training covers fire fighting, flagging, observing, radio communication and many other topics.

There are many types of jobs to be done at any race meeting, and Le Mans is no different. The one thing which is noticeable is that, obviously, officials can't be working for the whole 24 hours race plus the support event on the Saturday morning etc, so there would be enough for a minimum of 2 shifts, and the number is amazing, when you consider that the British Grand Prix at it's height required approximately 1500 people for the weekend (that's ALL jobs) so imagine how many for a circuit 3 times the size and a race meeting 4 times the length.

Some of the roles performed by the officials are:

Course/Flag/Observer, these are effectively the Race Directors 'ground troops'. These three will work together on a post, the Course Marshal is the one you'll see going out to an incident and working trackside, and reporting back to the Observer, who will report to Race Control what has happened. This is rather basic, as the Flaggie will be there waving the Blue, and reacting to what is required at that moment.

Pits, these Marshals will observe and report on all pit lane behaviour and stops. To do that requires a knowledge of the rules and regulations, no mean feat when you consider that they need eyes everywhere and will need to react quickly, nimble feet are needed in the lane to see all, but avoid being in the way.

From the information flowing into Race Control from all the Marshal's post's it is then up to the Control room people to filter out any important information that the Race Director may need to know and act upon, for example the release of the Safety Car (there are 2 or 3 around the track) who will be informed where the Race leader is and will try to pick him up (sometimes easier said) and if the leader is mired in the SC pack, when to 'release' the cars between the SC and leader. To do that, the SC that has the Race Leader behind will 'wave by' any cars between him and the Leader, these cars will then proceed to the tail of the next queue. Once the cars are ordered, everyone is happy, the SC's will pull off, Green Flag will be shown to the Race Lead at the start line, and racing will re-commence. Following are the flags you'll see over the race weekend and their meaning.

The solid yellow flag requires drivers to slow down due to a hazard on the track. A yellow flag displayed at the starter's stand or a marshal station indicates that there is a hazard downstream of the station. The manner of display depends on the location of the hazard:

- A single stationary flag denotes a hazard off the course
- A single waved flag denotes a hazard on the racing surface itself
- Two flags waved simultaneously denotes a hazard that wholly or partly blocks the racing surface. This informs the driver that there may be marshals on the track and to prepare to stop, if necessary.

Red flags can only be waived upon instruction of the race director. When a race or a practice session is "red flagged" it is stopped due to some condition that has made the track unraceable. Typical conditions are accidents, weather problems or surface problems like too much oil or debris on the track. As soon as a red flag is shown, drivers must slow down and either stop or come back to the pits, overtaking is not permitted.

The green flag is quite similar to green traffic light and simply means “Go!”. It can be waved by the starter to indicate the beginning of a race or practice session. Most typically it will be waved after a caution to tell the drivers that the race has been restarted and to indicate that the racetrack is clear of any obstacles or debris.

The yellow / red flag is commonly known as the “oil flag”, this flag indicates that there is a problem with, or change in, the surface ahead, like oil or water on the track.

The blue flag indicates to the driver that there is a quicker car following and about to pass him:

- When held motionless, this is an indication to a driver that there is a faster car following closely behind, but not yet close enough for a pass.
- A waved blue flag indicates that the driver is about to be overtaken and should take care to permit the following vehicle a safe pass.

The black flag generally means that there has been an infraction of the rules and the driver, to whom that flag is shown must bring the car to the pits. It is usually displayed along with a pit board listing the driver's car number.

Without doubt the best know race flag, it is waved for all cars to indicate the finish of the race or a practice session.

Last warning to a driver before a black flag is shown to him, similar to the yellow card in football. It is usually displayed along with a pit board listing the driver's car number.

Black with an orange circle: information to a driver that his/her vehicle has a problem and that a pit stop must be made, is usually displayed along with a pit board listing the driver's car number.

Slow Vehicle on the track ahead, be it a car limping back to the pits, or during a caution period it could mean there is a breakdown truck on the track.

Not a flag, it's a board which will be shown together with the yellow flag to inform the drivers that a safety car is on the track.

The French flag, the Tricolore, is traditionally waived by a VIP at the starters post to get the race under way. In 2009, this duty was fulfilled by Fiat and Ferrari president Luca di Montezemolo to signify 60 years since Ferrari's first victory at Le Mans.

Le Mans Moments – White flags

We were down at Arnage watching the qualifying on Thursday evening, and the marshals were waving a white flag. My mate turned to me and asked "What does a white flag mean?". I replied "We're in France, what do you think it means?!!"

Radio Show Limited move into year 7 of the 'new' Radio Le Mans and most of the changes for this year concern the service away from the track. Spectators at Le Mans for test day and race week will still be able to hear the popular mix of music, competitions and live commentary via FM transmitter. Further afield fans have even more to choose from to keep them entertained, both during the week of the race and the rest of the year. The portal to this information is the new look www.RadioLeMans.com.

RadioLeMans.com was re-launched in March 2008 and now boasts year-round audio streaming as well as an extensive free archive of ALMS, Le Mans and other endurance content. During three weeks in March the site attracted almost 100,000 visitors and that number was bettered in April thanks to some new, live, exclusive coverage of sportscar racing.

The classic Monza circuit was the first time the RSL team had attended a Le Mans Series race, indeed this was the first time that any commentators had been at a LMS venue for live coverage of the event. Bolstered by the new features, including video content from partner SpeedTV.com, April 1st to 28th saw over 236,000 visitors on the site.

Of course the biggest draw is still the Le Mans 24 Hours. In race week 2007 over 900,000 visitors found their way to www.radiolemans.com - adding that to our monthly numbers should mean that by the end of 2008 around 2 million people will have been exposed to the world of sportscar racing via www.radiolemans.com

This is all a far cry from the formative years of Radio Le Mans. Back then Radio Le Mans was only on air for a few days in June and existed (barely) from year to year and often scrambling for sponsors right up until (and sometimes during) race week. As early as the mid 80s the benefit of reaching spectators who didn't normally listen to commentary, or who were away from the core 'track-activity' times, was becoming clear. There were those who realized that appetites could be whetted by playing pre-recorded driver interviews early on raceday morning, and traffic news and other sports news round-ups could be provided at the end of the day as spectators made their way home. In 1986, Le Mans followed the trend and broadcast the French public address commentary on FM airwaves. This was pretty unadulterated stuff, with long periods of silence and the announcer often having to speak over background music. (Interestingly the French Service has never moved on – it's still just like that!) Fine for the locals but this wasn't helpful to the biggest single national group at the race – the British.

In 1987, spurred on by sportscar enthusiast Harry Turner, backed by Jaguar and produced by Studio 6 Marketing, a rather shabby caravan was brought from England and set up in the paddock with a radio transmitter and some dodgy phone lines to link the studio to the commentary booth in the tribune. Neville and Richard Hay provided the commentary assisted by Bob Constanduros from the pits. It's worth remembering that during the night the whole show shut down while a music loop was played.

In later years Haymarket's Autosport Magazine recognized the potential and provided some advertising for the station which enabled significantly more personnel to be brought on board

Over the years there have been numerous backers of the radio station with Unipart, Chrysler, BMW and Audi perhaps the most prominent. Haymarket's decision to bow out after the 2005 race saw Radio Show Limited – a company formed solely to ensure the continuation of the station – take over as rights holders. Radio Show Ltd continues to hold true to the tradition of Radio Le Mans whilst continuing to grow the audience and the fan base through the expansion of the website into a year-round resource.

For this year expect all the usual suspects: In essence the broadcast team remains very similar with regulars such as Paul Truswell, Graham Tyler along with USA's finest Charles Dressing and Jim Roller, all providing their usual brand of passion mixed with informative insight. Paul is famous for putting his bodily functions on hold for upwards of 30 hours (covering the build up and the race itself) as he never moves from his eyrie in the tribunes from the moment he arrives on Saturday morning until the end of the race. He manages this armed only with finger food, a blank exercise book, lots of pens and his encyclopaedic knowledge.

As usual the station will be on-air in the vicinity of the circuit, starting with the live coverage on Sunday with scrutineering.

The 2013 entry list - introduction

The entry list of the 24 hours of Le Mans is limited to 56 cars, spread across the 4 classes LMP1, LMP2, LMGTE Pro and LMGTE Am. This number is not random; it's actually set by the number of pits available at the racetrack. All teams entered in the FIA World Endurance Championship (WEC) for the full season are automatically qualified for the 2013 Le Mans 24 Hours.

Until some years ago there was a pre-qualification weekend a couple of weeks prior to the race. All teams willing to participate had to show up at Le Mans, drive their qualification laps and with a few exceptions, e.g. the winner of the previous year, only the fastest cars were qualified for the race. This has been changed to a system of "pre-selected" and "A.C.O.-selected" entries and the pre-qualification weekend became a compulsory test weekend for all participants.

Due to the world economic crisis the test weekends 2009 and 2010 were cancelled, but 2011 saw the return of the test day. All "rookie" drivers must complete their 10 laps by the end of the test day to qualify for the race.

Besides the WEC full season entries there are more teams which will have automatic entries: If these teams apply for an entry, they will be accepted. The list of these additional pre-selected entries is compiled based on the results of the previous year. For this year 13 teams received automatic entries:

- Starworks Motorsport: LM P2 category winner in the Le Mans 24 Hours. An invitation in LM P2.
- Larbre Compétition: LM GTE Am category winner in the Le Mans 24 Hours. Invitation in LM GTE Am.
- Thiriet by TDS Racing: European Le Mans Series LM P2 winner. Invitation in LM P2.
- OAK Racing: 2nd European Le Mans Series LM P2. Invitation in LM P2.
- JMW Motorsport: European Le Mans Series LM GTE Pro winner. Invitation in LM GTE Pro.
- JMB Racing: 2nd European Le Mans Series LM GTE Pro. Invitation in LM GTE Pro.
- IMSA Performance Matmut: European Le Mans Series LM GTE Am winner. Invitation in LM GTE Am.
- Boutsen Ginion Racing: European Le Mans Series LM PC winner. Invitation in LM P2.
- Conquest Racing: designated by the American Le Mans Series. Invitation in LM P2.
- Level 5 Motorsports: designated the American Le Mans Series. Invitation in LM P2.
- Extreme Speed Motorsport: designated by the American Le Mans Series. Invitation in LM GTE (this entrant can choose between GTE Pro and GTE Am.).
- Audi Sport Team Joest (2 invitations in LM P1): winner in the LM P1 category in the Le Mans 24 Hours and winner of the Michelin Green X Challenge in the FIA World Endurance Championship.
- AF Corse (3 invitations in GTE): winner in LM GTE Pro in the Le Mans 24 Hours, second in the European Le Mans Series in LM GTE Am and winner of the Michelin Green X Challenge in the FIA World Endurance Championship. This gives one invitation in LM GTE Pro and one in LM GTE Am: for the third the entrant can choose between GTE Pro and GTE Am.

This only applies if the entry is to the same class as it was pre-selected for. The privilege belongs to the team and is not related to a chassis or engine make.

If a pre-selected entry is not taken or any spaces are available once all the WEC competitors are taken into account, the remainder of the entries is given away at the organizers discretion.

The following is a quote from the A.C.O. regulations about their guidelines for the selection procedure of the remaining entries:

- Teams that have competed in full in one or more of the Le Mans Series (ALMS, LMS, Asian Le Mans Series) will be given priority
- Entries from manufacturers have priority
- A maximum of two cars per competitor
- Fame of the competitor (manufacturer, factory-backed team, well-known private team, private team)
- Previous "24 Hours of Le Mans" races
- Competitors' record
- Quality of the cars
- Technical interest
- Relationship with the A.C.O. and its environment regarding legal and financial issues

When applying for an entry, each team has to nominate at least 1 driver per car who cannot be replaced (except in cases of force majeure). If such a nominated driver is withdrawn by the team, the withdrawal will lead to the driver being removed from the list of those who can be selected for the 2012 Le Mans 24 Hours - he/she cannot change to another team! Entries that do not make the 56 car entry list will be placed on a reserve list. Two reserve lists exist – One for LMP and one for GTE. Any LMP entrant that returns their entry will be replaced from the LMP reserve list and the same applies to GTE.

Le Mans Legends - The 1949-65 era

The annual support race at the Le Mans 24 Hours is a jewel in the crown of historic motorsport. On Saturday 22nd June 2013, the Le Mans Legend will once again return to La Sarthe with a sensational grid of 61 Le Mans cars from the 1949-65 era.

Each year, Motor Racing Legends – the organization behind the Le Mans Legend – selects an era of Le Mans history and invites genuine race cars and their sister cars from that period to take part in a highly nostalgic, but highly competitive historic race on the full 8.5-mile Le Mans circuit. Not only is this a chance to see real Le Mans-style cars from the past in full, on-track action at the venue where they were born to race, but it takes place just a few hours before the start of the modern 24 Hours, on the Saturday morning of the Le Mans weekend.

This year, the historic action will be a two-driver race on Saturday 22nd June 2013, with cars from 1949 to 1965 again doing battle at Le Mans: think AC Cobra and Aston Martin DBR1, Lister Knobbly and Ferrari 250LM, Jaguar D-type and

ISO Bizzarrini. But it's not just the big bruisers at the front of the grid that demand attention. Right through the field, we can expect evocative cars of all sizes and shapes that capture the essence of Le Mans in the 1950s and early '60s: Alfa Romeo TZ1, Porsche 904/6, Triumph TR2, Aston DB2, Jaguar XK120, Lotus, MG, Austin-Healey, Frazer Nash.

Le Mans trivia and milestones

- You can tell which month the Le Mans 24H race is in just by knowing it is the weekend of 11th & 12th. June starts on a different day of the week from all of the other months and in 2011 it is the only month with a weekend of 11th & 12th.
- Graham Hill is the only person to have won Le Mans, the F1 Championship and the Indy 500.
- The youngest overall winner was Austrian Alex Wurz who won in 1996 at the age of 21 together with his teammates Davy Jones and Manuel Reuter in a Joest Porsche.
- Jean Rondeau is the only constructor-driver to win Le Mans outright.
- The earliest town twinning in Europe was between Le Mans and Paderborn in 836.
- Le Mans is also twinned with Bolton - United Kingdom, Haouza - Western Sahara, Rostov-on-Don - Russia, Suzuka - Japan, Volos - Greece, Xianyang - China and Alexandria - Egypt
- Mario Andretti is the only driver who competed at Le Mans in 4 decades - his first appearance in 1966 in a Ford GT, his last in the year 2000 in a Panoz sports prototype.
- The Andretti clan was the first family to send its 3rd generation to Le Mans: Besides Mario, his son Michael and nephew John who all started previously at Le Mans, in 2010 Mario's grandson Marco was in an LMP1 Lola.
- Four times overall winner Henri Pescarolo participated 33 times and holds the record for the most Le Mans appearances.
- The female driver with the most Le Mans participations is French Anne-Charlotte Verney with 10 appearances between 1974 and 1983
- Danish driver Tom Kristensen holds the record for the most overall wins as a driver - he won the race 8 times between 1997 and 2008. Next in the list is Belgian Jacky Ickx with 6 wins between 1969 and 1982.
- The most successful manufacturer is Porsche with 16 overall victories.
- The most successful team is Team Joest from Germany with 13 overall victories.
- The top speed record at Le Mans is held by the French Welter Racing team, their Peugeot-powered prototype reached a recorded speed of 404 km/h (251 mph) down the Hunaudières straight in the 1988 race.
- A new all time distance record was set in 2010, the winning Audi R15 covered a distance of 5410 km, the previous record of 5335 km was already 40 years old.
- The first Japanese manufacturer to win the race was Mazda in 1991. This was also the first, and up to now only victory of a car powered by a rotary engine.

Milestones

1925: This was the first year of the Le Mans-style start in which, at the drop of the French flag, the drivers would run to their cars and have to start them up before they could actually start racing. Début for Chrysler.

1926: Début for future winners Peugeot

1927: The race is commonly remembered for the infamous White House crash, which involved all three of the widely-tipped Bentley team's entries, this caused the retirement of two of them. The race was eventually won by the third which, although badly damaged, was able to be repaired by drivers Benjafield and Davis

1928: Team Aston Martin first appearance at La Sarthe

1929: Race won by Bentley who also finished 2nd 3rd and 4th. The winning car driven by the most successful driver ever at Le Mans, Woolf Banarto, 3 entries, 3 wins 100% strike rate

1930: The pairing of Odette Siko and Marguerite Mareuse would go in history as the first women to compete and finish in the race. The Winning Bentley being the same car that was victorious in 1929 Just 18 cars made the start. Début for Mercedes Benz.

1931: First victory for Alfa Romeo. Last Chrysler entry until the Vipers appeared.

1932: Introduction of the Esses, Tetre Rouge and Dunlop Curve, shortening the circuit to 13.5 km. Winner Raymond Sommer drove some 20 hrs as his co-driver was taken ill.

1933: The first and second placed Alfa Romeo's separated by just 9.5 seconds after 24 hours. The Alfa team were managed by Enzo Ferrari.

1934: Luigi Chinetti's second victory at Le Mans was notable for his outstanding driving and his pit crew's ability to produce chewing gum on demand to stem the flow of fuel from a fractured petrol tank. Driving an Alfa 8c 2300 with Philip Etancelin.

1935: Three MG's were entered and driven by 6 ladies, 2 per car all three cars finished the 24 hours. All but 6 of the 28 finishers were British.

1936: Race was cancelled because of the great depression in France

1937: Last outing for Chenard et Walcker, winners of the first ever Le Mans race. Total race distance exceeded 2000 miles (2044)

1938: The leading Alfa broke down with the finish almost in sight, it's lead at the time was over 100 miles but thus handed the win to Delahaye

1939: Last race before WWII. Racing would not return for 9 years. Début for BMW who won the up to 2000CC class

1949: This race featured the début of Ferrari as a car maker in his own right, who won with their 166LM, driver Chinetti racing for 22 hrs after Selsdon fell ill. It also featured the first diesel engined car (Deletré) and the first rear engined car, the Renault 4CV.

1950: Débuts for Fangio and Cadillac at Le Mans. The race was won by father and son team Rosier, Father Louis driving for all but 20 minutes. Dunlop bridge first constructed. 1st Le Mans that no Bentley had taken the start.

1951: Débuts for Porsche and Lancia. Despite around 16 hours of rain during the race it was won by Jaguar at an average of just over 150 km/h. The fastest lap was by Stirling Moss at almost 170km/h

1952: The race was almost won by "Levegh" in his Talbot who drove single-handed for over 22½ hours before the car broke a crankshaft. The winning Mercedes was the first ever closed in car to win.

1953: Début for Disc brakes. Rules changed to prevent a driver racing over 18 hours. A total of 19 makes were entered with 50 out of the 60 cars being "works" backed. The winning C type was the first to average over 100mph.

1954: Maserati teams car transporter crashed en-route to the circuit preventing them for taking the start. Rain in the last 2 hours led to an exciting finish between Jag and Ferrari, the Ferrari just winning by 2½ miles.

1955: Year of the deadly crash that launched a car into the crowd killing 88+ people. This resulted in major work to the start and pit area as well as moving the Dunlop bridge and building signalling pits out at Mulsanne, all at great cost to the ACO. A total ban on motor sports was imposed in many countries, Racing is still banned in Switzerland.

1956: Race was run in July for only the 2nd time to allow for building works on the circuit and construction of the new pit complex that would last until 1991.

1958: First ever driver wins for Belgium and USA. A rain soaked race saw only 17 finishers out of 55 starters. The winning Ferrari was 100 miles clear of the 2nd placed Jag

1959: Aston Martins first and so far only win. Débuts for Jim Clark and SAAB with a couple of 2 stroke 93's. Just 13 finishers out of 55 due to the fast race pace and the heat.

1960: 13 Ferraris started 6 finished. Winner Paul Frere was also a successful rower winning 3 Belgium championships

1961: A battle between the Scuderia Ferrari and the similar NART Ferrari driven by the Rodrigaz brothers lasted for 22 hrs before the NART car cried enough, the cars were just 2½ seconds apart after 15 hours racing. Morgan were refused an entry as their car looked to "old fashioned"

1962: Début for E type Jaguar. The race was between the same four drivers as 1961 with the same end result. Morgan were allowed to race despite the car still looking old fashioned, going on to win the 2lt. class.

1963: First victory for a mid engined car (Ferrari) and 1st all Italian car and drivers victory. Début for a turbine car. Also the prototype GT40. Ferrari's filled the first 6 places.

1964: The start of something? The Ford GT's leading at the start before all retiring allowing another Ferrari 1-2-3. Porsches finishing 7th and 8th

1965: Last of 9 on the trot wins for Ferrari the NART entered 250LM and driven by Rindt and Gregory took an unexpected win thanks to the faster Fords and Scuderia team breaking. Only 2nd time a closed coupé had won (1952 the first)

1966: Ford take a 1-2-3 in the closest ever finish, although stage managed and in spite of an impressive 3 car crash during the night. First V8 engined car to win. Début for future race winners Henri Pescarolo, Jackie Ickx and Porsche 911

1967: First and only victory for an all American car and drivers (Ford/Gurney/Foyt). A special bubble was installed in the GT40 roof to accommodate 6'-3" Dan Gurney. Reportedly responsible for starting the now traditional spraying of the victory Champagne. Début for the Gulf racing colours.

1968: The race was held in September due to student protests and worker strikes in France. Début for French ex men's skier Bob Wollek. The Ford Chicane was opened. Fast Porsches 1-2-3-4 in the early stages dropped out to let Ford take a hatrick of wins.

1969: Last "Le Mans start" with the drivers running (or walking) to their cars for the start. Crash barriers installed along the Mulsanne. The 1st and 2nd places separated by 120m at the finish with the winning Ford (chassis no 1075) just ahead of the Porsche 908.

1970: A Porsche 908 was used as a camera car for the 1970 film "Le Mans" during the race. Début for future winner Derek Bell. A Porsche won every class. Just 7 cars finished out of 51 starters, 2 Ferraris and 5 Porsches

1971: A massive 5335km covered by the winning Porsche 917 during the race, a record that stood until 2010. The lap record of 3.13.90 still stands (and always will as the track has changed). Début for the Ford Cosworth DFV engine at Le Mans. Out of 49 cars 33 were from Porsche

1972: Porsche curves and the second Ford chicane constructed. Winner Graham Hill (with Pescarolo) became the only driver ever to win the F1 crown, Indy 500 and Le Mans. Débuts for Jochian Mass and Hans Stuck.

1973: The Sigma was entered with a rotary Mazda engine, a first for this type of engine as well as the first Japanese car to qualify.

1974: Début for Mazda and Jean Rondeau. Retirement from sports car racing for previous winners Ferrari and Matra. Début for Yojira Terada 1st of 29 races.

1975: First victory for the Ickx/Bell partnership (Mirage). Début for Datsun and Alain de Cadenet. Le Mans was excluded from the World Championship for makes by the CSI for changing the fuel consumption rules.

1976: Regulation changes and a potential shortage of cars the ACO invited IMSA and NASCAR from the USA, 2 NASCAR's started. Gulf team boss John Wyer was apparently heard to say, "I doubt that they would be very fast on the straight and very much doubt they will manage to stop at the end of it." 1st race since 1949 there was no Ferrari entered. First win for a turbo charged car

1977: The winning Porsche 936 almost lost having blown a piston, but so great was the lead the car sat in the pit for over an hour, the cylinder was disconnected and the smoking car finished the last lap on 5 cylinders. The car was in 41st place 18hrs before. Début for Tom Walkinshaw.

1978: First win for Renault who then retired from Le Mans and went to F1. Début for Hawaiian Tropic who sponsored a race car.

1979: Almost a Hollywood ending with actor Paul Newman finishing 2nd overall. The top 3 Porsche 935 cars were derived from the 911, by then a 15 year old design (They are still racing today).

1980: Jean Ronreau (with Jaussaud) piloted a car bearing his own name to victory, for the first and only time. Beating the favoured Porsche in an exciting rain soaked race.

1981: Début for Tiff Needel, Emanuele Pirro, Eddie Jordan, and Cale Yarborough of NASCAR fame. Won by Ickx/Bell in a Porsche 14 laps clear of the Rondeau, no pit stop by the Porsche exceeded 4 minutes. Kremer entered a Porsche 917 10 years after the last 917 entry

1982: A formation finish for the début Porsche 956 finishing in numerical order 1,2 & 3. A return to the top tier for Aston Martin (7th) and début for Courage racing team. Ford powered 16 of the 28 starters but Porsche derived cars won all the classes.

1983: 17 seconds between the first 2 Porsches at the end, the smoking and slowing no3 car just limping over the line from Ickx/Bell's similar car. Porsche's filled the top 8 spots. Début for Mario Andretti who finished 3rd and Jan Lammers (8th). Many sleepless nights thanks to Mazda introducing their 717 Gp C2 car.

1984: Return of Jaguar to GpC with Group 44 racing. Boycotted by the "Works" Porsche team, however the top 7 cars at the finish were Porsche's. Pescarolo's 4th victory.

1985: Mercedes returned after 30 years. Won by the Joest "New Man" Porsche the same chassis (117) as 1984. Porsche were 1-2-3-4-5.

1986: Despite factory supported teams from Jaguar, Nissan, Toyota and Mercedes Benz works Porsche could not be caught, Derek Bells 4th win and the first without Ickx.

1987: An incorrect micro chip in the Porsche 962's almost cost them dear several cars including 2 of the 3 factory cars retiring with burnt pistons in the first few hours. But Derek Bell's Porsche survived to win, the last of his 5 wins 20 laps clear at the end. Début for Martin Brundle. Début first year for Radio Le Mans

1988: The little WM team wrote history by clocking 407km/h (253mph) in the race. Mercedes withdrew over concerns with their tyres. Jaguar XJ's took the win. Mario, Mike and John Andretti competed in a "family" Porsche. Début for Andy Wallace.

1989: Won by Mercedes no.63, this was the highest race number ever to win, prior to this win the highest victorious race number was 23.

1990: First race with 2 chicanes on the Mulsanne. The 2nd placed Brun Porsche (Brun/Pareja/Larrauri) retiring with 15 minutes left to run let Jaguar take a 1-2 finish. The factory Nissan's (Blundell) set a Mulsanne speed record of 227mph during qualifying and 6 seconds clear of the 2nd placed qualifier. Blundell also becoming the youngest driver to achieve pole.

1991: New pit complex saw in the new 3.5 l rules, however all teams bar Peugeot ran their old GpC cars. Won by the screaming rotary engined bright green and orange Mazda 787B which took full advantage to the rules, becoming the first and only Japanese and non-piston car to win. The 3 victorious drivers of Herbert/Gachot/Weidler were all ex F1 and with former winner J. Ickx as team manager.

1992: 3.5l rules gave Peugeot their first win. Just 28 starters, the smallest since the 1930's, just 50% finished.

1993: A Peugeot 1-2-3 from Toyota in 4-5-6, Début for David Coulthard and Eddie Irvine.

1994: Regulation changes meant race cars had to be derived from road cars, Porsche used a Dauer car, itself derived from the racing 962 to win. The 2nd placed Toyota carried Roland Ratzenberger's name as a driver in tribute after he was killed the month before. Derek Bell announced his retirement

1995: A rain soaked race won by McLaren thanks to JJ Lehto's high speed wet weather night driving and good reliability, Mario Andretti had to settle for 2nd place with team mate Wollek they were less than a lap behind, the closest they have both been to victory. Derek Bell announced his retirement again.

1996: Derek Bell finished 6th in his last Le Mans. All round balloonist, flier and adventurer Steve Fossett raced a Kremer Porsche. The winning Joest Porsche chassis had previously qualified at Le Mans as a Jaguar and raced as a Mazda.

1997: Won by Joest using the same chassis as 1996 (WSC95) the 2nd time Joest achieved this and only the 4th time ever. Début for Panoz, Saleen and Tom Kristensen with his 1st win. Return of Ferrari with the 333SP.

1998: Return of BMW with an F1 Williams designed car. Porsche announce their retirement from sportcar racing

1999: Début for Audi with 4 cars. Mercedes withdrew after flying cars in practice and the race. The race winning BMW team withdrew from sportscars to go into F1 as did Toyota. Début for Jan Magnussen and Racing for Holland. Last time driving at Le Mans for Pescarolo.

2000: Début for Cadillac and Corvette C5. 1st win for Audi finishing 1-2-3. Last Le Mans for Mario Andretti and Bob Wollek, who sadly died in 2001

2001: Return of MG and Bentley who finished 3rd behind 2 Audi's. Début for French ski star Luc Alphand.

2002: Three wins 3 years in a row for Biela/Kristensen/Pirro and Audi. Filming took place onboard 2 cars for the forthcoming French Michael Valliant film.

2003: Bentley 1st after a gap of over 70 years. Return of TVR after 41 years and début for Spyker

2004: Tom Kristensen takes his 5th straight win in an Audi and his 6th in total, Last race for the Dodge Vipers

2005: Number 7 for Tom, his 6th in a row. Aston Martin return with the DB9

2006: First ever win for a diesel powered car, an Audi. The first time since 1991 that a Porsche or Porsche powered car has not won at least 1 class. A GT1 Corvette finishes 4th overall.

2007: Diesel powered Peugeot return to challenge Audi and lose. Aston Martin challenge Corvette and win.

2008: Last race for Yojiro Terada (29 in total) with a 35th placing in a Courage.

2009: A troubled Lamborghini lasts 1 race lap before retiring.

2010: Distance record set by a Porsche 917 in 1971 is broken at last by the 1st 2nd and 3rd Audi's. The 1971 lap record still stands.

2011: The 13.8 seconds difference between the winning Audi and the seconds placed Peugeot is the second closest finish of all times, only 1969 saw a closer finish.

2012: For the first time ever a hybrid car wins the race – the Audi R18 e-tron quattro.

Administrative Checking & Scrutineering

Le Mans lasts much longer than just 24 hours, from a spectator's point of view it is actually a full week which offers lots of events which are worth a watch. The traditional opening of the race week used to be the Monday prior to the race when the administrative checking & scrutineering started; this is already a major event in its own right. In a move to attract more spectators, it has recently been brought forward to the Sunday. Some people see this scrutineering, which is basically a technical inspection of the cars, driver's suits and helmets more as a ceremony than a function. It is to be held in the "Place de la République". Parking is much more restricted than it has been in the past so if in doubt, leave your car at the circuit and take the tram. It is this unique event which gets everyone in the mood, ok, some team bosses and drivers are probably not happy that they have to drag everything including themselves into central Le Mans, but for the race fans it is well worth a visit, at least once. One after another, the teams are certified to run according to the regulations, see below for a detailed schedule when each team is being checked:

The Ceremony of hands

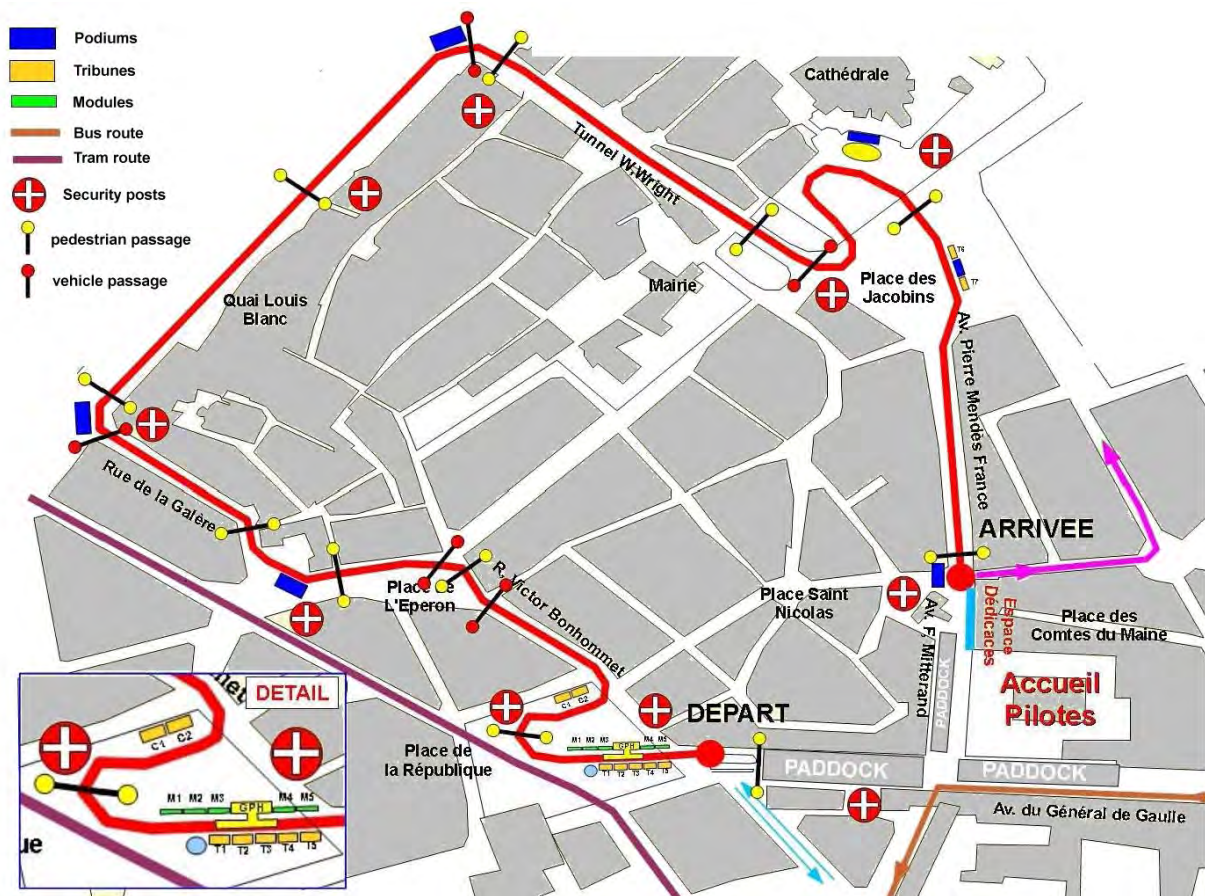

Le Mans is a city which is proud of its racing heritage and its rightful place at the centre of Sports Car Racing throughout the world. No visitor to the city can fail to miss the monument to the 24-hour-race in the Place St Nicholas in the centre of town, and its surrounding bronze paving slabs commemorating all the recent LM winning teams – plus individual ones for Le Mans legends like Jacky Ickx, Derek Bell and Henri Pescarolo. Each year, at eleven o'clock on the morning of the day before the race, the three winning drivers from the previous year, gather along with members of the press and public, and local luminaries, for the “Ceremony of Hands”. A bronze plaque is unveiled with the names of all three drivers and an impression of their hands. One of the lower-key, and least well-publicized events of the week, it is nevertheless a “must visit” for anybody who has not done it before as it gives a good opportunity to get up close and personal with the top three drivers, and to join the city in celebrating its place at the centre of the sport. It’s usually each Friday prior to the race at the Place St. Nicholas, Le Mans city centre.

The Drivers Parade

On Friday evening before the race, many people head for the centre of town to the “Parade des Pilotes”; that’s the Drivers Parade for those of you who don’t speak French. This is a unique event full of atmosphere which fills the centre with usually more than 100.000 people. All the drivers are parading around in historic open top cars, there are marching bands and of course parades of beautiful girls. The parade is rather informal, laid back and also a brilliant opportunity to get drivers’ autographs. The annual driver’s parade 2013 will be held in Le Mans city centre on Friday, 21st June from 5:00 pm – 7:30 pm.

Do not plan to go there by car! Take the tram or a bus instead when going from the circuit into town!

For details about the tram please see our chapter “Transport in Le Mans”. There is also a website about this event at <http://www.grande-parade-des-pilotes.com>.

The drivers parade from a race drivers perspective – a first-hand comment from Stefan Johansson:

“Friday is a day off, apart from the parade. THE PARADE!!! This is another tradition that now has become a huge event. It starts at 6pm at the Jacobin Square again, and goes through the entire downtown area of the city, with probably more than 100.000 people lined along the fences on the road.”

“Each driver team is being driven by a chauffeur in an open top historic car of some description. The start of the run is from a podium and there’s generally a long wait as each team is being interviewed at the podium. So, as you can imagine, a 1920’s shitbox with an open top on idle is not necessarily the most efficient thing when it comes to emissions so most drivers are close to passing out at this stage...The good thing is that we have another three hours of this to look forward to...Seriously, most of the drivers including myself are completely nacios by the end of the parade...”

The Saint Saturnin Classic British Welcome

The village of Saint Saturnin is situated on the main Northern entry to Le Mans, about fifteen minutes from the Circuit. Because of the tremendous popularity of the Le Mans 24 Hour Race with the British and other Nationalities arriving in classic and sports cars, the event, held in the grounds of the Val de Vray has become a highlight of the Le Mans week. The objective of the St Saturnin Classic British Welcome is to provide a rendezvous and relaxing welcome point for those arriving, or those already in Le Mans, to take a breather from the Circuit and or the City.

Each year the event is themed on a specific marque, former years have included Jaguar, Porsche, Lotus, Aston Martin, Healey, Ferrari, Morgan, Corvette and Guests of Honour have included Jan Lammers, Derek Bell, Sir Stirling Moss, Johnny Herbert, Paul Frère, Michael Salmon and Jean Bloxham, Yves Courage. Within the site there will be restaurants, bars, picnic areas, boutiques, an exhibition of the featured marque, plus models, photographs, ACO Ticket Office, an air conditioned cinema, free car wash, live music and lots more!

The event, with free entrance and parking, is held all day Friday 21st June (09h00 to 18h00). Average figures for visitors are about 5,000 and classic and sports cars around 1000.

Club Arnage Forum Gathering

The traditional CA gathering in the race village will be on Saturday, 22nd June, start around 9:00 pm. Location is the area around the “Courbe” Bar – or the “Restaurant de la Courbe Dunlop”, that’s how it is officially called. This place is on the inside of the pit exit towards the Dunlop chicane and offers the advantage to meet and see the race at the same time.

How to get there: Coming through the main entrance just go into the tunnel in front of you which leads to the inside of the track. Exiting the tunnel just turn left. The “Courbe” Bar it is the bright red building by the track side, watch out for groups of people in CA T-Shirts. It’s a public gathering in a public place, so non-CA members are of course welcome. To all CA-members: Please wear your CA t-shirt! Some comments about previous gatherings:

- “Great to meet all of you at the Poo Bar gathering and put some faces to the names.”
- “Does anyone remember one of the first of our gatherings at the poo bar, about ten years ago I think when the official dress code was tea towels on the head... Ah, happy days.”
- “I laughed at the Poo bar when someone started changing people's 2004 CA t shirts to 2005 with a permanent marker...”
- “Of course I never saw the old Poo Bar, but the party at the new one was awesome. It was indeed everything I expected and then some... The Poo Bar experience was one of the main factors for my decision for going to Le Mans and it did not let me down.”
- “The hangover I woke up with on Sunday Morning felt like I had passed to the other side. Still, it was worth it, what a great night.”

Helicopter flights

Le Mans Airport is directly opposite the circuit, so not surprisingly there is the option of booking a helicopter flight around the circuit. In the past years there have been several companies operating those flights, all of them followed more or less the same routine. Expect to pay approx. 100 € for a 10-minute flight. Reservations don't seem to be necessary. Several CA members reported that they just walked up, paid their money and got their flight without having to wait. Cruising at 200ft and just over 100 mph gives a different perspective of the circuit and race.

Views are good and it isn't necessary to all charge for the seats by the pilot. The flight enables you to see all the circuit and all the track campsites, it is easy to spot your own tent and any of your group lounging around having a cold one.

Cars slip by underneath as they are travelling much quicker. It might be wise to take the flight early on during the race, as by Sunday morning half the field could be retired, particularly if there are specific cars you would like to see around the circuit.

The aircraft seat between four to five passengers at a time, you can let the ground crew know how many are in your group and they will make sure you are together. The flights operate over the early part of the Qualifying sessions on Wednesday and Thursday and throughout Saturday and Sunday. In the past the ticket office and take off point have been almost in front of the main A.C.O. HQ building. There are some signs for directions but look out for helicopter activity and a hole in the airfield's concrete panelled fence and people heading towards the flight ticket portacabins.

There are two pay windows, one with a long queue, non-French speakers and one with a short queue, French speakers.

Next is the security check and after that you get directed to one of the tents to await your flight departure. It is all very straight forward and well organized.

Mad Friday

The Friday before race day is traditionally known as “Mad Friday”. Various activities take place in the Le Mans area on the Friday, such as the Ceremony of Hands in the Place St Nicholas at 11am, the Classic British Welcome at lunchtime in St. Saturnin, the open pitlane and the Drivers Parade through Le Mans town centre on Friday evening, starting at the Place des Jacobins. It is however, the day when there are no practice or qualifying sessions on the track, and so the parts of the track that are made up of public roads are open all day and exotic cars, as well as vans, push bikes and all sorts of home made contraptions, including a motorised bed and a pirate ship, can be seen driving around the area.

Areas such as the Hunaudières straight and Indianapolis are lined with spectators all hoping to catch a glimpse of a Ferrari Enzo, McLaren F1 or Lamborghini Murcielago speeding past. It is a unique experience that should not be missed. Where else can you see so many exotic cars for free?

For those looking to drive their own cars around the public roads, you should be aware that the Gendarmes are not particularly happy about this, and very often will have speed traps set up to catch you. If you want to put your foot down, your best chance might be to do so in the very early hours of the morning, but even then it can't be guaranteed that you won't get caught.

In years gone by, the road between the Maison Blanche and Bleu camp sites has been used as an unofficial drag strip, with many cars performing wheel spins on demand and spinning doughnuts. In the last few years however the local police have also cut down on this. As one of the moderators of the Club Arnage forum can testify, they will even confiscate your bottle of water if they see you pouring it under the wheels of a car to create some tyre smoke! Of course, a certain amount of it does still go on, and the roads will be lined on Friday afternoon and evening by people encouraging the drivers to show what their cars can do. It has also become common practice for the spectators to arm themselves with high powered water pistols and any cars that don't “perform” for the crowd are likely to get sprayed with water.

Similar activities take place at the roundabout near the back end of Houx Annexe campsite. This generally consists of cars driving round the roundabout several times at high speed, sliding round the corners before shooting off on one of the exit roads. Again, large crowds gather around, and on, the roundabout armed with Super Soakers.

Whilst most of this is carried out in a friendly manner, there is (as with any large gathering of people these days) an unfortunate yob element who now frequent the festivities. For some reason, these morons think it is “fun” to put beer, or indeed urine, into their water pistols and spray the cars with it. They also seem to think that if a car doesn't perform a burn out for them even though they have a police car in front of them that it is acceptable to empty the contents of their super soaker all over the leather interior of a Ferrari Spider, or indeed any other car that had its roof down or windows open. Others think it is fun to spray the windscreen of a car while it is sliding round two wheels around the Houx Annex roundabout to obscure the driver's vision. On other occasions things have been thrown at cars, including stones and bottles, and people have been seen to punch or kick vehicles as they pass.

Mad Friday is a day that should be enjoyed by everyone, whether driving their pride and joy around the circuit, or simply sitting in a café watching the cars go by while enjoying a cold drink. It shouldn't be allowed to be ruined by the minority who think vandalising and abusing someone else's property is acceptable.

If you do participate as a driver, enjoy the French roads, drive within your limits, respect other road users and spectators and watch out for those speeding fines; but be aware that there may unfortunately be a minor element who think that your pride and joy is nothing more than a target for their stupidity and that you may need to protect it accordingly. If you go to watch the cars, please show them and their drivers some respect, keep a safe distance from where the vehicles are likely to speed/slide, cheer and clap the cars that entertain you and make it obvious to any hooligan elements you may see that their behaviour is not acceptable.

Most of all enjoy and don't ruin the enjoyment of others!

Please Note: In the past the local Police were seen to drive along the line of spectators spraying CS gas out of a slightly open door to disperse the crowd when they believed things had got out of hand. They will probably be ready to do the same again this year if things go too far and this could simply ruin it for everyone.

Pit Walk

Not too many years ago the Friday pit walk was an opportunity to get very close to the cars, mechanics and other team members. Slowly this intimacy is vanishing and the hoards of fans who descend on the pit lane mean there are now barrier ropes a meter or two in front of each pit, a (poorly policed) separate path for disabled access and a huge scrum 10 or more deep around any pit with anything slightly interesting. Unsurprisingly some teams have also taken to selling merchandise at sometimes inflated prices! Nevertheless with perseverance and good humour there are chances to see things that are not visible from the grandstands.

Paintwork. The sponsors logos are mostly stickers now, look close to see how thick stickers are or how they are faired in. Sharp, thick edges create drag and slow it down.

Smart thinking. At the Audi pit a few years ago they had a stack of flat aluminium plates with a 45degree angle each end. When they had a pit stop practice they used these to put spare tyres on during pit stops so they don't roll away. That year Peugeot lost time by tyres rolling away at pitstops. Less time in the pits is good.

Deception. In 2009 Audi had wraps on their rear spoilers. Rumour was that Peugeot were requesting disqualification until they thrashed the R15s anyway.

Pit organisation. May not be set up for the race (on Friday) but things like the spare parts, how easily available are they? If your car blows a front tyre you want front body work, suspension and floor to hand and not in the truck.

Team Karma. If there is mad panic in the pits on Friday then it doesn't look good. More haste less speed. A panicking mechanic could easily break something when a cool head is best.

Speak to the "guards" at the rope of each garage. CA member experience: "We asked each of them what their role was in the team - we spoke to Chamberlain's Tyre man, someone who did transport, and at the last, we got the Bentley Project Director, with whom we had quite an interesting chat, given that neither of us were particularly clued up on anything". Would be interesting to know where the Red Bull, Mazda and Toyota folk are spending their time!

Bodywork. Panel fit on cars. Aero is very important, the panel fit on cars is something to look for. Big gaps and panels not flush looks bad as air will leak out and slow car down. Also means car build and set up has not been done to high standard. For example there was one car which had panel fixings which pushed the floor down and meant the front bodywork did not sit flush with sidepods meaning you have disturbed airflow, the floor was not flat either having a bulge from the fixing pushing down. Minor points but they all add up to lost top speed and downforce.

Dodgy repairs. When the bodywork is laid out at the front look for repairs done. If it has a really bad wet layup repair on it then it carries extra weight. If there are riveted repairs then it is not as strong so could flex under load. Also see if on any repairs there are multiple layers of paint, this adds weight and could affect fit of panels.

Spares. Teams usually have all their bodywork in the pits on Friday and should be fitting them to check they are interchangeable. Bad news to find in the race you replace some bodywork only to find the fitting is wrong. Should all fit the same otherwise we are back to the drag and slower car again.

Engineering design. Harder to spot: Does the car have fuel pumps and filters easily accessible so they can be replaced in seconds not minutes? Ditto batteries. Hand throttles: Know a good story of one team who didn't have a hand throttle because they thought the engine management would keep the engine ticking over to get back to the pits. It didn't and they lost a lot of time.

Practice. Always good to see them practice. They are only allowed one air gun so they need practice to make sure the car is in the pits for the shortest length of time. Also drivers help each other into the car. They have to change seats and adjust and tighten belts so they need to practice as well.

Freebies. Less likely each year.

The automobile museum

Just a short hop away from the main entrance of the track this museum is well worth a visit. It was founded in 1961; a new building was constructed in 1991 with app. 4.000 m² of exhibition space, a restaurant with about 100 places and a souvenir shop. There are about 200 cars on display, not surprisingly with a focus on former Le Mans participants but also some other interesting historic automobiles. Some people use a rainy day to visit it but it can be also very attractive on a very hot day; it's air-conditioned and has proper toilets. Some examples of cars which are on display are: A Martini colored Porsche 917 Langheck from 1971, a Bentley Speed 8 from 2003, the 1924 winning Bentley 3 Litre, the 1974 winning Matra 670 B, a group C Mazda and a Silk Cut Jaguar. The museum has recently been refurbished – a report for the next edition of this guide is welcome!

Transport in Le Mans

Public transport –trams, buses and taxis – works quite well in Le Mans. The former special bus services from the track to the town centre have been suspended; all traffic from the track to the city will be handled by the tram service instead.

The Tram

This runs from Antares, inside the full circuit and quite close to Houx Annexe, and goes through Le Mans city centre, passing under the Mulsanne Straight and heading right past Carrefour on the way. A new tunnel takes passengers direct from Garage Vert on the Bugatti circuit, to the terminus. It passes close to the Tertre Rouge bar, but sadly there is no convenient stop nearby. The tram stops on the North side of the railway station, where a major interchange is being constructed. After arriving in the city centre – Place de la Republique - all trams continue on to Universite, which is on the west side of the city. Trams run fairly frequently, typically every 12 minutes to/from Antares. A more frequent service is promised during the race and at other peak times, including Friday afternoon and evening, for the Drivers' Parade.

The trams tend to do quite well compared to cars in the traffic – which has been slowed down by numerous traffic light junctions to protect trams and cars from each other – so for sightseeing in Le Mans it has a lot to recommend it. It is also excellent value for money, especially if you use the park and ride at Antares. Currently 3.65 euros will buy a day's relatively secure parking, plus a return ticket to Le Mans each for as many occupants as there are in your car! Using the tram for shopping at Carrefour is feasible, and wheeled luggage is allowed on board, but do not expect the tram to be empty when you board for the trip back to the circuit – the service is very popular with locals. If you use the tram, remember that on the return trip to the circuit you want a tram bound for Antares – NOT Espal, which is the other branch of the service, and terminates a long way from the circuit.

At Antares, the car park is barrier controlled, and on approaching the barrier to enter, the ticket seller in the big booth will offer you the bargain tickets quoted above. After parking, walk across to the tram station, where a tram will usually be waiting. After joining the tram you must "composte" your ticket. This has nothing to do with last week's cabbage leaves, but requires you to enter your ticket in the machine near the door in the tram, which validates it. Do this every time you join a tram. When rejoining your car after the trip, the car park exit barrier will lift automatically when you approach.

If you elect not to use the park and ride, then ticket purchase takes place from a machine on the tram station platform – the same rules about validating tickets apply, of course. The tram line is UNIVERSITE – ANTARES, prices: 2,80 € for a return ticket, 4,00 € for a day pass and 12,00 € for 10 rides. Tickets are sold from automatic machines at stops, at Setram agencies and from the bus conductors.

Some important tram stations:

ANTARES is the closest station to the circuit, it's actually inside the race track.

REPUBLIQUE is the best choice for visiting the drivers parade and the scrutineering.

GLONNIERES - CENTRE SUD is your exit to the big Carrefour supermarket, see the shopping chapter in this guide.

GARES is the French word for station, so if you need to catch a train leave there.

Taxi's are usually waiting opposite the main entrance to the circuit near the museum for customers. Permanent taxi ranks can be found at various points throughout Le Mans, e.g. Place de la République, Centre Hospitalier, Gare Nord et Sud, Sablons (Place du Marché) and at Pontlieue.

By bicycle

If you can handle the transport, a bicycle is a nice thing to have. You can whizz from Tertre Rouge to Arnage village and Arnage corner via the Esses, the Village and points in between. That way you can see loads of action and get up to the shops for fresh bread on the Sunday morning. You will also have no traffic problems.

In 2010 there were bicycles for rent at the Antares Tram terminus for €10/day. Do note though, that after dark, a high visibility jacket is required by law. Failure to wear one can be punishable by a fine.

Navettes/Shuttle buses

This A.C.O. service has increased over the years to provide free (to those with Enceinte Generale) transport around the circuit. These buses can be great way to get around the circuit but they have also become more chaotic with the bus-stop at Mulsanne corner becoming rather agitated after midnight due to buses arriving with few or no empty seats to take away folks waiting and buses after lunch on Sunday taking several hours to go nowhere in the traffic jams.

In 2010 the A.C.O implemented a new routing system with two navette routes. The Orange "A" route runs between the South Entrance (the tram terminus near Antares) and Beausejour with a stop at Technoparc. The Blue "B" route runs between the North Entrance and Arnage/Mulsanne viewing areas with a stop near the Porsche viewing area.

In 2010 the A route ran

- Wednesday and Thursday 15:00 to 00:30
- Saturday 09:00 to 01:30
- Sunday 09:00 to 16:30

The B route ran non-stop from Saturday 14:00 through Sunday 18:00.

8 little passenger "trains" will run as follows (free of charge):

1. North Entrance to Maison Blanche
- 2,3. P13/ Paddock/ Village
4. Beausejour
- 5,6. Virage Porsche, Technopark roundabout
7. Antares, Technopark Roundabout
8. Maison Blanche/Virage Porsche (exterior)

On Wednesday and Thursday only trains 5 & 6 run, 15:00 to midnight. On Saturday all trains run 09:30 to 02:00 and on Sunday from 09:00 till 15:00.

Left something at home? - Shopping in Le Mans

Just in case you've had no time to prepare properly for Le Mans, don't worry. It's no problem to arrive with just your brain and a valid credit card.

All the supermarkets mentioned here have cash machines so they are a good place to get enough readyies to keep you going at the circuit, which is a notoriously difficult place to get cash. Some of them have petrol stations on their premises and are also a good place to top up on fuel as they are undoubtedly the cheapest places for petrol. All petrol stations accept foreign plastic now, so don't worry, even out of hours, and you will find that many supermarkets are changing to plastic only with no booth any more. Carrefour Market at Mulsanne changed recently. In most of the large supermarkets in France now, when you use plastic, you will be offered the option to pay for your goods in either "Livres Sterling" or Euros. It may be better to opt to pay in Sterling as you won't be charged by your bank for the exchange. On the other hand, based on the enthusiasm of retailers to select the Sterling option without your permission it may be more to the advantage of their card processor. If you are planning to take wine back to the UK with you, it is best to stock up early as some supermarkets run out of the most popular brands (such as JP Chenet) by the Monday after the race. These branded wines are nothing like as popular amongst the locals as they are with the Brits, so they don't carry such large stocks as you may find at their counterparts at the channel ports. If you haven't got enough room in your car, you can ask at the "Acceuil" (Help) desk, if they would be willing to reserve some for you ("Je peux le reserver?").

Buying cold Beer: Just be aware that due to extremely high turnover some supermarkets will run out of beer and ice at some point during race week, this has happened regularly in the past, some comments about this:

- "Auchan ..., as when I arrived Monday morning on the way home, there was virtually no beer left."
- "...the same with Carrefour - I went in on the Monday before the race to find none of my usual brew..."
- "...from Tuesday on, Carrefour had big loads of beer right at the entrance. So don't got here on Mondays, but it's ok later on in the week."

Another thing to be aware of is that French supermarkets don't give out carrier bags, so it's a good idea to take some shopping bags or boxes with you.

Information for vegetarians

During race week the whole city of Le Mans joins in – and many shop windows are decorated. There is even a prize for the shopkeeper with the best display.

Vegetarian food is virtually unknown in France, but soya (or soja as it is there) is readily available, so really it is up to you to your ingenuity to cook for yourselves. You can usually find out the ingredients on items as many are multi-language. However some are not - learn French!

You can find pre-packed Salads in Auchan and Carrefour and probably LeClerc and Champion as well. These can be pretty good - with cheese and egg options. Also there are usually other pre-pack salad ingredients that you can make a meal of. Of course there is French bread. You can just fill up on a baguette and cream cheese. It has been reported that Super U does have a specialist food section that has Soya Milk.

Portable BBQs are plentiful in the supermarkets - if you can find anything to cook. If you are bringing your stuff with you, be aware how hot it can be at that time of year. Without a fridge, food might NOT last, even with portable car-fridges.

About French opening times

Monday to Saturday is the norm; details for the shops mentioned below are given there. Do not count on open supermarkets on Sunday, some comments: Sunday opening is rare, and it is only the smaller ones that you'll find serving on a Sunday morning and then only up until noon. Moncé en Belin, Ruaudin, Savignon l'Eveque are three places where you'll get the basics. Note that departure day this year (Monday after the race) is a public holiday. The big supermarkets will probably be open but don't rely on much beyond that. Stock up for your return earlier in the week if possible.

- "Carrefour, Super U, Auchan etc are very rarely open on Sundays. The only supermarkets you will find open (usually from 9.30 to 12.00) are in the small villages - Shopi in Savigne l'Eveque is the nearest that I know of - and they are generally closed on Monday mornings to compensate. It's still a proper day off here, don't you know!"
- "Can confirm that Carrefour and Super U were both closed on the Sunday. The petrol station opposite Carrefour was open on Sunday as was the one in Arnage village. Both sell bread, water, crisps etc. Don't think they stay open late though."
- "The Champion at Moncé en Belin - not far south of Arnage - is open every Sunday morning."

Local markets

If you're driving in on Monday, check out Mamers for a great street market (cheese man likes to practice his English so will set you up with the best smelly stuff to put in your tent to keep the thieves out – and he'll let you sample it first) It is a good place for a short stop and is just about 40 mins north of the great City of Le Mans and a good alternative route if you come off the motorway at Alençon. Also, Bonnetable has a market Tuesdays. The biggest problem with both of these is that they interrupt the serious business of scrutineering. The usual big street markets in Le Mans (Jacobins) tend to get interrupted by something else that's going on there...

Other market days in the Sarthe are: Mondays: La Ferté Bernard, Mamers. Tuesdays : Beaumont, Bonnetable, Bouloire, Ecommoy, Loué. Wednesdays: Ballon, Le Grand Lucé, Sillé le Guillaume. Thursdays: Conlie, Le Lude, Marolles le Braults, La Suze sur Sarthe, Tuffé. Fridays: Malicorne, Pontvallée, Vibraye. Saturdays (well, if you're around the previous weekend): Allonnes, Brulon, Fresnay sur Sarthe and Montfort le Gésnois.

If you are looking for something with a real local flavour, try the famous "Rillettes du Mans" – available in most supermarkets but best bought from a butcher in the town or one of the local villages. This dish, which is a kind of cross between pâté and potted pork, can be a little off-putting to look at as it tends to be preserved by a thick layer of fat – but don't worry, just scrape this off and enjoy the delicious stuff underneath!

If you're looking for something to take back with you to appease families and partners back home, Rillettes are also often sold in nice decorated pots which make a lovely present for carnivores. Other things worth looking out for are "Confit de Canard" (preserved duck legs, in tins), cheese of course (try Liverot, Chaumes and Munster if you're into truly smelly delights) and Saumur for the drinkers, a great-value sparkling wine from the Loire Valley.

Your mum or a favourite aunty might also appreciate some Alençon lace. Also, try Malicorne, the centre of the Sarthe's pottery industry. And of course, there are always loads of shops at the circuit for petrolheads.

For those wanting a day out away from Le Mans, there is also an excellent shop at the Manoir de Courboyer, the headquarters of the Perche National Park which sells a large range of local and regional products. It also boasts a nice restaurant, good walking, and a typical local manor house to look around.

For UK visitors: Cigarettes are slightly cheaper in France but don't forget, you cannot buy these in supermarkets (or their surrounding malls). They should be purchased at a Tabac (often attached to a bar) - these are distinguished by their famous red lozenge sign with white writing. After a huge increase in tax in recent years, the government has recently seen fit to reduce the price slightly and they're still cheaper than the UK. For english brands such as Bensons or Superkings the best chance you'll have will be at the tabac opposite the tills in Carrefour. It's one of the biggest in La Sarthe.

Addresses

Carrefour

309, Avenue Georges Durand
F-72019 Le Mans
Phone: +33-(0)2 43615656
Monday-Friday: 8:30 am – 9:30 pm
Saturday: 8:30 am – 9:00 pm

App. 2 miles away from the race track, large supermarket and lots of shops nearby, from toothbrush to tent you can get everything you need. There's also a gas station nearby.

How to get there:

- By car from the Maison Blanche side of the track: Follow the road up towards the main entrance (track on right hand side). At lights outside main entrance, go straight ahead going under the dual carriageway. About 50 yds after bridge turn first right into Avenue du Panorama. Continue to end and turn left at T junction. Follow road up "Avenue George Durand" and Carrefour and the Centre Commercial Sud is on the righthand side.
- By car from the Houx Annexe side: Head towards Tertre Rouge corner. Just before you go under the bridge where the track joins the N138 (Mulsanne Straight), turn right up the slip road (this is just past the entrance to the Tetre rouge viewing area). At the top (N138) turn left and follow road up "Avenue George Durand" and Carrefour and the Centre Commercial Sud is on the right. This way is not available during track times so it keep it easy use the Maison Blanche route.
- By public transport: Use the new tram, see the chapter "Transport in Le Mans" in this guide for details.

Camera Repairs

Didier Faugas, 10 Place de la République, Phone: +33-(0)2 43 24 28 12

Highly recommended by a CA member: "We've spent half the national debt with Faugas and he's done a couple of repairs for us and is extremely reasonable. Not to mention very knowledgeable to boot."

Family Village

This shopping centre, half way down the Mulsanne Straight, opened in 2009 and includes everything from Opticians to electrical goods and two restaurants. It is to be extended in 2011/12 to include a new Auchan supermarket and a lot more restaurants and shops.

Bars & Restaurants

Aux Portes du Circuit: This can be found 300 yards into town from the main entrance, directly opposite Expo campsite. It is also known as "Jeannine's" to some CA members as the place is managed by the lovely lady Mme. Jeannine Belnou. Usually a lots of race fans are hanging around there (inside and outside) and are waiting for some burn-outs to happen on the street in front of it. This is unfortunately often interrupted by the police. Although this is a bar and restaurant, it has been reported that there will be no food served during the race, just drinks.

Restaurant Auberge des Hunaudieres: Situated approx 500 yards before the first of the chicanes on the Mulsanne straight, this legendary restaurant used to offer dramatic trackside seats from which you could enjoy good food and drink. Unfortunately the view is now obscured by green covers attached to the catch fencing. You will also be lucky to eat there during racing week as the restaurant is usually taken over by corporate hospitality. However, there is still an open air public bar to the rear of the building. Clamber up onto the benches for a glimpse of the cars going flat out down the Mulsanne. It's even possible to walk right up to the catch fencing and armco due to the questionable security! To get to Les Hunaudieres and the Shanghai des 24 Heures head South East on the N142 (Route du Mans) running parallel to the Mulsanne Straight. Take one of the right turnings heading towards the circuit and you will enter the network of one way roads. The restaurant will be signposted and there will be French police or race officials willing to direct you. Eventually you will end up in a field at the back of the restaurant where you can park for free. Phone: +33-(0)2-43 84 98 14

Restaurant Auberge des Hunaudieres

Restaurant Shanghai des 24 Heures

Restaurant Shanghai des 24 Heures: This Chinese restaurant, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cheung is open throughout the race week and serves affordable food of a decent standard, like Lemon Chicken, Pork with satay sauce, Shrimps with black mushroom and of course the inevitable spring rolls. A typical main course is about 12 Euros. Although you can't see the cars from the window seats, due to the same green covers found at Les Hunaudieres, the track is only 20 feet away so you can certainly hear them! The friendly staff even has 24 Hour memorabilia to give away, an added bonus! There is no need to book but it will be busy on Saturday evening. Consequently it's best to head here on Wednesday or Thursday night in between the evening's practice sessions. Capacity is about 120 seats in 3 rooms. To get there see the directions to Restaurant Les Hunaudieres, it is app. 50 yards down from there. Phone: +33-(0)2-43 84 14 72

Brasserie "Le Welcome" and Restaurant Panoramic: Circuit des 24 heures, both in the Village. Reservations can be made by phone 01 55 60 22 90 and allegedly via e-mail. Contact@concept-restauration.com. Mega-pricey, Le Welcome has dishes from €49 and Panoramic has a €98 menu a head but surely the best placed restaurant in LM. You can't miss it as it overhangs the start-finish straight...

Bar au Bugatti: This is a typical French Sports bar that serves light food throughout the day, it has also been described as a “good watering hole”. The walls are adorned with photographs and memorabilia of the race, making this a relaxing and cultural way to start your day. It's definitely worth stopping by here for breakfast or a coffee. To get to Bar Bugatti head north from the main circuit entrance and museum on “Rue de Laigne”. The bar is approximately 1 mile down the road on your right, within close proximity of the Expo campsite, on the same road as the restaurant “Aux Portes du Circuit”.

Bar Brasserie La Borne 24H: This is not so well known but has been highly recommended by one CA member. How to get there: Half way down the Mulsanne straight is the big hardware store, Do-It-All style called Leroy Merlin, on the right at the big roundabout. There are signs to this restaurant if you turn in and it is in an industrial unit. From the circuit entrance go past Maison Blanche to the roundabout, left towards the Karting circuit, straight on under the circuit until you come to a roundabout and left and left again. The food has been described as good value for money, they also have inexpensive wine. Please note: This place is probably closed during practice and the race itself, as it is in one of the one of the inaccessible areas then, so it is just an option for the rest of the race week.

Bar Restaurant “Le Tertre Rouge”: Also called “Stella Bar” by many CA members: This lively bar is located at the exit of the Tertre Rouge corner, outside of the circuit confines. It is within easy reach of the Houx Annexe campsite and the Tertre Rouge viewing enclosure. The bar sells, as you would expect, Stella Artois almost exclusively. It will be busy from Wednesday night onwards, but the crowds are friendly and sociable. You will find the Stella Bar where the road to the Houx Annexe campsite passes underneath the Mulsanne straight. A change of ownership will happen after the 2010 race, so let's see if this legendary place will change.

Information for vegetarians

Tricky! This is France - so you will not have much luck trying to find anything marked as "Veggie option" on the menu at restaurants. Announcing you are vegetarian and asking what they have will normally result in the waiters throwing their hands up in the air, asking "You don't eat meat? How do you eat?" and if you are lucky, a green salad for starter, followed by a green salad for main course (and they are not imaginative with green salads...) If you go for one of the usual safe bets in the UK (Curry and Chinese) you will find in France they have added extras such as bacon bits added which were not mentioned on the menu!

So, eating out in France, what you can do...

Pizza/Italian places are good. There are a couple in Le Mans which we go to almost every year. We were joined in an Italian restaurant one year by the (sadly now departed) Michele Alboreto, which was rather nice. We've gone back every year since - but no more (recognizable) drivers yet. Crepe's are also a reasonable place to be able to get veggie fare without actually offending anyone by announcing you are veggie. Asking for a veggie dish ("repas vegetarian" or "sans viande"), and explaining you are vegetarien will normally get you the dish you require, even if you do get a sad shake of the head from the waiter... It is worth saying you are veggie, as otherwise you are likely to get the thing turn up with some other meat instead - e.g. they think you just did not want the pork so they substituted beef!

Vegetarian food at the circuit: There are restaurants, but only one has a pizza, and you will wonder why you are paying so much for a frozen pizza. In the ACO Members enclosure you can sometimes find cheese pizzas as well. but not often; and you have to be a member, or a guest of one to get in. Cheese baguettes are available, but often they are gone almost straight away. Of course no-one buys them as there is no meat in them So they sell out of the stock they have really quickly...

Hot items around the track are normally limited to Frites, and Chevre-chaud which is a half baguette with melted goats cheese on it - rather nice. Sometimes this comes as a panini style thing. So the options for veggies are rather limited, you might end up on a bit of a cheese-fest, but it's only for a few days.

Restaurant La Boule d'Or

41 Avenue François Mitterrand
F- 72230 Mulsanne
Phone: +33-(0)2 43 42 00 45
Fax: +33-(0)2 43 42 54 90
Website: <http://labouledor.com>

To get there, turn in the direction of Tours (south) at Mulsanne roundabout, overall it is about 500 metres away from Mulsanne corner at the racetrack. Excellent food, good beer, this has been highly recommended. As a specialty they promote their "choucroute de la mer", a mixed seafood plate. There is also a bar and a tobacco shop included. One CA member persuaded them to put fish & chips on the menu for raceweek, comments on the quality of this for next years edition would be nice.

Following a change of ownership in 2009, this restaurant has gone from strength to strength, serving as many as 140 meals each lunchtime even out of season. During race periods things change of course, but always good food to be found.

New Brasserie: A new Brasserie has opened opposite Decathlon on the Mulsanne straight. Serves good food and is open early to late, although not sure about during race week since this is the first year.

Restaurant les Ecuries: Behind Family Village is a service road which parallels the Mulsanne. On this road can be found a superb restaurant called Les Ecuries. out of race week, Saturday night is jazz night, and a damned good evening it is too. 02 43 85 74 09 Just look for the roundabout with the wooden horses on.

Arnage

Next to the fountain in the middle of the roundabout (which is normally turned off during race week) is a bar/cigarette shop with plenty of tables outside. Well known already to many since lots of people have been soaked enough times as they pass! Dead opposite on the corner is the Harlequin, a very good place to eat especially lunch times. Not expensive with the usual fixed price menu and a few tables to sit outside and a big outside eatery behind.

Auberge de Matfeux, Arnage: For those who don't mind paying dear and love a superb wine list, then L'Auberge de Matfeux is for you. To be found on the left going south from the centre of Arnage. Spend as much as you want, especially on the wine list! It used to be Michelin starred, but not having the means to eat there I'm not sure if it still is. 02 43 21 10 71

Auberges des Blés d'Or, Ruaudin: For an gastronomic experience you will never better at the price, a little known secret (until now that is!) is to be found at Ruaudin, called the Auberge des Blés d'Or. We use it sparingly so as not to tire of the excellent food. It is usually by reservation, and in the evenings is open Friday/Sunday but all lunchtimes. However, they can cater for largish numbers having a large room used for weddings etc. No english spoken but if you really love to eat your food in style, properly served, excellently cooked, and at a price that will astound you, then call 02 43 75 79 3 3 and make a reservation. I guarantee you will not come away unhappy. Count on 100 euros per couple including an aperitif, the menu, and a good bottle of wine. Also open lunchtimes and again superb food at 20 euros a head, drinks excluded.

Le Belinois, Moncé en Belin: Another restaurant worth considering is at Moncé en Belin, south west of the circuit, called Le Belinois. 02 43 42 01 18 is the number.

The Queensland: To be found next to the church centre of Mulsanne. Pizzas and lunch menu. Open until late usually during race week.

Le Mans City Centre

Union Jack, 32 Rue du Docteur Leroy, Facebook: "Union-Jack Le Mans". Run by British with mainly british staff. According to the owner they are offering real Ale on pumps with british pies and pasties available, as well as official ACO t-shirts to buy.

The A.C.O. village

With its numerous bars, food outlets and shops, the A.C.O. village represents the hub of the circuit. 'Le Village' sprawls from the Dunlop Chicane and the furthest reaches of the Interior Musée campsite, down towards the pit straight, where it peters out into a maze of team hospitality tents which fill the paddock area behind the pit lane. At its centre is the main square which is served by a giant TV screen, showing live streaming of the race. Here you will find the majority of the modern permanent structures which house toilet facilities, retailers and hospitality suites. Food and drink is expensive wherever you go around the circuit but not extortionate. The Village is no exception, and you will find a good variety including fast food, basic sit down meals, crêpe stalls and bars which serve beer, brandy and champagne in abundance. This place really comes alive during the race and at night the atmosphere is friendly and inviting, encouraging you to stay up to the wee hours and follow the race for as long as you can keep your eyes open!

Around twenty signs in Michelin colours have been erected to make it easier to find your way around, in addition to more of the traditional plans of the circuit on the "Decaux" boards.

Golf Course

There is a 18 hole course at the bottom of the Mulsanne Straight, not surprisingly it's called "Golf des 24 Heures". Drive down Mulsanne Straight, turn right at the Mulsanne Corner roundabout and turn first right in to Golf Club. The club house is the building on the inside of Mulsanne corner.

First aid – the Medical Center

Sometimes bad luck hits and you might be in need of a doctor. The Medical Centre is near to the old Motor Museum building. Plenty of doctors and nurses are on duty there and usually you will find someone who speaks also English or German. The author of these lines brought a mate of him there some years ago and these people did a great job. They were very friendly and helpful and there is probably a lot of volunteer work involved, so full kudos to these people! A new purpose built medical centre was opened in May this year, which replaces the old pre-fabs so it should be even better equipped now.

There are also a few paramedic vans posted around the circuit - ask for "poste de secours" or "poste medicale". In '09, there was one in the car park next to the Bleu Nord campsite, just opposite the circuit entrance. The paramedics were extremely helpful when we needed some assistance - they were glad of something to do. Nb - if you need treatment make sure you can show them any drugs that you are taking already (legal or illegal).

Karting

Circuit "Alain Prost", Route du chemin aux boeufs, F-72100 Le Mans, Phone: +33 (0)2 43 21 32 97,
Fax: +33 (0) 2 43 21 32 99, Website: <http://www.circuitalainprost.com>

The kart track or 'Circuit de Alain Prost' sits adjacent to the Karting Nord campsite at the Porsche Curves section of the circuit. It operates on a pay as you race basis, costing approximately 20 Euros for 10 minutes free racing. Opening times vary year to year but generally it operates from 10:00 – 17:00 Friday through to Sunday.

They use various track iterations but even the smallest circuit offers an exciting challenge. The standard varies wildly which lends itself to many a racing incident! This is definitely worth a visit and surprisingly quiet; sometimes you don't have to wait more than 20 minutes to get a race.

Funfair

The funfair has been a permanent fixture at Le Mans for many years. In particular, the big wheel at night is an iconic image. It used to be found sprawling across the infield and outfield between the Dunlop Chicane and the Esses but in recent years it has inexplicably down sized and relocated in part to the south of the pit lane heading out towards the Maison Blanche campsite. It has been moved again this year to the outside of the circuit, beyond the Dunlop Bridge on the way to Tertre Rouge. The big wheel at least seems to have survived and is worth a ride during Saturday night when you will have a panoramic view of the race.

Banking services / ATMs at the circuit

There are 3 ATMs at the circuit. One is located near the center of the village, next to the Racing Legends stand, as you come from the new tunnel it is on the left as you enter the new village area, the second is at the opposite end of the same row of buildings, on the way to the "Restaurant du Balcon", the third is by pedestrian entrance E3 (from Parking Blanc.)

Internet Access

Wi-Fi Hotspots: A free wireless internet access point is available at the McDonalds on the Mulsanne straight (1st chicane), actually all McDonalds branches in Le Mans seem to offer this service. A commercial hotspot seems to be available at the racetrack, a search on the internet found this company: Neuf Telecom, Rue des Raineries, Le Mans, Phone +33-(0)2- 43402510. According to www.jiwire.com there is now a free Wi-Fi connection at Arnage airport. This appears to be provided by Orange and runs on 802.11b. If this proves to be accurate then those campers on Bleu Nord might be able to access this hotspot. Should you stumble across other Wi-Fi hotspots this year, please update this page or drop us a mail.

French Data SIM Card offers in the UK: There are several offers on the web for Pay-Monthly data SIM cards for use whilst in France, e.g. at <http://www.0044.co.uk/france/data-sim-card-pay-monthly.htm#tabs>.

Data SIM Card offers in France: There is a SFR store next to the Carrefour and where you can buy such cards, see http://www.sfr.fr/mobile/offres-detail/pass_internet_3g_plus?vue=000mg0. In 2011 a USB stick with a SIM to access the internet cost 9.90 € for 3 days, you could recharge those for 9.00 € for another 2 days unlimited internet access. There are also good PAYG offers from Leclerc and Auchan supermarkets and from Orange. An overview about other options can be found at <http://prepaidwithdata.wikia.com/wiki/France>. However, please note that French internet is very regulated and you must produce proof of identity and address to sign up in France. We're not aware how these companies react to overseas visitors so any feedback on this aspect would be most welcome.

Visitors with physical disabilities

A first-hand report by Deborah Dudley

From the A.C.O. website: "People with a physical handicap of 80% or above will be granted free entrance to the circuit on the presentation of their disability certificate. The accompanying person must normally pay for their 'General Enclosure' ticket. A 'disabled reception' has been put in place near to the 'Consiergerie' and the 'Porte des Italiens' (In the stands area), 'Tribune Dunlop', 'Musée' and 'P5' (Village). These points have been added to the permanent buildings: 'P16', the stands situated above the team garages, the race control centre, the A.C.O. stand, 'Houx' and 'Maison Blanche.'

That's it for the official version!

In reality, the situation is both better and worse. Following a car smash in 2008, I have now had the opportunity to sample the A.C.O.'s disabled facilities at first hand. There's no doubt that you're better off with a helper (or preferably two given that we're talking, in my case, about nearly 40 hours without sleep here), mainly because the surfaces at Le Mans are poorly suited to the average wheelchair. Every bit of gravel or broken beer-bottle conspires to make your passage around the circuit a nightmare and a trip out to Tertre Rouge, Arnage or Mulsanne is virtually impossible although some of my fellow wheelchair users have driven round to TR during qualifying without being challenged. Whatever, you can still have a good time.

If you make it to scrutineering, for example, wheelchair users and their helpers get the best view in the house, under the press stand in front of the square where the teams and their cars pose for photographs. Many of the drivers are extremely affable (others less so!) and chatty. One of the highlights of the week for me and well worth turning up early in the week to catch.

Wheelchair access at the Tertre Rouge tunnel

Once at the circuit, blue badge holders can park within the confines, alongside the wall behind the grandstands. You need to stop just by the main entrance and go to the little office next to the turnstiles. With typical forethought, there is a big step into this office, but the staff are very helpful so if you have no helper with you, just knock on the door and the staff will come out and do the paperwork for you. Just show your blue badge, give them your registration number and you will get a parking ticket. Without a blue badge it is possible to blag your way into the circuit on practice days (smile, point to the wheelchair, and look a bit distressed) but it's hard to imagine this being possible on Saturday or Sunday. Thus it's a long and tedious push from whatever campsite you are on to the circuit if you are not registered disabled.

Once parked, it's a quick trip to the South end of the Maison Blanche grandstand where a ramp leads up to a truly excellent viewing area (one of the few perks of being in a chair with wheels on.) There are also ramps leading to a purpose designed viewing area below the yellow concrete grandstand opposite the pit exit, but the downside is that you are below the catch fencing so it's rubbish for photography. But is under cover and has a great view of the approach to the Dunlop bridge. This has become a favourite of mine in the early hours of the morning.

If you're alone, there is a disabled person's Concierge - I have never found out where they are based because since this was added, I have always found that one of the helpers tends to find me, and they are a great help in showing you around, pushing you up ramps, and explaining the best places to go. As well as the two stands listed, there are - according to the ACO, also places to watch in the Pits grandstand and at Race Control, but I've yet to find these. If you should do so, please let me know for next year's guide.

A.C.O. members have the added problem of needing to get their wristbands from the horribly-placed new members area up by La Chapelle. Without my galant helper the first year, I would have been well and truly stuffed in this respect. However, having had one dreadful experience with this, I went to the ACO truck just by the tunnel exit in the village and they were able to provide me with a wristband which saved a lot of hassle. If in doubt, ask - many of the ACO staff and helpers speak French. If you have seats in the ACO grandstand then in theory, disabled people can get in via a lift and the staff were, as ever, eager and willing to help. However, when I did ask I was taken up to the top (nice view and all, no doubt) where, unless one had a helper to go and get some assistance from the staff, one was stuck, as the lift had no call button on the exit side! Goodness knows what you're supposed to do if you need the loo..... or a drink.... or to go home again...

On the plus side, the disabled loos are good, easy to access, and these days available all around the circuit. There are even disabled-accessible showers in the lavatory block behind the pits grandstand. The tramway system makes direct access between the circuit and the city of Le Mans a piece of cake, although the downside is that you can't get from corner to corner very well. However, it's one of the easier ways to get to Tertre Rouge as it's ramps all the way (although some are pretty steep and hard work in hot weather). The little trains are an option for those with limited mobility but not for those unable to tackle a step or two.

The A.C.O. is doing its best to accommodate people with disabilities but ultimately this is a motor racing circuit and, let's face it, it's huge and in many ways has out of date facilities. Whatever, you can still have a good time and one thing I felt the first time I had to do this was that at the end of the race that I had done it - I watched 22 out of 24 hours of the race - I breathed in the atmosphere and I felt the real LM buzz. What more can you ask?

How to get tickets

General information

There are basically two ways to book tickets – either via the A.C.O. directly or through a ticket agency. For campsite tickets and for grandstand tickets the rule is to book as early as possible! Most people make their booking immediately after returning from Le Mans for the next year and most campsites are sold out months, sometimes a full year in advance.

Booking tickets with the ACO

You can order tickets direct from the A.C.O. either by phone, or by using their on-line booking system <http://www.lemans.org/fr/billetterie>. This was completely re-vamped in 2010 with the result being total chaos out of which only a few forum members ended up with what they wanted, but - with luck - things will be better in future. We certainly hope so! There is, in theory at least, priority for ACO members but again, the system was less than perfect. We live in hope. If in doubt, contact: Automobile Club de l'Ouest (A.C.O.) - Service Réservations Circuit des 24 heures du Mans 72019 Le Mans Cedex 2 France Phone: +33 (0)892 69 72 24 Fax : +33 (0)2 43 84 47 13 E-mail : ticket@lemans.org.

Booking for the following year

The booking office and on-line reservations should open for 2014 some time towards the end of this year. Keep an eye out on the CA forum or ACO website for the dates to give yourself a chance of getting what you want. But this is getting more like the Lottery every year so get in quick. To be confident of getting what you want you might prefer to pay a bit more and use ticket agencies.

Ticket Agencies

There are also a number of agencies who sell race, travel and package tickets. The prices are generally higher and in most cases you cannot buy campsite tickets only but have to buy general entrance tickets with a surcharge as well. But they do have the advantage of guaranteeing you a grandstand seat and for many campsites, ticket agencies will be the only option in the future, as the A.C.O. has announced to sell certain campsites only via agencies in the future. If you are just after “Enceinte Generale” tickets, you do not need the agencies or the A.C.O. booking office, it is much easier and cheaper to buy on the gate and they are never sold out.

Types of tickets: The pictures below show some 2010 tickets. The A.C.O. has changed the design of the tickets several times in the past, so don't be confused if the ones you have bought look different.

“Enceinte Generale” (General Entrance)

Really all you need, everything else is an optional add-on. These are readily available on the gate so advance purchase above face value has little to recommend it. The price of tickets includes entry to pre-qualifying, scrutineering, both practice days and the big one, so at 65 euros (or less for A.C.O. members) they are undoubtedly the best value motor race event tickets on the planet. Take a bivvy and a sleeping bag and you can kip anywhere on the circuit.

“Tribune” (Grandstand)

These resemble the “Enceinte Generale” tickets so be careful not to mix them up. The contremarque system applies here too so don't forget to get your piece of card each time you leave your grandstand. All the grandstands are open to all comers during practice (except the members' where you will need a membership card). Seat numbers: All the grandstands on the outside of the circuit are lowest numbers on your left as you face them; the pits grandstand (inside) is numbered with the lowest on your right as you face it.

“Aire d'Accueil” - Campsite ticket

These are bar-coded and may be scanned as you enter and exit your site. You will probably also be asked to show your Enceinte Generale ticket when you enter some campsites, typically those with direct access to the circuit, such as Maison Blanche. A plastic stick-on holder is provided for your windscreen, into which the ticket slots. Don't ask me what motorcyclist should do...

“Parc Voiture” (Car park ticket)

These are handy for folks with accommodation away from the General Enclosure of the circuit, e.g. Mulsanne, Arnage or further afield. It enables you to get to the main viewing areas under your own steam. The car park tickets are bar-coded and may be scanned as you enter and exit your site. You can enter and exit the car park as often as you like - once you park there you are required to leave the ticket visible behind your windscreen.

Ticket holders and lanyards

Some sort of ticket holder with a lanyard to hang it round your neck is a must at LM. Tickets are 130x75mm with the tear-off strips folded over. You can buy these at the A.C.O. shop, but they are also often a “freebie” with LM's local newspapers – Le Maine and Ouest France.

Getting rid of excess tickets

In case you have booked too many tickets – maybe someone in your group has dropped out – there is at least one option to get rid of them: The CA forum has a “Sell or Swap” area where you can post your tickets. This is not the place for profiteering and the forum is moderated: You are expected to sell your tickets at face value (or the agency price you paid for it) + postage.

Attention: In previous years it was possible to return tickets for sale at the Rotunda (A.C.O. Booking office) during race week - obviously this option was found to be too customer-friendly, they don't do this anymore!!!

A.C.O. Membership

“Is It Worth It??” Every year this question is asked on Club Arnage regarding the membership of the A.C.O. This section provides details of the benefits of membership.

There are three levels of membership: Passion 24, Passion 24 VIP and Passion 24 Gold.

Also offered is a breakdown option (cost €25) similar to those offered by the RAC and other motoring organisations, but these are not really relevant to non-French residents. Most people will have arranged their own breakdown insurance which includes repatriation of the broken vehicle to their country of origin. Other special benefits are offered, at a cost of €24, for those travelling to the circuit in a car at least 30 years old, or for 'exceptional' cars as judged by the ACO. Some of the items from the 'Passion Collection' can be collected at any time during race week, from the ACO. All other items are sent by post 3 months or so after the race. There are other (mainly irrelevant) benefits, e.g. 3 free 20-minute sessions on the Bugatti circuit, but only for ACO licensed drivers, and obviously outside race week. The membership costs have not increased in the current year (2013). There are other (mainly irrelevant) benefits, e.g. 3 free 20-minute sessions on the Bugatti circuit, but only for ACO licensed drivers, and obviously outside race week.

Passion 24 Membership (Cost €39)

1. Aimed primarily at fans who cannot attend La Sarthe
2. Access to the Members' enclosure
3. Unique access to live updates on the website during the race and all LMS, ALMS and Asian series races
4. Access to classifications via SMS Text Messages (min 26 texts) throughout the race
5. The Passion 24 collection consisting of the Official Poster, Entry List, Results, Photos of the winners, etc
6. Use of the ACO Grandstand. Two tickets per member for Tribunes 17 and 18.
7. 10% reduction on all items in the official 24 Heures shop

Passion 24 VIP Membership (Cost €106)

All the benefits of Passion 24 membership, plus:

1. Up to 6 General Admission tickets at approx 25% discount (2013: 54 € instead of 71 €). Discount is also available on tickets for The Classic, 24 Heures Moto and French Moto GP
2. Up to 6 Camping tickets at 10% discount (approx) – Actual discount amount depends on the camp site
3. 15% discount on any and all products on sale in the ACO shop
4. 20% discount on sessions on the karting circuit.
5. Free admission to the paddock at The Classic
6. Special members' enclosure at scrutineering - a special members' bar, with a (admittedly tiny) viewing point next to the press stand - good for taking pictures.
7. Access to the Passion 24 campsite and parking area.
8. Priority booking for Campsite and Grandstand tickets from 2011

Passion 24 Gold Membership (Cost €245)

All the benefits of Passion 24 VIP membership plus:

1. 30% discount on Pitwalk Pass
2. 10 free minutes on the karting circuit
3. The official book of the 24 Hours of Le Mans, updated every year. "A luxury work of reference" – includes some 800 photos and over 250 pages in full colour. It recounts the whole story of the race: entrants, technical, practices, detailed results
4. The official film of the race – on DVD
5. Photo report of the race – unpublished photos from the ACO taken by professionals – on CD-ROM

Priority Booking

The ACO's first attempt at priority booking for the 2011 race turned out to be a disaster. Basically, members were allowed exclusive use of a new on-line booking system for a period of time, but the system was full of bugs and the tickets on offer were very limited. Attempts to contact the sales office for clarification/booking were also unfruitful as they were inundated with calls about the malfunction of the online system. The second attempt for the 2012 race was only marginally better. Again, there was a limited range of campsite and grandstand tickets available - in fact, a larger range was available when the system was opened up to the general public. There were still a variety of bugs in the system which caused it to hang. The third attempt for the 2013 race seemed to have less bugs in the system, but the range of tickets available was still severely limited. Don't forget that the agencies get priority over ANY individual punter, including ACO members, and thus the 'priority' booking system is actually of limited benefit.

Is It Worth It? The costs of the various classes of membership are given above. From the writer's perspective – it is worth it from a financial point of view for the Passion 24 VIP package. This year (2013), the savings on 6 general entry tickets (€102) exactly covered the cost of membership. The savings on 2 campsite tickets (approx €24) was all 'profit', and all the other benefits are also available. A race-goer may feel that the other benefits make membership worthwhile, even if full use of the ticket discount is not taken. I make no recommendations, just stating the facts. It's your choice!

A WARNING: Booking campsite passes with the A.C.O

When using the A.C.O. online booking system and booking 9 campsites passes for the Bleu Nord campsite, one would expect that the places you receive will be next to each other. This had always worked out fine in the past, so the author of these lines (an A.C.O. member using the priority booking) expected nothing different for 2013 when receiving the usual confirmation for his reservation. However, receiving the tickets some time later I found that the 9 places were scattered all over the campsite! When complaining about this, the A.C.O. simply replied that they can never guarantee consecutive places, cannot change this anymore and recommended to contact them directly for group bookings next time. I replied that I cannot guarantee consecutive membership anymore in this case. This was not the rule, but also not an isolated incident, several others reported the same. At present it looks like booking with an agency is the only way to get what you expect!

What to take and what to leave behind

Staying at the campsites around the race track for several days requires some planning and equipment. Approaches to this topic are different: Some people do it basic with just a small tent and a sleeping bag, but the trend in the last years was more towards luxury setups with mobile bars, fridges, swimming pools, draught beer equipment and others. This chapter is a collection of what some CA Members have taken with them in the past and it can help you to compile your own equipment list. The list is by no means complete, essentials like underwear and trousers are not listed and the food & drinks of course will depend entirely on your individual taste.

As far as clothes are concerned, just be prepared for everything! Race week is always in summer in the middle of June and the last 20 years have seen some incredibly hot weekends with 35+ degrees Celsius, but it can also be quite miserable with just 10-15 degrees at night and plenty of rain, sometimes both within just a couple of days. Take it easy, if you've forgotten something at home you can still stock up using the local supermarkets and shops, see the respective chapter of this guide for addresses.

Essential

- Valid Passport
- Tickets you already have (ferry, aire accueil, enceinte generale, tribunes etc)
- Cash Euros and/or a valid credit card
- Your brain
- Solid common sense and a joyous spirit
- Something to sleep in: tent, caravan, mobile home
- Sleeping bag
- This guide

Important

- Valid EHIC (European Health Insurance Card) and/or travel insurance
- Folding chairs and table
- TV and mobile satellite dish, every 2 years the race week overlaps with the footie world cup or European cup
- Generator with extension lead and gang socket
- Chain and padlocks - to prevent some itinerant low life stealing the genny.
- Hose and fittings to divert water to your campsite and to damp down the dusty tracks on some campsites
- Cable ties and speed tape in case something moves and it shouldn't
- Pocket FM radio with earphones to listen to Radio Le Mans
- Extra tent pegs, on some campsites the ground is rock solid
- Mallet for tent pegs - don't use the bottom of a glass bottle, one CA member still has scars...
- Tape & poles to rope off your pitch
- Tent Light
- Water Holder
- Rucksack to carry beer/camera/phone/binoculars/condoms etc around the circuit
- Club Arnage T-Shirt and stickers

Food & drinks & kitchen utensils

- Big BBQ and charcoal
- Cookers & fuel
- Draught beer system including cooling and carbon gas container for the professional beer drinkers
- You favourite English, Italian, German or whatever food & beverages in case you can't handle the French stuff
- Some fruit, after several days' diet of burger meat, bacon and other BBQ items you may see people fighting for an apple...
- Tooth picks, in case your BBQ meat is a little tough...
- Bottle Opener
- Bread Knife
- Plastic Bags
- Plastic Cups
- Glasses
- Mug
- Lighter
- Matches
- Cool Box
- Skewers for BBQ kebabs
- kitchen foil for lining the BBQ
- A melon (for filling with vodka)
- Sauce/Frying Pans
- Cocktail Sticks
- Knife/Fork/Spoon Set, Can Opener

Other useful stuff

- Sun Screen and/or wide brimmed hat, it can get very hot, and under canvas, there is little or no respite, Sun-tan lotion
- Toilet Paper, the public loos are sometimes out-of-stock...
- Large can of deodorant and wet wipes – showers are few and far between
- Hangover pills, more hangover pills and a hammer to bash your thumb with so the pain in your head goes away
- Immodium
- Binoculars
- Ear plugs/defenders if you want to sleep
- Swimming trunks, useful if you go for a shower and a good cr*p (not necessarily in that order).
- Bum bag to carry around money, credit cards, keys and more condoms
- Ticket holder thingy for round your neck
- Autosport Le Mans guide available on the Thursday prior to race week
- Long range water pump guns, have some fun with your campsite neighbors
- Megaphone
- Lighter
- Mobile phone & charger & phone car plug
- First Aid Kit
- Penknife, Torch, Table Lamp, Batteries
- Camera/Film
- Alarm Clock
- Playing Cards
- Tel No/Addresses
- Sewing Kit
- Talcum Powder, nothing worse than chaffing nuts at Tertre Rouge at 3.00 am
- Whitewall tire - for burning on Sunday night
- Fireworks, buy big, big bangers
- Some helmets for the fallout of other people's fireworks
- Bicycle, if you've got enough space for it, great to cruise between different parts of the race track, e.g. to Arnage

Leave behind

- Impatience and bad temper, don't ruin everyone's week by being miserable all the time
- Expensive clothes and shoes
- Little children
- The desire to sleep
- Any hang-ups
- Sweetcorn - not good when the queue for the bogs is a mile long
- Any thought of remaining sober

France and the French – Instructions for use

The Le Mans 24 hours may seem like a home from home to Brits but there's no getting away from the fact that it's a different country and that the race is organised and run by the French. To some this is a major irritation, but it all adds to the holiday flavour and a few tips about how to get along with the local populace never go amiss.

Remember, contrary to some beliefs, the French are by their very nature, an incredibly polite nation (outside Paris, that is). It is, for instance, considered incredibly rude not to say "hello" when you enter a French shop, go up to a bar, arrive at the circuit ticket barrier, pay your Autoroute toll at the booth or even to the concierges outside the loos!

This is probably the root of so many misconceptions which some Brits hold about their counterparts across the channel. If you don't say hello, they think you are the rude one and will respond appropriately. Those in the service industry consider themselves to be in an important business and do not take well to being ignored or treated like imbeciles.

So, a few basic rules when you meet a French person for the first time: Smile, say "bonjour" (this can be changed to "bon après-midi" after lunch or "bonsoir" in the evenings) and look them in the eye when you talk to them, and if you don't speak French, say so (Pardon, je ne parle pas français) don't just speak English and hope that they do. And don't forget to say goodbye when you leave. It's also customary to greet fellow shoppers/drinkers when you enter and leave, with a quick "bonjour/ au revoir messieurs, dames" (depending on their sex!)

You will be amazed at how much more pleasant the French seem if you do this!

Shaking hands

The French shake hands with everybody they meet. Should you break down, for instance, it is customary to shake the hand of the guy who turns up with the tow truck. If some kind person stops to offer you help, shake their hand. If you bump into somebody you've met before and who recognises you, shake their hand. You will be amazed what dividends this can pay!

If you know somebody well enough to "bisou" (peck on the cheek) then remember the custom is four in the Sarthe – 2 on each side. This can make encounters with very large groups of friends extremely long-winded!

English	French
Good day, hello	Bonjour
Good afternoon	Bon après-midi
Good evening	Bonsoir
Have a good evening	Bonne soirée
Goodnight/ sleep well	Bonne nuit
Goodbye	Au revoir
Sir	Monsieur
Sirs	Messieurs
Madam	Madame
Ladies	Mesdames
Ladies and gentlemen	Messieurs, dames
Enjoy your meal	Bon appétit
Cheers	Santé (a votre santé)
I don't speak French	Je ne parle pas français
Sorry	Pardon
Please	S'il vous plait
Can you help me?	Vous pouvez m'aider ?

Note: NEVER use Mademoiselle to somebody you don't know, this is considered rude, no matter how old you think she is, except for children and then "petit" (for a boy) or "petite" for a girl is better.

In the bar or café

Say hello and greet other drinkers when you come in! There are two types of service in French bars. If you buy at the bar, you will pay less but you should then remain standing up or at a bar stool (if there are any!) When you sit at a table you can expect to be served. Do not be tempted to refer to male staff as “garçon” – this literally means boy and is as derogatory in French these days as it is in English, refer to them as “monsieur” or “madame” according to their sex.

English	French
A beer	Une bière (grande for large, demi for 33cl and galopet for 25 cl – the latter probably isn't of much interest here!)
Draught – as in beer, not a cold wind!	Pression
Wine	Vin
Glass	Un verre
A glass of wine	Un verre de vin
The bill	L'addition
Water	L'eau (plat = still; gazeuse = fizzy)
Jug	Un pichet
Ashtray	Un cendrier
Bottle	Une bouteille
To eat	Manger
Black coffee	Un café
Large coffee with milk	Un grand crème
A light (for smokers)	Du feu

You will probably be asked which beer you want, as most bars sell several, they invariably then turn up in the correct “corporate” glass with a matching coaster! If you don't mind just say “n'importe” – it's not important.

Beverages: The French just cannot make tea, and that's a fact. A tea bag on a string and a cup of luke warm water is the best you can expect, so avoid it like the plague. If you are desperate, thé citron (lemon tea) is by far your best bet. When ordering coffee, you will get black unless you specify. The closest thing to a cup of coffee with milk is “le grand crème”, which in fact rarely turns up with cream as its name might suggest – more often it's milk, probably in a little jug.

© Craig Antill

You will normally pay for your drinks all together just before you leave, except when it's really busy such as on Mad Friday or during scrutineering. The bill is “l'addition”, so just say “l'addition s'il vous plaît” when you are about to go. A 10% tip is a good idea, even if the bill says it is “service compris.” Emptying your pockets of the little bronze “centimes” – as the French still refer to them – (1c, 2c and 5c coins) is also considered an insult – round up to the nearest 10 cents. It's quite OK just to leave the correct money on the table and leave, but be sure to say goodbye, so that nobody thinks you are trying to leave without paying; or you can pay at the bar – you are not expected to wait until your server turns up again.

Most bars sell a small range of snacks and sandwiches but by no means all. You can ask “on peut manger ici?” (Can one eat here?) Many bars not selling food allow you to eat your own, but do buy all your drinks there if you try this, and take any resulting litter with you. Say goodbye when you leave – please do not leave the French with a poor impression of the English abroad – especially if you are wearing a Club Amage T-shirt!

A note on smoking: In France, as in the UK, smoking is now banned in all enclosed public places, even bars with who sell tobacco. Although rumours abound about this new law being generally flouted, this is not the writer's experience.

In the restaurant

Self-service restaurants are rare in France – apart from the big chains like Flunch. When you arrive, wait to be seated by the owner/manager/waiter. You should explain how many there are in your party by saying : Je suis seul (I am on my own) or, “nous sommes deux, trois, quatre, cinq, six, sept, huit, neuf, dix” and so on – literally, we are two, three, four, etc.

Do not expect the world’s fastest service when you dine in France. Eating is the be-all and end-all of life here and meals are expected to be lingered over and savoured. They are the centre of France’s culture and its social and family life. Enjoy it – try not to get too uptight if things seem slow. If you are in a hurry, then go to Flunch or another self-service eatery such as La Briocherie D’Orée. If you have no choice, then explain to the waiter at the beginning of the meal, that you are in a hurry “je suis (I am) “nous sommes” (we are) “pressés” (pushed for time).

In Le Mans itself, you will usually find that menus are provided in English as well as French during the race season and even so, there is not enough space here to translate the names of all the dishes you might come across. If you’re concerned about what you might end up eating, the best thing is to carry a small pocket dictionary. If you are not fussy, then as a general rule it is best to go for the “plat du jour” (dish of the day) the “suggestion du chef” (chef’s suggestion) or “specialité de la maison” (the speciality of the house.) The first two will invariably provide the best value. The “menu du jour” (menu of the day) usually includes a starter – often of the help yourself variety from a cold buffet – and a pudding, and quite often a cheaper option where you can choose one or the other.

If you order steak, you will be asked how you like it cooked – “comme cuisson?” Bleu = blue, saignante = rare (literally – bleeding); à point = medium; bien cuit = well cooked. Be warned – the French (quite rightly, imho,) believe that an overcooked steak is a ruined steak, so you’re best advised to go for a more cooked option than you would in the UK. Equally, with duck and lamb, you may be asked how you like it cooked – the options here are “rosé” (pink) or bien cuit, as for steaks. And for omelettes – “baveuse” means runny!

In cheaper restaurants, it is customary to re-use the same cutlery for your starter (entrée) and main course (le plat) – if you’re having cheese, you should hang onto it for this too. In France, cheese is always served between the main and dessert courses – as they believe it is better to eat all the savoury courses together before moving on to something sweet. When you have eaten enough, you should place your cutlery apart, with the knife and fork on opposite sides of the plate – if you leave them together – as is done in the UK – they will not think you have finished! You might be asked “vous avez terminé?” which means “have you finished?”

A word about bread. This turns up with every meal, regardless; the French do not see the necessity for butter, so just put it on the mat or tablecloth alongside their meal, which is why you won’t get a side plate. If you do want butter, you have to ask for it. “Du beurre, s’il vous plaît”.

You should also be able to assume that you will automatically get a jug of tap water with any meal. If you don’t and you want some, just ask for a “pichet” or “carafe d’eau” and it will be provided, free of charge. It’s customary to leave a tip of between 10 and 15%, even if it is specified that service is included. You can usually pay with a UK credit or debit card these days in most restaurants – but don’t forget your PIN number – you will need it.

Loos: Most public loos are looked after by a concierge whose responsibility it is to keep them clean. At the circuit, they also keep the stash of loo paper on the table outside with them – so don’t forget to help yourself before you go in or things could get unpleasant! They expect to be tipped (30 centimes is about right) but on the up-side also expect to be told if there is a problem. So, if you find that the previous occupant has left his or her dinner behind, then you will cause no offence by mentioning this!

La bureaucratie!

Bureaucracy is a way of life in France and you'll encounter it wherever you go; it's hard to get away from!

The supposed idea that the French don't queue, is a very bizarre one. In fact, why queue once, when you could do it twice? Even in supposed quick service places (Flunch is a good example), you will be expected to line up once at the till to order your meal, and again in a line to pick up your chosen dish.

Anybody who has booked tickets for LM via the ACO will understand this well. First apply for your tickets, then wait to see if your form has been received. Then after your acknowledgement has arrived, wait a few months to see if you've been allocated tickets. Wait again to see if your confirmation has been received, then hang around again for a few months in the hope that your tickets have finally arrived. Simple, eh?

It's easier to do than to say, but the only way to deal with it is with a lot of patience. There is just no future in getting annoyed; you just have to go with the flow. The locals are on the receiving end of this every day of their lives and have been brought up with it so just cannot understand the impatient foreigner who gets hot under the collar about it. Be polite, smile, and get over it. Then have a good moan about it to your mates afterwards.

Driving in France – general information, rules & regulations, preparations

We spend many thousands of hours migrating to our favourite motor sport destination each year and the journey need not be a chore. With a bit of forethought and some help from our Club Arnage chums, it can be part of the whole Le Mans experience, something to look forward to and savour. A break in the journey at a favourite village cafe for omelet jambon and a carafe of traditionnelle du cidre or an al-fresco picnic all add to our memories of another historic Vingt Quatre Heures du Mans.

Driving in France is almost the same as in the UK; the most obvious difference being that you drive on the right in France! The road network is well developed and easily understood with nearly a million kilometers of road, of which 8,000 kilometers are motorway. Roads are significantly free of traffic in comparison to the UK, although congestion can occur during holidays and rush hour. The Route National and country roads (prefixed with RN, N or D for the smaller roads) hark back to a time gone-by with tree lined roads sweeping through the beautiful French country-side. They can be a genuine pleasure and unless you are in a rush or time is of a premium they are the route of choice.

Detailed below are documents that are needed, check-lists, and some of the more important driving rules and regulations.

Preparation

Time spent here can make all the difference to help smooth your Le Mans experience.

Vehicle Preparation:

- Make sure your vehicle is roadworthy with all lights functioning
- Check brakes, pads
- Check fluid levels for brakes, oil, coolant & windscreen washer
- Check tyres are correctly inflated with at least 2mm tread depth, not forgetting the spare
- Clean windcreens not only for seeing through but for your camping permit, ACO membership decal and Club Arnage banners.
- Headlamp beams need to be adjusted for right-hand driving.

Journey Preparation: Pick a time to travel so that you arrive during daylight and your campsite is open, this is especially true before the night qualifying sessions have begun. Some of the campsites may not be open 24hrs a day until Wednesday. Sunday makes a good day to travel as the roads are quiet, commercial vehicles are prohibited and the driving and navigation is easier. Prepare your itinerary in advance, use the attached route guides, internet route planners and take a good selection of road maps. Michelin, Cartes IGN and Bison Fute produce good quality maps. It is worth looking out for the Bison Fute maps and their "itineraire bis" alternative routes network road signs, these will get you around busy sections of road. Motorway routes to Le Mans are served by "Autoroutes à Peage" This means a toll is charged and it can vary depending on the motorway. Emergency orange telephones are located every 2km, parking and resting areas every 10 or 20km, and motorway service stations approximately every 40km. In case of a breakdown, only the Police or the official breakdown service operating in that area can be called and you cannot use your own breakdown organisation other than to act for you.

24 Hour Radio Information: English language bulletins are available on the hour and half-an-hour on 107.7 fm.

Documentation:

- Full UK driving license.
- Certificate of motor insurance valid for France (aka Green Card in the old days). Most UK insurance policies only cover you for third party in Europe: you need to upgrade to get a green card if you want your fully comp UK policy to be extended. Costs for this are around £20 for a week and could save a lot of expense if you have an accident (or your car gets keyed). Different insurers might have different cover of course, but it's something worth checking.
- Your insurance company should be able to issue a "European Accident Statement" form as well, otherwise download from http://www.france-property-and-information.com/france_car_accident.htm
- Vehicle registration document V5.
- MOT certificate if applicable.
- Breakdown Insurance
- Maps - see "Journey preparation" paragraph above
- Letter of authority giving you permission to drive the vehicle in France if you are not the owner
- Plus photo-copies in case of loss or confiscation.

Essential Vehicle Accessories:

- Spare set of keys
- High visibility vest(s): must be accessible from inside car, legal minimum 1 for driver, ideally 1 for each passenger as well
- An international distinguishing sign plate, GB badge or sticker should be displayed near to the rear vehicle registration plate.
- A red breakdown warning triangle is highly recommended, it becomes compulsory if your vehicle hazard flashers are not working. It is compulsory for cars towing a trailer or trailer. It should be placed 30 metres behind the vehicle and visible from 100 metres.
- Spare bulbs and fuses are needed, plus the tools to make the repair. You may incur a fine if unable to change a defective light.
- Jump leads – in case you flatten your car battery
- If it should move and it doesn't: WD 40
- If it moves and it shouldn't: Duck tape
- First-aid kit and fire extinguisher are recommended.
- SatNav - check has map of France.
- Car Rug
- Screen Blinds
- Steering Lock
- Cigar lighter Ext
- Tools

Traffic Rules and Regulations

- While driving in France remember to drive on the right.
- You can't drive on a provisional license.
- Seat belts need to be worn at all times.
- Stopping on open roads is not allowed unless the vehicle is parked off the road.
- Stop signs mean stop at road junctions. Creeping slowly forward will not do and is heavily penalised.
- Overtaking along a road with a solid centre line is heavily penalised.
- Under 18s cannot drive in France, regardless of their UK license
- Radar detectors are illegal in France whether in use or not. If caught with one in your car, you are liable to a prison sentence, a fine, confiscation of the device and the vehicle. Please make sure radar detectors are removed from your car before making the journey.
- Use full dipped headlights as in the UK in poor visibility and at night. Sidelights only when the car is stationary. It is illegal to drive on side (parking) lights.
- Urban speed limits start at the city or town sign; which is a white name panel with a red border, and ends where the name panel has a black diagonal line through it.

Vehicle Speed Limits:

Speed Limits kph/mph	Motorway with tolls	Dual Carriageway & motorways without tolls	Open Road	Town
Clear Weather Conditions	130/81	110/68	90/65	50/31
Wet Roads	110/68	100/62	80/50	50/31
Foggy Conditions with Visibility less than 50m	50/31	50/31	50/31	50/31

Cars towing a caravan: If the weight of the trailer exceeds that of the car, the speed limits are lower: 65km/h if the excess is less than 30%, or 45km/h if the excess is more than 30%.

Speeding Fines:

- More than 50km/hr court attendance, maximum fine 1500 euros
- 20 - 40km/hr court attendance, maximum fine 750 euros
- Speeding, average fine 135 euros

Motorcycles:

- Motorcycles over 125cc must use dipped headlights at all times.
- Drivers and passengers must wear crash helmets.

Accidents: If you need the emergency services use one of the free orange emergency telephones, the Police must also be informed. Follow the instructions provided by your insurance company, they normally provide a 'European Accident Statement' form for these purposes (see documentation check list above) that must be jointly completed AND signed by both parties within 24 hours of the accident.

Emergency Telephone Numbers:

- Ambulance - 15
- Police - 17
- Fire Service - 18
- All Three Services - 112

The Serious Bit: It goes without saying that the Gendarmes have a high profile during race week and whilst a certain amount of good humour and high jinks are tolerated, only a certain amount is accepted. So beware! Traffic offences are subject to on-the-spot fines, driving license confiscation and worse. Ensure an official receipt is given by the officer collecting the fine. The down side is unless you can pay the fine or there is another driver in the vehicle this could be the end of your Le Mans adventure. Your vehicle may be impounded and sold. The police may take you to a cash point if you can convince them you have enough funds to meet the fine. I've seen a complete crocodile of Ferrari's pulled over for speeding and one poor individual taken to the cash point to obtain the money for the fine! Speed limits are implemented rigorously. Fixed or mobile speed cameras and radar traps are commonplace. The Gendarmes are creative in road enforcement placement and are not required to be visible, expect speed traps to be in side roads, or hidden by a hedge. Following a recent increase in the annual road death figures, the government has put extra pressure on the law enforcement agencies to up the ante with regard to catching offenders. There are many new, and draconian, measures in the pipeline but meantime, the gendarmes are charged with catching those who break the current laws - don't let that be you!

Drink Drive Fines: There are strict drink driving laws, blood alcohol levels are lower than the UK (0.5 mg/ml rather than 0.8 mg/ml). Expect random breath tests during race week. Penalties range from fines of 135 euros to 4,500 euros, and imprisonment. If you have caused an accident while drunk, penalties range from 30,000 euros and 2 years imprisonment to 150,000 euros and 10 years imprisonment.

Road Signs

French road signposting is very good, once understood, with place names used instead of road numbers. When using a French road map, you may assume that any place-name in BOLD CAPITALS will be signposted from a great distance. When approaching a town or village a common sign to see is TOUTES DIRECTIONS (ALL DIRECTIONS). It is normally used for diverting traffic around a town or village; follow this sign unless this town is your destination. A variation is AUTRES DIRECTIONS (OTHER DIRECTIONS). This will always appear with a second sign indicating a specific place. So for instance if you see ROUEN plus AUTRES DIRECTIONS, unless ROUEN is on your route, follow the AUTRES DIRECTIONS (other directions) sign and further along you will see directions for your route or destination.

Priorité à Droite - In spite of there being many more give way signs than in the past, the general rule (especially, but by no means always, on rural roads - however main they may seem) is still to "give way to the right". A black cross of the "X" variety in a red triangle (often with a white post with a red ring on the corner of the junction) means you MUST give way to the right. Ignorance of this regulation cuts no ice with the local farmer when he drives his C15 into the side of your pride and joy. It's his right of way and he knows it!

Breaking down: No matter how well prepared your car is, this happens! If you do happen to breakdown, pull over onto the hard shoulder, switch on your vehicles hazard warning lights, put on your high viz jacket and position a red warning triangle 30 metres behind your vehicle. Free orange emergency telephones are located every 2km along all autoroutes. There are regular autoroute road patrols. Be aware that roadside assistance, per se, does not really exist in France. Even if you are covered by a European breakdown policy, the chances are that you will be towed to the nearest garage, rather than having the problem (however minor) sorted on the roadside. Although the cost of the tow itself will probably be covered under your policy, be aware that some smaller local garages may ask you to pay, and claim the costs back once you return to the UK (this has happened to the writer!)

The campsites at Le Mans - General Information

Out of the 250,000 fans that make the annual pilgrimage to the great race, more than 50,000 of them make use of one of the official ACO campsites. The following section provides details of most campsites, where they can be found, the atmosphere of each and some of the pro's and cons.

Please note: The campsites at Le Mans are constantly evolving, some have been reduced in size (Houx Annexe and Maison Blanche), new ones have appeared (Dairon, Pincenardiere) and others disappeared (Hunaudieres). All of this makes it extremely difficult to provide you with an accurate picture, don't take the information in this chapter for granted!

A personal comment about campsites: Hi, Slash here, as editor of this current (2012) revision, I have been reading the reviews from various forums, and it has become apparent that there is no one size fits all rule for these campsites. The same things that attract some groups to a site are the very things that put other people off. Our merry band have over the years stayed on most of the sites, Houx was great at first, BSJ was fab when we had no tickets, we met some really nice people on Expo, others had their attractions, now we find Bleu Nord suits us fine. In short this is, at best, a guide you must try the sites and make your own decision. If a site is not right for you, don't blame the guide and never return, try a different one next year. Trust me there is a right site for you somewhere, you just have to find it!

In the official documents of the ACO, most campsites are described as "Lay By", which is a poor babelfish-style translation of the word "Aire" – a rest stop or campsite without permanent facilities - usually a field(s) with portable toilets / showers. The current regulation is that you need one ticket for each vehicle regardless of how many people/tents are in it. There is also a rule that your space is limited to 35 m² including the place for your vehicle, e.g. 5x7 meters, this is being increasingly enforced, with guides leading you to a pitch and staking it out depending on the number of passes you have bought. Like most things at Le Mans this becomes less controlled as the week wears on, but if you want to be sure you and your mates will have enough room, you need to book sufficient pitches. Rumours are, that all pitches will be numbered sometime in the future.

Campsite tickets: These should be booked well in advance; please have a look at the chapter "Tickets" in this guide for the booking procedure. Campsite ticket prices in 2012 are in the range from 32 € to 267 €, depending on location, facilities and services offered. The campsite tickets are officially valid during race week from (2012) Sunday 10th 9:00 am to Sunday evening 17th for most sites, but Arnage and Mulsanne sites do not open until the Wednesday. Many people stay until Monday morning - or have to stay, depending on their alcohol level after the race!

Campsites with numbered pitches: Houx, Houx Annexe, Maison Blanche, Bleu Nord, Bleu Sud and Karting Nord have numbered pitches. This means you have the peace of mind that arriving on Friday evening will not mean squeezing all your kit onto the 2 meter square patch left in a far corner of the field.

Campsites without numbered pitches: Each campsite has areas that are better than others, e.g. it's a good idea not to pitch too near to the road to avoid being covered with dust. It's also a good idea not to set up your tent too close to trees or you'll have loads of people walking past to go for a slash. So, if you're picky, and need some shade or access to water supply nearby, it's best to arrive Wednesday or Thursday at the latest. In the past people arriving after Thursday lunchtime could struggle to find any space on their chosen campsite, even though they had a valid ticket. These poor, unfortunate souls were then diverted to other campsites by the organizers, mostly to Beausejour, which usually has spare space and which is probably the best bet if you arrive without any campsite ticket at all.

Facilities: Most showers & toilets are serviced by local people. It is polite to leave a tip when using the facilities but not mandatory. Towards the end of the week some of the toilet facilities become less pleasant and a supply of your own toilet paper is a good idea. Shower and toilet facilities in general have been improving year on year, and continue to do so. Hot water is now the norm rather than a treat, and people have stopped pinching the loo doors for firewood!

Refreshments: The usual temporary burger/kebab vans or huts. You can live on it, and at times it tastes great! Prices are set for the event, so don't expect it to be cheaper up the road, it won't be. In hot weather the campsite cafés run out of water pretty quickly. Make sure you have enough when waking up with a hangover.

Campsite etiquette:

- Have a chat with your campsite neighbours before setting up a noisy generator alongside their pitch – offering cold beer or some electricity for their cooling devices will usually ensure acceptance.
- Setting up your tent close to a generator is entirely your fault - you have no reason to complain about noise if the genny was there first!
- It has happened that people can't find space on a campsite despite having a ticket - often caused by groups fencing off inappropriately large areas! Setting up a fence to keep some room for your mates is OK but this should be within the limits of the campsite passes your group has bought. A campsite pass gives you 35 square meters, so if you think you'll need an area of 700 square meters just buy 20 tickets! On sites with marked and numbered pitches, this is of course is not an issue.
- Please collect your rubbish. If the trash bins are full – no problem, just stuff it in a bag and put it beside the bin, it will be collected.
- OK, it's party time, but the volume of your stereo should still be reasonable. No one in his right mind can seriously complain about loud music at the Le Mans campsites, say until 1 or 2 am, but playing the national anthem full throttle at 5 am in the morning is not cool!
- Be careful with your fireworks, and especially take care that your rockets don't detonate in other people's tents.
- Any time CA members show up at your site you should offer them cold beer immediately!

Swimming pool ban:

Due to a record low rainfall, water restrictions were in force in this part of France in 2006, e.g. a hosepipe ban for private households. Quite understandably the A.C.O. had to ban the use of swimming pools on the campsites as a consequence. Since then the organizers decided to ban swimming pools completely, most likely to reduce the water usage, so it's best you leave your paddling pools at home.

Alcohol-in-glass-bottles ban: In 2011 the local government introduced a ban on alcohol at public events arenas. In Le Mans terms this translated to the confiscation of all alcohol in GLASS containers being taken on to campsites within the track. This was zealously enforced at the beginning of the week, but as is usual restrictions became more relaxed the nearer we got to race day. It is worth checking the forums before departure for the experiences of early arrivers.

For 2013 the A.C.O. ticket brochure lists 13 different campsites: Arnage, Beausejour, Bleu Nord, Bleu Sud, Dairon, Expo, Houx, Houx Annexe, Interieur Musee, Maison Blanche, Mulsanne, Pincenardiere and Tertre Rouge. Although Heronniere is listed as a car park see comments below in Bleu section.

The official A.C.O. campsites

Campsite Arnage

Arnage is one of the 2 A.C.O. campsites remote from the main race village. It is about a 10 minute cycle ride to Arnage village, and when the track is not in use, a similar distance to Mulsanne village along the track itself. The site spans the area between Indianapolis and Arnage corners, but there is no race view possible from your tent due to banking for general spectators between the site and the track. You do need a spectator ticket to get from the campsite to the track side: the standard "Enceinte Generale" works fine but there is also a discounted ticket available that allows spectator entrance to only the Mulsanne and Arnage viewing areas (and not the main village or grandstand areas).

Campsite Arnage entrance

Campsite Arnage

The campsite is a large, mostly flat rectangular field providing about 250 pitches and edged on the south side by a predominantly birch coppice which provides some shade from the midday sun. The ground is pretty soft and somewhat marshy in places, obviously dependent on recent rainfall. Facilities are minimal: there is 1 tap available near the spectator area. However, there are obviously full facilities for the track side catering vendors (water, electricity) and a couple of the more enterprising regulars tap into these. Inside the campsite itself there are no ablutions, however in the spectator viewing area there are portaloos and a shower block portacabin. The track side catering facilities are only active during qualifying sessions and the race – Friday morning you have to sort out your own "pick-me-ups".

Campsite Arnage

Campsite Arnage water standpipe

Arnage officially opens on Wednesday at 9am – no earlier nights can be purchased. Since 2009 the site is pegged out into 5*7m (unnumbered) pitches by Tuesday evening and the evening audit on Tuesday in 2010 had 16 French numberplates, 4 Brit and 3 German already on-site. By 3pm on Wednesday the hardy regulars have taken their places but the site was only about 25% full (2008). Arnage is pretty cosmopolitan – a mix of large motor homes, caravans and tents from car and bike folk. A numberplate audit on Thursday morning revealed the French were the largest group, closely followed by the Brits and Germans with cameo roles for Belgium, Denmark, Dutchies, Norway & a sole Swiss. There are quite a few folk who use it for dormitory purposes: Frenchies from 100km or so away who pitch their tent on Wednesday and only sleep in it on Saturday.

On Friday morning the Gendarmerie close the public road corner that goes to/from Indianapolis to prevent Mad Friday circuits of the public part of the track. In general getting around on a bicycle is easy although the road to Arnage village can get busy, and the road to Mulsanne or Maison Blanche is occasionally in use by some very fancy Audis & Peugeots. During the race itself the Navette stop (see left picture) is right at the entrance to the site so getting around to Mulsanne & the main village is possible: hitching at the exit of the public car park is also easy.

- Ticket: 35 € (2013)
- 1 water tap
- Temporary toilets & showers in adjacent spectator viewing area (and more taps)
- For cars and camper vans
- GPS: North 47.9210; East 0.2159

A recent comment (2009):

Arnage was fine, although still needed lump hammer and 6 inch nails instead of tent pegs! However 1 accessible toilet, 2 ladies loos, 1 gents toilet and 2 urinals for whole of campsite AND viewing area was woefully inadequate, (although kept reasonably clean it has to be said). Mini-shower block (3 tiny cubicles) was impressive though, hot water throughout the weekend. Usual dodgy characters appeared post race, but enough people were still around to ensure they were limited to wandering around the rubbish piles.

Campsite Beausejour

Entrance: The roundabout at the junction of Chemain Aux Boeufs and D92 Route de Tours. GPS Co-ordinates (WGS84) N 47°56.19', E 0°12.93'

Over the last 4 years, the organisation has changed considerably and mostly for the better.

There are two pitch sizes available 35m² (7m x 5m) and 105m² (7m x 15m). For the first time last year, the site was open from Monday instead of Wednesday. The toilet and shower blocks were brought into service from Monday onwards as required as the site filled up.

They were kept in good order by Veolia attendants with toilet roll and hot water always available. This was a definite improvement on previous years. It is still worth having your own supply of 'Andrex' just in case!

The pitch layout sizes were arbitrarily applied by a 'security' person pacing out and knocking in stakes. They had once again improved their PR skills and were more amiable in 2009. As always speaking a little French helps the situation.

It is still beneficial to arrive as early in the week as possible to secure a decent pitch. Happily you no longer get people who have paid for 2 pitches marking out an area the size of Southampton leaving little space for legitimate pitch holders arriving on Thursday or Friday.

There hadn't been the prolonged period of rain before the event like in 2008 so the ground was fairly firm throughout. The deep ruts of previous years were thankfully absent and the terrain manageable.

It is a good walk to and from the main circuit via Chemain Aux Boeufs. In fact if you are camped at the back of BSJ, when you reach the campsite entrance, you are only half way to the circuit! Luckily, towards the weekend there is a little 'Toytown' train that runs between the campsite and the circuit entrance at Technoparc.

It is though within easy walking distance of Arnage village where there are shops and restaurants and the Friday afternoon 'Parade'. Worth a visit as long as the boys don't get too silly.

The campsite now has its own viewing area on the inside of the Porsche Curves. This has to be one of the best views anywhere on the circuit. It's prime for photographs as you are on the inside of a curve so the choice of optimum angle is endless. There was a 'Burger Van' at the foot of the banking in 2009 which appeared to do sterling service. The usual 6 Euros for a 440ml 'pint'.

Forum comments about Beausejour:

2010: "The days of turning up at BSJ, picking your own spot and claiming as much space as you felt inclined (regardless of how many pitch tickets purchased) have long gone. You are now allocated your pitch on arrival by 'security' on a first come first served basis starting at the 'front' of the site and working deeper into the field(s) as it fills. They also measure your pitch space, and you will only get as much space as your ticket(s) entitle you to. The free shuttle buses are a bit of a godsend, the village area is certainly walkable if you are reasonably fit, (we've done it lots of times, it's about 1.5m/2Km) but it's not an enjoyable trek when it's very hot, or you are very tired. Unfortunately at very busy times the queue for the bus to the circuit can be quite long, you might have to wait for the second or even third bus to come along to get on. The timing of buses, certainly at busy times, is quite frequent, but also seems to be a bit erratic, I suspect that sometimes there are a few buses 'missing'. I'm not sure I would rely on the 'last' bus home to actually make an appearance, you may well find yourself with no choice but to walk!"

2011: "Beausejour was its usual self. like last year we stayed right at the back, after the forest bit. Without going into too much detail it was a case of ups and downs, i'm not bothered eitherway as it was the best leman ever for me but the security guards stopping me with a slap on my CF bonnet isnt how i want to be treated upon arrival, i solved this by getting out of the car and telling the guy not to do it again. it might not matter to some and it might sound pedantic but i dont want someone literally hitting my car after a monster tiring drive from salford to la sarthe. i speak arabic and alot of the guards/security were from libya/algeria so after a chat and a laugh with them the situation improved. The camping itself was fine, we had ten cars so we covered alot of space, the usual french invasion was fine too as we had a perimeter and regardless we knew the chaps from last year, along with some english lads in our corner too. Showers were spot on and toilets really really well maintained. When i was at the race (getting hit in the face by McNishes rear wing lol) I could see strong black smoke in the distance, it later transpired that someone had knocked a BBQ over on our site and it had spread like wildfire. My younger brother who had stayed behind was pulling bikes, tents, belongings out of the way as the fire engulfed a audi A3. the fire brigade arrived about an hour later. for a 19 year old kid to do all that whilst loads of people stood around was beyond me."

- Ticket: 52 € for 35 sqm, (2013) 156 € for 105 sqm pitches – the latter is not a discount!
- For cars and camper vans
- Temporary shower & toilet blocks
- GPS: North 47°56.19', East 0°12.93'

There is an extra area within Beausejour with 105 m² pitches reserved for larger parties, e.g. people arriving in a large coach, allowing 3 cars or 2 campervans (<7m) or one really big motor home (<12m).

Campsites Bleu Sud and Bleu Nord – Parking Heronniere

Camping Bleu is located just outside the circuit opposite the Maison Blanche entrance. Entry to Bleu Sud and Bleu Nord is on the junction of Boulevard des Italiens and Route de la Heronniere. Camping Bleu is divided into two main areas:

Bleu Sud: This is the smaller part of Bleu and is next to Boulevard des Italiens, running alongside the road where “Mad Friday” activities have tended to take place. The site is mostly grass and is generally flat and quite good for getting tent pegs in. There are one or two areas of slab concrete and a gravel road runs right around the site which can kick up a lot of dust in a dry year. There are a few big trees for shade. In 2008 pitches were numbered and pegged out, but this was not consistently enforced.

There is one toilet block, in 2008 there were no showers but according to the latest brochure for 2009 showers will be available now. Water standpipes (7 x double taps) are located running down through the centre of the site. The taps are on timers where you press the tap and get a measured amount of water. There is no opportunity to attach hoses to the standpipes, unless you bring a plumbing tool kit!

In 2008 a large area at one end of Bleu Sud was fenced off for the Lotus 7 Club. They had a self contained encampment with their own showers, toilets, music and catering facilities.

Bleu Sud entrance

Water standpipes on Bleu Sud

Bleu Nord: This is a very large site located between Parking Bleu and the perimeter of the Airport. The site is grassed but there are some big pot holes and dips that make some of the pitches difficult to use and hazardous walking back to your tent in the dark. The ground is generally good for tent pegging, but some areas are very sandy and don't hold well. There are a few trees alongside the road, but the majority of the site is wide open. The pitches are numbered and marked and this is generally enforced .

Most of the site is set out in double rows with access roads in between, so there is not so much opportunity for large groups to set up a block area. Shower and toilet facilities are adequate for the number of people on the site, but you can expect queues at peak times. One toilet block (no showers) is located near the entrance at Route de la Heronniere, this block was not open in the early part of the week. The main toilet block and shower units could be found towards the middle of the site with one water standpipe.

Shower and toilet facilities are very limited for the number of people on the site and later in the week you can expect queues to be pretty constant. One toilet block (no showers) is located near the entrance at Route de la Heronniere.. This block was not open in the early part of the week. The second toilet block (plus 10 shower units) could be found towards the middle of the site with one water standpipe.

Bleu Nord

Bleu Nord

Bleu Nord

Both Sud and Nord are very open sites and the lack of security and theft from tents and pitches have been a big problem over the last couple of years. On the upside, access to and from the sites is generally good throughout the week, apart from leading up to the start of the race and shortly after the finish. You might want to take care in this area on Mad Friday when it is possible to find yourself swept up in the burn out activities, whether you want to or not! Route de la Heronniere acts as a short cut to Arnage village and the Super U. This road was closed to cars during the race, but could still be used on foot or bicycle (2.4km/1.5 miles approx Bleu to Super U).

Bleu attracts a very international crowd with race fans from all continent and set ups ranging from the highly sophisticated to the French family sleeping in their old Renault estate. The atmosphere is pretty relaxed and easy going. In the past it has not tended to be particularly noisy but all that has changed a little since it became be the main site for the Club Arnage crowd in 2009.

Parking Heronniere: This is a small field behind Bleu Sud and although it is officially designated as a car park it seems to have evolved into a bit of an overflow area for Bleu or an unofficial campsite in its own right. There are no facilities at all in this field.

CA Forum comments about Bleu Nord and Bleu Sud:

- 2008: "We didn't have any problems on BN, except for a minor one on arrival where our 2 adjacent pitches were actually on opposite sides of the gravel track, at a diagonal as well! However we luckily sorted this as the ACO had done exactly the same with the English family next to us, so we just swapped. Our pitch was therefore just south of the toilet block beside the 1st-for-tickets enclosure (Blue MG ZT and Clio Williams parked up). About 20M from the 6 foot beer pyramid. So just watched the toilet and shower queues ebb and flow. Note for anyone arriving early next year in this area (R 14 place 76) water and electricity are available if you are quick."
- 2008: "Bleu Nord is similarly well laid out and marked up with little pegs confirming each pitch number. Unfortunately the girl on the gate had only been given half the map so couldn't tell them where their pitches were, but they've found them now!.."
- 2007: "... An overpopulated sandy field far too close to the extremely busy airport with no facilities and even less appeal than camping down stream from a cow byre. But that's only my opinion and I don't want to influence anyone."
- 2007: 'Stayed at BN last year and really struggled to get a tent peg in the ground'

- 2007: "Bleu Sud, we've been on there for the last 3 years. We have had no problems finding a good sized pitch on the overflow, arriving on Thursday afternoon, Friday is a different matter. Security wise we have had no problems apart from the Sunday evening pikey invasion, but the benefit of Blue is that you can be down the back roads and away straight after the choppers. We have never had a traffic jam yet! Getting in and out during the race is a doddle too. It's a longer walk back to the tribunes etc. but a walk through the white car park is no hardship, loads of tasty motors to keep you happy...The site has a good atmosphere, not too rowdy, just right and getting a bit of kip is just about possible without earplugs"
- 2011: "Bleu Sud was once again awesome. Not the best for facilities as it has no showers but we take a shower tent and connect the hose, job done, and the atmosphere in camp was great whenever we were there. Also it's usually quick to get away from the circuit after the race ... For us it's the perfect location, easy to get to the track and easy to get to Arnage for the supermarket or a quick-ish walk for evening drinks. Didn't hear of anyone getting robbed but the camp did get done in 2010."
- 2011: "First time on Bleu Nord for us - normally on BSJ, so nice to be closer to the track! Seemed quiet in comparison to BSJ (although the music until 5am was no different), showers and toilets were fine. When we arrived another group had camped on our pitches, and after 20 mins of casual indifference from the campsite supervisor (who simply had to get involved) we were told to pitch at the end of the row, where we got a much larger area. We had our charcoal stolen from the gazebo one evening, but luckily one of the other groups had spare they donated. Would definitely go back to Bleu Nord."

Security: In 2011 there were several confirmed reports about theft - so don't leave anything valuable in your tent.

Campsite Dairon

One of the newer campsites (established 2008) it is sited inside the track in the general area of the Porsche Curves. Originally seen as an overflow for Beausejour campsite next door, it has now become an official site. Facilities seem to be rather basic, no showers. Its location on the map shows that with an estimated 30 minutes walk, it's quite a hike to the start/finish area and the village. The nearest viewing area, which is the Porsche Curves section, seems to be about 15-20 minutes walk away. Reports about this campsite are of course not yet available, so if you stay there, some comments for next year's edition of this guide would be appreciated.

- Ticket: 52 € (2013)
- Toilets
- For cars and campervans

Campsite Expo

This is one of the smaller sites, and is outside the circuit, but just a few minutes walk to the main entrance and the automobile museum. On first view, this place does not look very charming, but it has definitely a few advantages. There are lots of cattle sheds on this field, in which many people pitch and which can be a big bonus when it rains heavily (dry dining area, dry tents) or when it is extremely hot (shade). Another bonus is that there are high fences all around and no pedestrian through traffic, therefore security can be rated more highly than at other campsites. Much of the ground is concrete and even in the non-concrete areas, trying to get tent pegs in the ground is a challenge. Some people take a cordless power hammer drill to start the holes for the pegs. It's easy to find and access by car, as it's near the main entrance, but you can expect some traffic jams around the entrance during the weekend. Facilities like toilets and showers are sufficient and generally kept very clean. Water supply is good and it's worth taking some cable and French adapters with you, as with a little bit of luck you might be able to tap some electricity.

CA Forum comments about Expo:

- 2006: "We like it as it is close to the pub, not far from main gate, close to the fair etc. We normally try and get a run of the pens. The big advantage being is you can put a ruddy great padlock on them and feel your kit is slightly more secure than in a tent. Also good for keeping dry. We even rigged a shower up in one of them. After the first time, we left the tent pegs at home and brought a pack of 6 inch nails and a lump hammer & never looked back."

- 2007: "You could always try to shoot down one of those low flying aircraft flying into the airport with your fireworks"

In the last couple of years the largest part of it – the field between the 2 cowshed blocks - see the aerial view above - was booked by a Danish tour group with several hundred people, lots of noise and their own, grim looking security force. Opposite this campsite there is the bar/restaurant "Aux Portes du Circuit" (also known as "Janine's" to some CA members), a popular hang-out for many race fans who sip their cold beer on the outside terrace and watch the burnouts on the street in front of the restaurant.

- Ticket: 60 € (2013)
- Power points - designed only for organized and pre-arranged group tours but many people just hijack them
- Permanent toilet block.
- Permanent covered outside wash basins.

Campsite Houx

Situated south east of the main village and inside the circuit, Camping Houx provides one of the quieter camping areas as well as one of the more attractive. It's just a 10 minute walk from the Village via a footbridge over the permanent Bugatti circuit - this will bring you out in the western corner of the site. Camping is on numbered plots. Most of the site is set within tall pine trees that provide a degree of protection from the sun (or rain!). The western side of the site is open fields and is more exposed. The site tends to attract a quieter, more mature crowd. One major downside of Houx is that the size of the pitches is strictly limited to app. 35 sqm. These are all marked out and are only big enough for a decent size frame tent plus the car, or one medium size motor home. There is a good covering of grass across the site and the ground will take a tent peg easily. The big advantage is that you don't need to worry about finding a place when arriving late, e.g. on Saturday, as you have a reserved pitch. The quickest walking route from Houx to the circuit is back up to the village and onto the pit straight or Dunlop Chicane. Alternatively, exit the campsite via its North Easterly gate and stride out across and beyond Houx Annexe. You will find yourself at the Esses or Tertre Rouge within 15 minutes.

CA member's comments on Houx:

- 2006: "We stayed on Houx a couple of years back as we couldn't arrive until Friday so it was good to know we had a guaranteed pitch. The showers and loos are excellent. With only an AH Sprite and a two man tent the pitch size was more than enough. My only beef was that some people spilled off their pitches and blocked the 'alleys' between pitches so you couldn't get your car out / in if you wanted to."
- 2007: "lots of the pitches have trees in them and if you get one it's very difficult to get a car and your tent on the pitch"

Access by car: Houx is easy to navigate to and from by car, as it is served by the roads that make up the circuit's infrastructure. As such they won't be clogged up with through traffic. The only issue is during Friday afternoon and evening when the Houx Annexe roundabout that lies on one of Houx's main access routes becomes swamped with inebriated race fans baying for burning rubber and tyre smoke. There is an alternative route out via Karting Nord.

- Ticket: 90 €
- Electricity – French plug so UK Adapters are required.
- Permanent shower and toilet block
- Permanent covered outside wash basins

Campsites Houx Annexe

As a result of a football stadium building project and a new tram station Houx Annexe is much smaller now compared to previous years, when it was the largest campsite. For a few years the site was divided into 2 areas, Houx Annexe Nord and Houx Annexe Sud but after 2009 it became a single site with numbered pitches. Situated to the Eastern side of Camping Houx, and also inside the circuit, the Annexe has only its name in common with Camping Houx. This site is a 15 minute walk from the Village via the northern loop of the Bugatti circuit or the Esses corner. The corner at Tertre Rouge can be reached in 10 minutes, with the Esses complex accessible in only 5. The Mulsanne straight stretches out beyond the trees to the East of the site and although concealed from view it provides a cacophony of noise! This is arguably the most noisy and rowdy campsite for would be campers. If fireworks, sound systems and general party time are what you want, then Houx Annexe is for you! Expect little sleep, dust everywhere (when hot) and a thoroughly diverse mix of people and nationalities. Friday night at Le Mans in general is not for the faint hearted - this is even truer on Houx Annexe. As well as the sound systems that go well into the night/morning there is also the roundabout burnout session to the South East corner of the site where all are welcome to perform burnouts, doughnuts and anything else that takes your fancy - see the "Mad Friday" chapter of this guide for more details about this.

CA Forum comments on Houx Annexe:

- 2006: "It's inside the circuit and close to the 'village', grandstands, Tertre Rouge/Stella Bar, museum, Esses, fun fair, there's decent toilets, water standpipes and we have great bonfires!"
- 2006: "Houx Annexe for us, clean bogs, good showers, numbered spaces, electric hook up, shop / bar and if you're lucky to get a pitch amongst the trees you get shade as well."
- 2007: "...there is one small drawback. Those bloody great pine cones (they are about the size of a cola can) have the habit of falling out of the trees quite regularly at that time of year, and the trees are quite high (no, not from the strange tobacco some people smoke, I mean high as in tall). So, if you have a decent motor or value your paintwork, be VERY careful where you actually park it."
- 2008: "This year, we arrived at around 3am again on Wednesday, missing the road at first and without any signs we asked the Houx security were HA is. "A droite". Without any checks whether we have Nord or Sud, whether we pitch up 7x5 or 10x10m and without anyone controlling the setups it was great fun like BSJ '06 or Spa-Francorchamps. Seen many Nord tickets on the Sud part, btw, so there was no organisation at all, no pitches marked at all, nothing. And the atmosphere was stunning"
- 2011: "The site was quieter and smaller than last year"
- 2011: "We stayed at Houx Annex this year after being in MB the last 3 years. We all thought HA was meant to be a party campsite but we just found it really quiet & pretty dull!"
- 2011: "The campsite is quite a nice area and always a good crowd. People are respectfull of noise and always some good music playing and always some nice cars with the TVR crew being there. There is always some mucking about but always sensible. The campsite is pretty close to the village so no monster hikes. Toilets and showers are ok but the "normal toilets" are few and far between and not always cleaned at peak hours!!! Used to be good for mad friday but in the last few years it has got more and more quiet as the muppets have favoured it at one of there viewing points"

Access by car: This site is easy to navigate to and from by car, as it is served by the roads that make up the circuit's infrastructure. As such they won't be clogged up with through traffic. The Carrefour supermarket is within easy access via the N138

Campsite Interior Musee

Interieur Musee is the strip which runs inside the 'Bugatti Loop' i.e. on the side of the unused (during the 24 hour race) Bugatti circuit. Originally there were 2 bridges which crossed the circuit and Interieur Musee lies between. These bridges were replaced in 2005 by 2 tunnels when a great deal of earth moving took place. Advantages of this site are being very close to the action; you can be trackside within 1 minute, in the village within 5 minutes or in the pits within 10 minutes and you are able to get in and out of circuit by car pretty easily. This site has a good bunch of regulars and has been described as very free and easy going, with no allocated spaces. There's room for your party tent and you can always meet others who pass by/stop for a chat on their way to the circuit. Drawbacks are the dust - better to camp away from the vehicle/pedestrian thoroughfares and the noise - it bothers some, but others find it a part of the fun, and it's not as loud as at La Chapelle or some of the other sites. As in many other places the ground is very hard, 6 inch nails as tent pegs have been recommended.

CA Forum comments on Interior Musee:

- 2007: "I think it's a great spot providing you pitch up at the far end. To do this you need to get there by Wednesday. People generally turn off to go over the bridge before they get anywhere near our tent. One year we pitched closer to the entrance and hated it. Loads of people walking past and our tent got raided."
- 2006: "Great to be near the action, but lots of "passers by" are all seemingly quite happy to barge past your cars and walk through your gazebo to cut the corner"
- 2005: "The atmosphere is great. As for the "visitors", it depends where you pitch. If you can get right up the far end (as we always try to do), you generally are left alone."

Facilities: Used to be just a couple of taps and a portacabin with 'squat and thrusts' and washbasins. These are now defunct and since 2006, new good quality portacabin showers, washbasins and toilets are within 1 minute in La Chapelle (under the tunnel and close to Dunlop Bridge). Also the new toilet/shower facilities within the village are only a short stroll.

Campsite Maison Blanche

A large site opposite the Ford chicanes, which many CA members have chosen as their favourite. From Maison Blanche, the Village may be reached on foot in only 5 minutes via a pedestrian underpass that comes out under the shadow of the media centre and the first of the pit lane buildings. The eastern edge of the campsite actually borders the circuit at the exit of the Porsche Curves, and runs along the circuit's final straight and down to the Ford Chicanes. This means that the racing (and associated noise!) is only a stone's throw away from the prime spots, and can be viewable from the comfort of your pitch. Some fans have set up large installations there in the past, e.g. the "Drinking for Holland" megacentre in 2006. There are well maintained tarmac roads criss-crossing Maison Blanche, providing good access to the large grassy areas that make up the rest of the site. The ground is flat and well suited for pitching tents, gazebos and anything else. This site recently been reduced in size.

Access by car: Getting around by car can sometimes be problematic as, at peak times, such as Saturday morning, when the traffic often comes to a standstill outside the narrow entrance to the site.

This site is technically inside the track so you have to show your entry ticket to get out and back in. If you walk in via the main gate you can walk all the way down the grandstands and into Maison Blanche without showing your ticket again.

Forum comments about Maison Blanche:

2011: "All good on MB. 15 feet from the Loos and showers, 30 feet from the track. One cold shower (which I support as it keeps the queue down;) and all good otherwise. I didnt see any crime but ... heard of a few thefts over the radio."

- Ticket: 90 € for 35 sqm pitch, 267 € for 105 sqm pitch (2012)
- A permanent toilet block at the vehicular entrance as well as a number of temporary toilet and shower blocks
- Cars and campervans
- Numbered pitches
- Track view
- GPS: North 47.9448; East 0.2076

Campsite Mulsanne

The site is located quite a distance from the grandstands and the village, which is probably the reason why it is among the cheapest campsites. A free shuttle bus operates to the main areas of the circuit, in the past this has stopped after 23.00 Saturday until 07.00 Sunday, last year however it appeared to run right through the night, this CA member was certainly on a shuttle back at 05.00 Sunday morning. It is a great spot to watch the race with Mulsanne corner at one end of the site. If you have transport (car, motorbike) you can access the village/pits area, getting around during the race itself reportedly easy. Getting away after the race is also not difficult, just travel south to Ecommoy to hit the Peage. There are good shopping facilities, a Champion supermarket is just 50 yards away from the site.

Campsite Mulsanne

Campsite Mulsanne – Trackside view

Camping: Good ground and lots of trees for some respite from the sun or rain. Early arrivals get closest to the track. This site is not massively busy, so late arrivals will find a spot. No marked pitches as yet. There are a lot of non-campers around because the viewing area is in the campsite. Mix of tents & caravans/motorhomes.

Campsite Mulsanne

Trackside View from Mulsanne

The facilities have been described as good, there are portacabin bogs in traditional British style!. Good showers with plenty of hot water. Queues not so bad, because it's not a huge site. Careful planning/timing will ensure no queuing. Toilets and showers are cleaned regularly. There's also an open drain for those wanting to dispose of 'stuff' from caravans/campers.

CA forum comments about Mulsanne:

- 2008: "Security - OK (it seems) before & during, once the race has finished, it's probably more accessible than those sites inside the circuit. Gendarmes patrol on Mulsanne corner itself & on race day 1 of the 3 entrances is closed. A couple of pikies were chased off after the race – standard stuff. (Be aware of the fact that there is a large turnover of people during the race, because it's a viewing area as well) & we had a rule that at least one of our crew had to be 'on-pitch' at any given time.)"
- 2008: "Atmosphere: Pretty quiet. For those who want a party site or access to the pits & village, I wouldn't bother. Having previously stayed on KN, I'd say it was a lot quieter than that. That said, you don't get all the go-peds etc, so if you want somewhere 'less active' – it's good. If you aren't bothered about being at the heart of the action, it's OK. We ended up there last year because we had to, having previously stayed on KN – we'll be back on Mulsanne in 2009."
- 2011: "Stayed at Mulsanne for the second year running, no problems apart from a bit of loud music on the Thursday night from our German neighbours. Set up camp by the road in rather than in the main area by the toilets, showers etc. Mostly British, German, Dutch and Danish and all very friendly."

There is a large mound right up in the corner of the race track which is higher than the fence so if you are into your photography it's a good spot. There is also a Newspaper stand for the local French rag.

Campsite Pincenardiere

This site was established in 2008 after the reduction in size of Houx Annexe. Entrance is at the roundabout at the junction of Chemin Aux Boeufs and D92 Route de Tours, GPS Co-ordinates (WGS84) N 47°56.19' , E 0°12.93'. It is the same entry point as Beausejour and Dairon. The nearest viewing area, which is the Porsche Curves section, seems to be about 15-20 minutes walk away.

For the past 3 years the camp has been well staffed and organised. Always marked pitches 35² metres (7m x 5m). Open from Monday. The toilets seem to be working from the Monday with the showers usually switching on Tuesday PM or early Wednesday AM. There are two sets of portable toilet blocks and two sets of shower blocks all in the same location, however Dairon and Beausejour can be accessed easily and not too far away. There are no standpipes on this campsite except for those at this one location.

Pitches are marked out by the 'security' people = local students! - by knocking in stakes and red+white boundary tape. Turn up on Monday or early Tuesday to stake out your site because they don't mark out until Tuesday PM. They then tend to mark around you! This campsite has never filled up, but – don't take the mick' – leave enough space for everyone else.

The gravel roads are pretty substantial but raised in places, so be careful with those low sportscars. The grass is normally freshly mown when you arrive Tuesday AM, but by the end of the week it can turn into hay, so careful with BBQ's and campfires. Generally the ground is flat, even and reasonably soft. I have never experienced any floods except for a small section by the main entrance (because it has dipped where everyone is driving off the gravel).

The campsite has direct links with Dairon and Beausejour (just hedges or rows of trees), therefore many of the amenities can be shared. Food facilities and Medical Centre are located by the main entrance to Beausejour (about a 3 minute walk), as are additional toilets and showers.

Track access via Porsche Curves can be accessed easily from either outside the circuit or from internally by walking across Beausejour.

All in all, Pincenardiere is a nice little campsite, quite quiet (except for our group) and still fairly civilised. It is not En-Route to anywhere else, so you don't get too many wanderers. Any wrong-uns can be easily identified by your neighbours or the security attendants. Easy access to Bars and Shops at Arnage is also a plus point (Just about a nice walk – or short drive).

The downside is definitely the distance from the main arena, although the little trains can be caught from right outside the site and go to Karting Nord or Technoparc roundabout and from there on towards Antares. In addition, there is a train running from underneath the bridge by the Porsche Curves that runs up to the main (Nord) entrance.

- Ticket: 51 € (2012)
- Toilets, Showers

Campsite Tetre Rouge

Other campsites offer a wild atmosphere, unlimited space for massive groups, or non-stop partying. Tetre Rouge's charms are more sedate and relaxed - a calm retreat beside the storm being unleashed on the track literally metres away. It's been described as "noisy" in the previous CA reviews. It isn't, although the proximity of the track does mean it isn't quiet either. Campers are mainly small groups of Brits and French.

Tetre Rouge is one of the smallest campsites, with no more than 350 unreserved pitches. These are now marked out standard-sized areas, although the wooden pegs and barrier tape used for this are quickly scavenged for firewood. Most locations are fairly flat and grassed, with a few concreted areas ideal for motor homes. Unlike many other sites, there are mature pine trees throughout most of the site so there's a fair amount of shade..

There are no refreshment outlets on site, but there is a bar and concession stands within staggering distance of the site entrance, and the Stella Bar is close by. Security is pretty good, with a high wire fence surrounding the whole site and friendly staff on permanent duty.

Turning right out of the main exit (or use the side exit when open) brings you to the Museum, and 10 minutes the village and tribunes. In the other direction, Tetre Rouge corner, the tram stop to get into Le Mans, and the Stella bar are less than 5 minutes away. Those feeling lazy need go no further than the spectator banking overlooking the Esses right in front of the campsite, complete with a big screen opposite.

There's a second entrance at the Western end of the site (pedestrian only) open during peak times only.

Three toilet & shower 'portacabins' are kept clean usually with hot water for showers. Queues aren't massive, even at the busiest times. Water standpipes are located near each of the toilet blocks, and have standard threaded tap fittings. In 2008 there were just 3 electric hook-up points across the entire site, you'll need to come with plenty of extension cables and extension blocks if you want juice on tap.

Access: For first-timers, getting to Tetre Rouge campsite can be "interesting". Follow the ACO's coloured direction signs by all means, but the real secret is knowing that the entrance is accessed from the D338 (the old N138) at the junction with the D323 - this is literally at the very apex of Tetre Rouge corner and the start of the Mulsanne straight. The entrance is in the shadow of the D323 flyover. This is also a pedestrian entrance to the circuit, so it's busy with race-goers during practice sessions and the race itself. Important: You need general race entrance tickets for all car occupants before you arrive at the campsite, even if you arrive early in the week: If you're lucky, the ticket booth next to the entrance will be open. Beyond the gate, a newly tarmaced lane winds pleasantly down the side of the track. Ignore the gated entrances that you reach first at the bottom of a short hill - these are private camping enclosures for race marshals. Instead, drive up the hill and behind a grandstand that's in front of you, and you soon come to Tetre Rouge campsite entrance on your right. Tickets will need to be shown again here, and don't forget to collect a counter-mark-ticket when you leave the campsite.

Forum comments about Tertre Rouge:

2011: "We were on Tertre Rouge for the 8th year, pitches aren't numbered, we found a decent spot arriving at Thursday lunchtime, there was more room this year than in previous years when Wednesday evening or Thursday would see all the best spots gone, it was sold out so I'm assuming the ACO reduced the number of tickets sold."

2011: "About 12th year on TR for us, pitches are first come first served but are marked out and enforced by the security, smallest and most expensive of all campsites and rocking horse poo is usually easier to obtain so do not expect ACO availability, campsites is more civilised than others and security very tight so much safer, mostly english,dutch and french with a few norwegians and danish, most have camped in the exact same spot for many years..."

Alternative campsites

In case you don't get any tickets for the trackside campsites or you want to camp away from the noise and are willing to commute a little bit, there are some alternative sites not too far from the circuit. For a complete overview a look at www.lescampsdefrance.com could be useful. The following campsites have been used by CA members in the past:

Le Bounty

Etang des Cheres, F-72220 Teloche, Phone: +33 (0)2392 460 948 (John), E-mail: info@carpbookings.co.uk
Website: www.bountylemans.com

Just off the N138, app. 4 km south of Mulsanne. Facilities: Clubhouse Restaurant & Bar, 1664 on draft (English Ale London Pride on hand pump over race events), covered lakeside terraces, large lakeside marque, lakeside camping, 6 caravan pitches with power hook ups, parking for camper vans, large secure hard standing car park, new toilets & showers with 24 hour constants hot water. Refurbished this year with "ladies only" facilities like shower, loo and new for 2010 washroom/changing room with UK 13amp power socket. Large wide screen Satellite TV showing the 24 hour race (and other sporting events) & Live Radio Le Mans outside on the terrace. A CA member who stayed there commented:

"Well, we stayed at the Auberge le Bounty this year. Very nice place ... Food was great, and there was a nice little bar. Made a nice change from the campsite melee ...Recommended to anyone who wants a little more peace with shuttle bus service to and from the circuit."

For 2011 they offered various packages: a 3 night/4 day package is £ 205 per person, a 4 night/5 day package is £ 235 per person. This comes with a full English breakfast help yourself to toast, juice, tea, evening meal and sweet, one evening a b-b-q without a burger in sight! Guest can use a the free ample shuttle transport (runs Thursday to Sunday), extra days camping can be booked for free (ask them for details). Tent hire per person complete with air bed, camping fees are charged per person whether using single or multi person tents, caravans or campers (small extra charge for electric hook up). The place is under English ownership - owned by Steve and John - and managed by Karen & Dene, the latter is a former Michelin * chef. Full details of those packages can be found on their website. They also cater for fishermen. The place has been recommended by several CA members with good, down to earth British cooking. They cover the MotoGP, The 24 Hour and the Classic under Fat Fish Motor Sport.

Camping du Houssay – The “Spay” campsite

F-72700 Spay, Phone: +33-(0)2 43 21 16 58 or 33, Fax: +33-(0)2 43 21 69 95

Website: www.ville-spay.fr (in French, follow the link to „camping“), 92 places open from 1st April – 31st October

Getting there: It's about 15 km away from the circuit. To get to the Spay campsite from the circuit pass by the entrance to Maison Blanche heading towards Arnage. At the roundabout turn right, follow the road across the railway line and into the centre of Arnage coming out at the “fountain roundabout”. Turn left at the “fountain roundabout” and follow this road out of the village crossing over two more roundabouts. Continue out of the village for a couple of kilometres to a big crossroads with a signpost indicating a right turn to Spay. Turn right; follow this road under the motorway bridge then a sharp right turn then a narrow single lane bridge over the river. After the bridge you will see a sports centre on the right, the entrance to the campsite is immediately after the sports centre on the right.

As you pull into the campsite, stop at the building on the right which is reception. The manageress speaks no English or other languages, only French, but she is very friendly and tries very hard to help. You will need your passport, a means of paying and a deposit in cash (app. 20 €) for the electronic passkey which operates the vehicle gate at the entrance to the campsite. The price per night is app. 7 – 8 € per person and 2 – 3 € for electricity. The site varies as to whether they allocate you a pitch or let you go off and choose. It is understood that an overflow field is used for the 24 hour car race. The main campsite is a horseshoe shape around the lake in the middle. Pitches are of a good size, and the site is very peaceful although there is some road noise from the adjacent main road.

Facilities: Main Campsite – there is an electricity supply to each pitch which takes a standard camping “blue” Euro plug (not a two pin plug as used on Houx). Power is usually within four or five metres of each pitch. It is not known whether there is an electricity supply to the overflow field. There is a fairly new central block that provides toilets, showers, washing up sinks and laundry sinks. There is no toilet roll provided so take your own. The facilities were all cleaned regularly to a very good standard. There is plenty of hot water in the showers, the washing up sinks and the laundry sinks. There is very little shade, there are a couple of trees but they do not provide much effective shade.

Local village – it is a nice walk (around a kilometre) to Spay village where you will find a bakery (nice chocolate croissants), butchers, pharmacy, bar, café and a small supermarket that has most things you might need.

Booking: In previous years the advertised telephone numbers and fax numbers have been for the Mayor's office and messages left do not appear to get through. It is also difficult to phone unless your French is pretty good!

From experience it has not been necessary to book in advance, however for the 24 Hours it's probably sensible to try.

Le Val de Sarthe

Rue Abreuvoir, F-72170 Beaumont sur Sarthe, Phone +33(0)2 43 97 01 93
E-Mail: beaumont-sur-sarthe@wanadoo.fr

A pleasant municipal site in the centre of the small town of Beaumont sur Sarthe, located about 20 kilometres from the northern edge of Le Mans along the N138 (D338). The pitches are a good size and marked out with hedges. Some of the pitches are well shaded, others in the open. The sanitary facilities are reportedly the best encountered anywhere. The site is adjacent to the River Sarthe, and is very tranquil.

There is a municipal swimming pool located at the entrance to the site, and the centre of the village with cafés, bars and small supermarket is only a few minutes walk. Access for large campers is a bit tricky but manageable (one CA member got in with a car and 7m caravan). A reservation is recommended.

- 73 pitches, hot and cold water, electricity, washing machines, reception open from 10.00 am – 8.00 pm
- Fees (2006): Car, large caravan, one person, electric hook-up -6.35 € per night.

Camping Municipal Le Porte Liberge

Rue du Port Liberge, F-72500 Vaas, Phone: +33-(0)2 43 46 70 29, Fax +33-(0)2 43 46 17 75,
E-mail: mairie.vaas@wanadoo.fr

A small campsite located in a village at the banks of a river, 33 pitches, electricity, children's playground It's approximately 20 km away from the circuit.

Camping Municipal Écommoy

F-72220 Écommoy, Phone: +33(0)2 43 42 14 14, E-mail: mairieecommoy@wanadoo.fr

Écommoy is situated 10 kilometres south of Mulsanne on the D338 (the Tours road). The campsite is a municipal one, well signposted to the left as you enter Écommoy (going south). It has 60 pitches, and is on slightly rising ground, but the pitches are level. The ground is mainly grassed but with slightly sandy areas. Part of the site has marked pitches bound by hedges, whilst other areas are free-format. Most of the pitches are well-shaded. There is a barrier across the entrance operated by a card-key, which you are supplied with after paying. The sanitary block has everything you would wish for, and although it is not new, is kept very clean and tidy. There is also a swimming pool (open air in summer) opposite the site entrance. The site is only a short walk to the centre of the village which has all the usual offerings of a French village – shops, bars etc. Some Le Mans regulars use this site for the duration rather than the ACO sites – it is only a short hop from there to the circuit, and the fees are very cheap. One CA member reported that they do not take reservations.

Camping Le Vieux Moulin

F-72190 Neuville-sur-Sarthe, Phone: +33 (0)2 43 25 31 82, Fax: +33 (0)2 43 25 38 11
E-mail: christopher.dean@tiscali.fr, Website: www.lemanscamping.net

This is a large campsite just 8 miles north of Le Mans. Reports on the web say that this campsite is managed by some Brits and comments found were very positive. Reportedly they are running their own shuttle bus to and from the circuit. There are approximately 100 pitches, some chalets to rent and the usual facilities like water, electricity, sanitary blocks and laundry. They've also got an outdoor swimming pool, mini golf and a children's playground. If you plan to stay there, it's worth having a closer look at their website (in English and French language); there's a detailed access map, prices, a lot of other information and an online booking form.

How to get there: It is 8 miles north of Le Mans on the D338 at "Saint Saturnin". By motorway via A11/A81 and A28 take exit N°7, direction Sillé le Guillaume. At the Saint Saturnin traffic lights, just follow the road signs.

Chateau de Chanteloup

F-72460 Sille-Le-Philippe, Phone: +33 (0)2 43 27 51 07, Fax: +33 (0)2 43 89 05 05
E-mail: chanteloup.souffront@wanadoo.fr, Website: www.chateau-de-chanteloup.com

They offer lodging in an old French castle and a campsite at reasonable rates, have a look at their website for detailed information and online booking.

How to get there: It's about 25 km away from the circuit, by the A11 motorway take the gate N°6 "Le Mans Centre Tours", then direction "Le Mans Centre" and "Savigné l'Evêque" (D 301); from "Le Mans", direction "Bonnetable" (D 301).

Municipal Camping Site "Le Port"

A really nice picturesque site with 108 pitches at the side of La Sarthe River, only 200m from town centre and 10 miles from circuit. The site offers calm and rest, with municipal swimming pool, tennis, table tennis and snack bar. If you want a good clean site with a bit of comfort and a toilet with paper, this is a site with a strong recommendation.

One CA member has stayed there the last 10 years, the agency Just Tickets also used it, but it is still quieter and cleaner than some track options - 3 shower blocks. The town has a nice village square, an excellent Super U and a couple of bars, not to mention rail station. Camp site does not have its own web site but does have a warden on site. It has a security fence and barrier system, but closes to car access after 10pm, so after qualification you have to park on the car park outside. All pitches have electric hook ups if required, essential for electric coolers and beers. Rates and a full list of facilities can be found at the following URL:

Campsite Security – Be Aware!!!

Previous editions of this guide have stated that Le Mans campsites are generally pretty safe places to be and that campers tend to keep an eye out for one another. That remains true but, after the 2007 race it became clear that there had been a significant increase in the confirmed reports from people who had valuables stolen, or where attempts had been made to do so from them on a number of the campsites. So, to give you a better chance of keeping your valuables safe and, importantly knowing what to do if you do suffer from a theft, we've added some more detailed information to the guide. The guidance applies all the time you are there, but in particular at the really busy times, when the campsites are full on the Friday through to the Sunday when the general public are milling all around everywhere as well.

Before you go

Have a written list to take with you of any useful phone numbers and contacts you might need to cancel bank cards, credit cards, or traveller's cheques that you have taken with you. Include contacts for breakdown organisations and car dealerships in case your car is damaged, and your mobile phone provider, in case that gets taken. Have a copy of that list available to someone at home who can do the contacting for you if necessary. We haven't provided a full list here, as the details would be incomplete or soon out of date, and it is your responsibility to know them anyway, but the more popular banks and other locations are listed at the bottom of this section. For UK citizens, the loss of a passport isn't a huge drama, but it could well be for others trying to leave France and return to their country - so it is worth having the necessary phone numbers for local embassy/consular staff (who'll probably be in Paris) and your country of residence's immigration services on the list as well.

Basic Precautions

- Bring as few valuables and documents as possible with you – OK, you need your camera and/or camcorder but expensive watches and jewellery aren't really essential during race week.
- Keep your cash, passports, bank cards, wallets & cameras with you or leave them securely locked in your car out of sight when away from the campsite. Never leave them in your tent.
- Some theft attempts have been made while people have been asleep in their tent. Don't leave valuables - or bags containing them - close to the tent entrance. Locate them so that anyone has to climb over a bundle of stuff and on top of you to get at anything, which will wake you up, no matter how heavy a sleeper you are or how much beer you have consumed. Other ideas are to put car keys and other valuables in a small tobacco tin or plastic box, big enough to protect and not to press any central locking buttons by accident, then stash the box with you in your sleeping bag, or put them in a money belt and wear it.
- Make sure your car or bike is properly secured before leaving for the racetrack or turning in for the night.
- If you are using a generator it's a good idea to use a heavy-duty motorcycle chain & lock to secure it, alternatively store it in the boot or van when not in use.
- If you are bringing mini-motos, bicycles and the like, then secure them properly.
- If you are camping in a large group, get organized - if someone is always on site, then the risk of theft is much lower.

Some other recommendations from CA members:

- "You may whinge at this but, I keep keys/passports/wallets etc within my shorts or trousers at all times and I sleep in them. Too pissed to take them off in the tent. They are changed the next day and if able to be 'recycled' will be worn again."
- "I've used a little padlock on the inside of the tent zips in the past - I wonder if even a bit of coat hanger wire bent through the fly screen zips would be enough deterrent to the casual thief (i.e. can't unzip the zips quickly, so move on)"
- "Better perimeter protection - we used tape which was pegged to the ground this year, just to mark out the area for our group who were arriving at different times. Picket posts and plastic fencing (like at DfH's site) would make it more awkward/difficult to gain casual access/egress to/from the group's area without arousing suspicion or tripping over it, particularly in the dark."
- "Loud portable alarms that can be fixed so that they are triggered by the opening of tent flaps or doors, or the movement of items such as bags or keys. There are plenty of these around on the market for around a fiver each, which can be fixed in place so that the movement of a zip, bag, door or key bunch would trigger them. Similarly, there are wireless infra-red sensors that can be linked to an alarm sounder, although these may be more subject to triggering by drunken members of the group pitching back into the site late at night."

What to do when the worst has happened

If you catch a thief in the act, some people might be tempted to dish out punishment on the spot – up to you, but anything you do is at your own risk and remember that the thief might be armed, have a bundle of mates, or you might just get yourself into more trouble with the law. So be careful, but shout and scream about it so that everyone else in the vicinity is aware of what is going on! If you are lucky, such as being nearby a public road, there might even be a proper policeman around who should take an interest; some people have tried to involve the campsite security people but they are often not willing to get involved, as their job seems to be to administer pitches and check for valid tickets.

If the theft has happened when you have been away or asleep, once you have got over being angry and wound up over it, then think calmly and list everything that has been taken. Then do a quick search around the area of the tent and ask neighbours if anyone has seen anything; the thief will often take a bag, rifle through it to find what he wants and then dump what he doesn't want within a hundred metres of the tent. Make the necessary calls to cancel missing bank cards, credit cards and travellers cheques - from your mobile if you have still got it, from a payphone if you have the cash, or by asking if someone can lend you a phone so that you can call the other person that you left a copy of the list with – then you only need to make one international call instead of several.

Then go and report it to the police - they need to be aware of the level of thefts going on, and you will need the paperwork that they will give you to help you get back to your country of residence and with making any insurance claim! This does not mean just talking to the local policeman on traffic duty, the CRS riot squad van, the local gendarmerie or someone in the ACO. You must go to the Commissariat de Police in the centre of Le Mans:

Commissariat de Police, 6 Rue Coëffort , P.O. Box 554, 72017 Le Mans Cedex, Phone +33 (0)2 43 61 68 00

You then tell them what has happened and they give you a nicely stamped official declaration of loss form.

For UK citizens, although the official advice is that you must report the theft of a passport to the FCO and/or local embassy for them to issue you with temporary travel documents, this would mean travelling to Paris, waiting until the office opens on Monday and sorting it out from there. This may need to be done if you are travelling by air, but for car travellers, when this has happened to Le Mans goers in the past, the police declaration form and a combination of explaining the loss at the ferry check and answering the questions of the nice immigration people at Dover.

Portsmouth or the like has worked well. Last but not least, the most important advice - Don't get paranoid. Overall, the majority of campers still enjoy a trouble-free weekend.

A few weeks prior to the race in 2009, a CA member sent an e-mail to the A.C.O about this topic:

Good afternoon,

I have 15 tickets for Camping Bleu Nord for the 24h du Mans this year, and will be camping with a large group as we have done for several years. Last year, when we returned to our camp site on Sunday after the finish of the race, a lot of our camping equipment had been stolen – and many other people near us had items stolen from their camp sites. Groups who were not camping, were driving around in their cars and vans, stealing from wherever they wanted. Some even were caught and, I believe, the police were called.

Security is quite good for several days before the race, and during the race: access marshals will only allow vehicles into the camp site if they are displaying a camping pass. Last year, however, any vehicle was allowed into the camp site as soon as the race finished, and this allowed a lot of theft from the camp sites of people who were staying on Sunday night.

I would like to request that this year, the access marshals should only allow vehicles displaying a camping permit, to access the camping site on Sunday afternoon/night.

Could you please let me know if this is the plan?

Thanks

The answer of the A.C.O. was not very comforting:

Dear Sir,

The 24 Heures campsites are extremely vast and despite the presence of security personnel who patrol these areas, together with controllers checking access points, we are unable to guarantee that there will be no thefts, in view of the large number of tents, campers and caravans on the sites.

We advise all those who camp under tents to lock away their belongings inside the boots of their vehicles, so as not to offer any temptation to ill-intentioned people.

Once the race has finished, a lot of the controllers are deployed by the traffic police. This would explain why you did not find so many controllers situated around the camping areas.

Yours faithfully.

Getting there

Whilst the majority takes a car to Le Mans it's possible to do the weekend using a combination of planes, trains and buses. French public transport can be punctual and good value.

To Le Mans by air

Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport (CDG) is the nearest major international airport to Le Mans, it's about 20 miles north of Paris. It has 3 terminals and a railway station served by the French high speed train TGV, more details further below. The other Paris airport is Orly, whilst it is located closer to Le Mans it does not have a direct TGV link. There is a direct coach link between the airports at a cost of about 16 euros. Alternatively Orly also has a train station for access to Paris city centre.

Nantes Airport (NTE) is also a possibility if you can fly www.ryanair.com. From Nantes a hire car or train (TGV) is possible. This is only 121 miles by road.

Le Mans Airport: If money is not a problem, there is one other way to Le Mans, shortest journey time of all and just a walk over the street to the circuit. You'd need to hire a private plane as there aren't (currently) any scheduled flights. A quick search found the following <http://www.mayfairdove.co.uk/> not to Le Mans but to Paris for £1500 day return, so Le Mans for £5-6000 looks possible.

From the Paris airports to Le Mans by car: Its also easy to pick up a car and drive to the circuit. No full details here as the routes offered by www.theaa.com or www.rac.com give accurate directions and will be updated. The distance to Arnage is 151 miles. If you arrive at Orly then you have an advantage of being at least 20 minutes closer and with less traffic to contend with, from there it's about 127 miles to Arnage. A few points on driving to the circuit:

- Don't miss the turns as it is difficult to re join the motorway, especially don't miss one of the first turns and end up heading into Paris - a very bad move.
- Depending on the time of day the routes around Paris can be very busy and come to a standstill allow extra time for your journey.
- If there happened to be a public transport strike (as in 2003) the roads will be solid.
- Fill up the car with fuel before dropping it off as the hire companies normally expect a full tank or they may charge far more to fill it themselves. There is at least one station at CDG airport.

By train from Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport to Le Mans: Train tickets should be booked in advance, this can be done online at www.sncf.fr, they have an English language version of their website. The airport station is AEROPORT CDG 2 TGV, the station at Le Mans is called LE MANS GARE. If you book more than a month in advance there is a discount. Tickets will be delivered to your home. Another option is to use raileurope at www.raileurope.co.uk, there you can book 3 months in advance. The SNCF French Railways station at Paris-Charles-de Gaulle is located in Terminal 2:

- Level 1 : Platforms for TGV, Thalys, Mainline and RER B regional express trains
- Level 2 : SNCF French Railways station, Relay (books, magazines & tobacco etc); booking office & info; bar with food; toilets
- Level 3 : Hotel Sheraton Business Center
- Level 4 : Moving walkways for accessing Terminals 2C, 2D, 2E and 2F
- Level 5 : Departure level for Taxis and Hotel shuttles

In your arrivals terminal, take a look at the times of TGV, Thalys, Mainline and RER B regional express trains shown on the information screens. These screens are located opposite the exits from the baggage claim areas in Terminal 2 (A, B, C, D, E and F). Moving from one Terminal to the next is easy since the introduction of the CDGVAL subway, e.g. the trip from Terminal 1 to Terminal 2 takes 8 minutes. You also need to validate your ticket with a punch machine ("Composter") located at the escalators above the platform. Locate the approximate place to stand by checking the monitors on the platform against your seat number.

If you miss your booked TGV, don't panic, you can exchange your ticket for one on the following TGV. The exchange will cost the difference between the price of the original ticket & the price of the ticket on the day plus a handling fee (approx 30 EURO). Also, don't worry, they do speak English.

Train schedule from Paris Charles de Gaulle Airport to Le Mans (Subject to change, please check at www.sncf.fr for the latest schedule): Dep. 10:28 – Arr. 12:07; Dep. 13:16 – Arr. 14:51; Dep. 15:42 – Arr. 17:22; Dep. 18:25 – Arr. 20:08; Dep. 20:34 – Arr. 22:20;

To reach the SNCF French Railways station in Paris city centre:

- From Terminal 1: Take the Aéroports de Paris subway CDGVAL. Stop at “Terminal 2 Gare” and follow the signs for “Paris par train” (Paris by train) or stop at “Terminal 3 / RoissyPôle” to use RERB to Paris.
- From Terminal 2: Follow the signs for “Paris par train” (Paris by train) using the moving walkway. An easy 10 minute walk from Terminal 2A/Terminal 2B.
- From Terminal 3: Take the footpath (about a 250 meter walk) and follow the signs for “Paris par train” (Paris by train). Use RERB to Paris or use the Aéroports de Paris subway CDGVAL and stop at “Terminal 2 Gare”.

Trains to “Gare du Nord” depart every 10 to 15 minutes between 0500 & 0000, travel time is approximately 30 to 45 minutes. Current fares are 8.50 EUR.

From Le Mans railway station to the racetrack: Please see the chapter “Transport in le Mans” in this guide

From the UK to Le Mans by train: From the UK it's possible to get the Eurostar to Paris, then a TGV to Le Mans. However it means changing stations. www.eurostar.co.uk will provide the itinerary and prices. This is probably the quickest route from central London. It is actually possible to change in either Lille or Paris. The Eurostar website did not give up the route details easily so make sure you get the right connection. The Lille station is LILLE EUROPE not just Lille if you enter it into the SNCF website. So it should only be a platform change. The change in Paris requires a station change so either using the Metro, RTE (suburban service), or taking the time above ground and sightseeing. You would arrive at “Gare du Nord” and need to get to “Gare Montparnasse” allowing an hour by Metro.

From the UK ports to Le Mans by car

Over the next few pages, route directions from all of the channel ports are listed, they use the most direct and quickest roads. Terminating at the Centre des expositions, where tickets are collected, and it is also close to the circuit main entrance. The following table gives an overview of distances and toll costs (according to viamichelin.com) from the ferry ports to the circuit and approximate journey times.

From the northern ferry ports the route is either via Rouen or by-passes it. The whole route (except the bit through Rouen!) is autoroute since the latest section of the A28 was opened. Going via Paris is an option; although, it is not for the faint hearted, you really need an encyclopaedic knowledge of the road system or a very good sat-nav. Also the Paris Peripherique is similar to the M25 and at times is a slow moving car park. If going straight to a “camp-site” which in ACO terminology is known as an “Aire d’Accueil” or if just “parking the car” which in ACO terminology is “Parking” look out for the appropriate coloured route sign as you near the circuit. Your ticket will clearly show the route to be followed. For example, Camping at Beausejour, you will need to follow “Itineraire Jaune” or “Parking Jaune”, this is more relevant when the circuit is “live” and the one way system is in operation. There are a number of useful maps which show the one-way system, either look here or use the official programme.

Boulogne to Le Mans - A pretty route for sports cars – Avoid big towns and boring roads

Town	Directions	Miles	Cum. Miles
Boulogne
	From the port, follow directions to Abbeville (A16 motorway). Just prior to the motorway junction, is an E Leclerc hypermarket – a good fuel stop. Then on to the motorway, through the toll plaza and over the viaducts. This part of the journey is over a fast, relatively quiet toll motorway. It is a good psychological boost to eat up a few miles into France before lunch time. Alternatively, if you have plenty of time and fancy a more sedate start to your journey; take the near parallel D940 out of Boulogne down the coast towards Le Touquet, then Berck, Le Crotoy and then the D40 towards the A28 at Abbeville to continue the route below.	54
Abbeville			54
	Just before Abbeville, exit at junction 23 to the A28 motorway towards Rouen, paying at the toll plaza. At junction 3, leave the motorway and continue on the route national - D925 - D928(N28) There now follows a lovely tree lined stretch of road with good straights and long bends through a number of small villages. This road parallels the motorway and crosses and re-crosses it occasionally. Foucarmont has a subtle one way system that can catch out the unwary.	32
Neufchatel			86
	Just before Neufchatel, the road again crosses the motorway and then heads downhill in a nice twisty section into a valley and the town of Neufchatel. Here is a good stop for an early lunch. Park in the square by the church. Look out for other groups of Brits in little sports cars. Around the church and square are a number of quality cafes - bistros with the usual French fare - plat de jour. When you've filled up on Croc Monsieur and Leffe, continue towards St Martin Osmonville - D928	17
A28 junction 12			103
	Even though the roads through Rouen have been improved, any way of skirting the main centre can be a challenge. To continue the 'pretty route' theme with the minimum of drama, this is what I suggest. Rejoin the A28 motorway at junction 12. I suggest stopping at Quincampoix rest area for a comfort break and to 'regroup' prior to attacking Rouen.	17
Rouen			120
	Continue into Rouen, down into the tunnel. Now pay attention. BEFORE you cross the River Seine, turn off the motorway onto the N14 / N15 towards the airport. This is a tricky junction with traffic lights, watch out for battered Renaults trying to push into your lane. At the fork in the road, head right downhill on the N15. Big clue – the River Seine will be on your right – you are on the east bank.	15
Rouen			135
	At a roundabout, continue right on the D7 towards Cleon. This will shortly become a duel carriageway and pass under the A13 motorway. There are now many traffic lights – easy to split up your group. Follow the D7 towards Elbeuf, crossing the River Seine.	15

Elbeuf			150
	Drive thorough Elbeuf town and up the hill, heading towards Verneuil, the road becoming the D840. This next stretch again follows the French tradition of long, empty, tree lined straight roads – great for care free, top down motoring. Either follow the le Neubourg, Conches and Breteuil bypasses or pass through the villages (taking in a bit of the local culture / more wine and beer) continuing on the - D84	42
Verneuil			192
	Follow the 'ring road' and join the N12 towards Mortagne, this road has a number of dual carriageway stretches – great for convoy photos. Approaching Mortagne, follow the centre ville signs and directions to Belleme (D930 / D912 / D938).	24
Mortagne			216
	As before, Mortagne has a main square and a labyrinth of one way lanes. Just keep and eye out for signs and directions. Above all, follow your heart as Le Mans is just over the horizon. Continue on the D938 to Belleme.	12
Belleme			228
	Yet more tree lined vistas as your approach this small town. Continue on the D938 / D301 through St Cosme en Vairais to Bonnetable.	16
Bonnetable			244
	On the Bonnetable bypass, look out for signs to the Super U. This is a convenient fuel stop and, perhaps, a place to stock up on provisions and beer for your first night under canvas. Continue on the D301 to Savigne.	10
Savigne l'Eveque			254
	You're getting excited now. Turn left on the D20bis. Continue, shortly, the road parallels a motorway. Follow signs towards Change and join the N23 dual carriageway. Leave the N23 at either the N138 (for a clockwise tour of the public road sections of the 24 Hour circuit) or the next junction on (D139) and follow the loop road to the main entrance of the circuit. For Maison Blanche campsite – follow signs to Camping / Parking Blanc.	11
Le Mans			265
	You've arrived, set your camp up, met old friends and are on your way to the Stella Bar for a well earned cold Leffe. Have a great time, see some of the racing and soak up the atmosphere – you'll be back next year. As a challenge, now try this route in reverse, back to Boulogne. We'll see you on the way.

Advice when using the tunnel

- Number plate recognition software is now being used so the automatic kiosks do not require you to use your plastic unless you have not given them the correct registration number.
- The customs at Calais are now outside the shopping area so you complete all the formalities before getting the chance to shop and/or buy food.

Those who have tried a quick getaway at the end of the race know that the traffic at the end of the race can be a nightmare. I have tried and tested a route for avoiding traffic although it does involve watching the end of the race from Mulsanne. Before the end of the race (a good two hours before) you need to move your car up to Mulsanne. I would recommend parking in Mulsanne village somewhere (rather than the official Mulsanne enclosure car park) or at Hotel Arbor on the Mulsanne straight. Watch the end of the race from Mulsanne/Hotel Arbor and head back to your car. The map below shows Mulsanne corner at the bottom left (bordering the golf course) and in the top right hand corner the D304 joining the A28. This is the junction that you need to get to. Simply follow the escape route marked on the map!

From Mulsanne village take the Route de Mulsanne North. Route de Mulsanne runs off Avenue de Bonen and the turn to get onto it is between the roundabout and the Champion supermarket. Follow Route de Mulsanne towards the village of Ruadun (passing on your left the track that leads down to Hotel Arbor and the 2nd chicane). As you approach the village turn right at the first roundabout onto Rue du Vieil Hetre. This is the main road through the village. Follow for 0.5 Km and take the third turn on the right onto Route de Parigne-l'Eveque. This will take you out of the village. After 0.8 Km you will see a fork going off to your right. Ignore this and continue for another 0.2 Km and take a left turn onto Chemin de la Guiltiere. This road snakes its way through the fields for approx 2 Km until you arrive at a t-junction with the D304 (top right of the map below). Turn right and in approx 1 Km you will arrive at the roundabout where you can filter onto the N28 and happily whiz up to the A11 that will take you across the top of Le Mans, safely away from all the congestion. Hooray!

We encountered absolutely no traffic when leaving from Hotel Arbor in '08. You might encounter a little bit of traffic in Mulsanne village itself but I very much doubt it. The whole East side of the circuit is deserted during the race when compared to the Western side of the circuit.
